THE OLYMPIA SHOW.

SOME FURTHER EXHIBITS.

DELAGE.

The Delage exhibit consists of three of the 29.4 h.p. eight-cylinder models, one 22 h.p. six-cylinder, and one 18.2 h.p. six-cylinder. Details of the large, straight eight are 77 mm. bore and 109 mm. stroke, with overhead valves of stainless steel, operated by push-rods and rockers, pressure lubrication, servo brakes, and a system of chassis lubrication which involves only five greasers, all easily accessible. It is shown as a chassis which reveals the very fine workmanship of every part, and the neat manner in which the components are distributed, and also as a saloon, and a sports coupe. For symmetrical proportions and beauty of outline, these Delage cars are outstanding even in an exhibition which includes many beautiful cars.

SUNBEAM.

The 1931 Sunbeam cars continue to exhibit the excellence of design and high quality of workmanship that always have distinguished productions bearing the name. There are three models, all with six cylinders, and of 16 h.p., 20 h.p., and 25 h.p., respectively. There are numerous little chassis improvements on the 16 h.p., and the design of the engine has been amended to give greater power. The same may be said of the 20 h.p., and in both cases the coachwork has been brought thoroughly up to date. A new model on the 20 h.p. chassis is a seven-seater limousine, which is a car of very pleasing appearance. The 25 h.p. retains the various special features that have contributed to its success, and, as a car in the luxury class, it is as good-looking as ever.

PEUGEOT.

Of the five exhibits on the Peugeot stand, no fewer than four are representative of the recently-introduced 10 h.p. model. Since it made its appearance in the earlier part of the year several detail alterations have been made. The back axle has been improved, and now possesses a convenient feature in the form of lugs for the purpose of providing a firm resting place for a jack, while camshaft and pistons have been improved in order to reduce vibration. In view of the undoubted merit of this car, it is not surprising that it should be prominently placed at Olympia. It is shown as a chassis, a four-seater saloon, a de luxe saloon, and a two-three seater cabriolet, with double dickey. Rating of this car is 9.8 h.p., and the four cylinders have a bore of 63 mm. and a stroke of 90 mm. The fifth car on the stand is the six-cylinder 16 h.p., known as the "183 model," the actual rating of which is 15.7 h.p. Bore is 65 mm. and stroke 100 mm., and, as in the smaller car, valves are of the side-by-side type. The larger car is shown as a three-seater, drop-head cabriolet, with double dickey. Elegant coachwork is a distinguishing feature of the new Peugeot cars.

RENAULT.

The Renault stand occupies a position of some prominence, and the exhibit consists of no fewer than ten cars, of which three are of the six-cylinder model, known as the Monasix. This has a rating of 12.5 h.p., with bore and stroke of 58 mm. and 93 mm. respectively, and side by side valves. There have been no constructional changes, but one or two amendments have been made in the chassis, and the bodywork has been further improved. These exhibits are all saloons, and are coloured brown, black and maroon respectively. The black saloon is upholstered in green leather and is a neat-looking car. There is also a Monastella coupe, the mechanical details of which resemble the Monasix, with the exception that Servo four-wheel brakes are fitted, and the lubrication is of the one-shot description. Then comes the four-cylinder 14/45 h.p. car shown as a saloon on a normal chassis and a saloon limousine on a long chassis. Two 21 h.p. six-cylinder cars are shown—the Vivasix saloon and the Vivastella sports saloon. The eight-cylinder Nervastella is shown as a saloon limousine, and the eight-cylinder Reinstella as a sportsman's saloon. Renault workmanship is at its best in the new models, which retain the outline for so long associated with the name.

MINERVA.

The Minerva stand contains a new model, shown for the first time. It has eight cylinders, with bore of 75 m.m., and stroke of 112 m.m., giving a rating of 27.9 h.p. Like other Minerva models, it has sleeve valves, and has a gear box of the most modern description giving four speeds, with a silent third, disc clutch, and vacuum operated brakes on all four wheels. The mechanism is beautifully made, and the finish is well up to the very high standard of Minerva workmanship. The other models are the 40 h.p. eight-cylinder, rated at 40.17 h.p., and the 32-34 h.p. six-cylinder, which has a rating of 33.5 h.p.

HUMBER.

The Humber programme for 1931 comprises the 16-50 h.p., the "Snipe" and the "Pullman," and two examples of each model are on show at Olympia. All are definitely in the forefront of the quality class. The 16-50 h.p. has a six-cylinder engine, with bore of 65 m.m. and stroke of 106 m.m., and unusual features are the inclined overhead inlet valves and side exhaust valves, with a detachable head. It has a down-draught carburetter, single plate clutch, and four speed gear box, with exceptionally powerful Bendix-Duo Servo four wheel brakes. It is shown as a saloon and a coupé, with drop head. The "Snipe," which has six cylinders and a rating of 23.8 h.p., has the same valve arrangement as the smaller model, the rating of which is 15.72 h.p., and is shown as a saloon of two types. The "Pullman" has the same chassis details as the "Snipe," but has a wheel-base of eleven feet, a foot longer, and this additional length enables full-sized bodies of the seven-seater saloon type to be fitted.

THE ATTENDANCE.

The paying attendance at Olympia for the Motor Show on Saturday was 36,308, against 36,635 last year.

Drastic Price Cuts

—and improved models

Citroen—always outstanding amongst motor car values—is now better value than ever. The price of every single model has been substantially reduced. In addition, basic improvements have been made, enabling Citroen to worthily maintain its place as "the best car value in the world."

THE "FOUR" FOR 1931 IS EVEN BETTER

Amongst many improvements effected the following are outstanding:—

New suspension of Engine—resulting in perfect seating freedom from noise and vibration, and added chassis strength.

New Pistons with longer skirt—reducing cylinder wear, and economising oil.

New Horizontal Solex Carburettor—increasing engine efficiency and improving acceleration.

Self Starter—now more conveniently located.

New Gear Box—similar to that fitted to C 6 models.

New Steering—with lighting controls and horn buttons on centre of steering wheel.

New Clutch—similar to that fitted on C 6 models.

New Front Axle—similar to that on C 6 models.

Improved Suspension—by lengthening of front springs.

The "four" now embodies all the main features which have been so successful in the "six." There are only minor changes in the latter, as it proved itself to be so amazingly reliable that no changes in design were necessary or desirable.

Let us send you catalogue fully describing and illustrating all the new models.

GOOSEBERRIES AND CURRANTS.

Writing on this subject in the Weekly Irish Times, the Garden Correspondent says:—Gooseberries and Currants are, needless to say, indispensable for the small garden, and in the case to which we are alluding they will be planted around the central plot devoted to vegetables—say, three feet back from the walks to give space for flowers. These bushes will be at intervals; hence we shall not allow for more than a dozen, six Amber and six Red Warrington, which can be altered with Red and White Currants, of which Comet is the finest red, but necessary to get from a reliable source, as others are too often substituted for it. Dutch White is, we think, the best of this kind. Of Black Currants, where room obtains for a few bushes, Boskoop Giant we consider the finest, as well as the freest from the Big Bud pest. We have, however, two strings to our bow in Gooseberries and Red and White Currants for the small garden, and that is growing on the sunless wall.

POULTRY, CAGE BIRDS, DAIRY.

INTENSIVISM.

Writing on this subject in the Weekly Irish Times, the Poultry Correspondent says:—The back-yarder and suburban poultry-keeper must keep his hens shut up, as he has no broad acres to let them roam over, but it is wonderful how fowls that have never known anything but confinement make themselves at home in limited surroundings. Eggs are often forthcoming quicker under these conditions when properly managed. The house should be perfectly dry, thoroughly clean, well ventilated without draught, and comfortably warm. Never use ashes on the dropping boards or on the floor: it gives an unpleasant odour. Peat is the best thing under the perches, but it is not good in the scratching litter if there be a chance of its being wet. Straw, leaves, bracken, sweepings of hay lofts are all good, and a slight mixture of sawdust, with a foundation of sand, gives depth and body. If the litter is too light and easily tossed about the grain is found too soon. We have often dried weeds from the garden and found them excellent with grass clippings. A mixture of sawdust and slaked lime is very wholesome to spread under the perches.

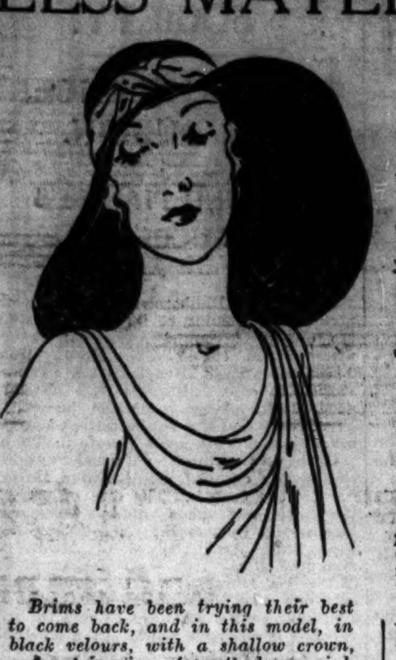
LESS MATERIAL IN NEW FASHIONS.



Brims have been trying their best to come back, and in this model, in black velours, with a shallow crown, and a trimming of swathed rose-pink crêpe-de-chine, we have a good example.

[Sketched in Paris.]

Paris Attempt to Popularise Flame Colour.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
PARIS, Sunday.

WE are threatened with a craze for flame-colour in the most startling of tints, for day wear, as well as for night.

I have already discussed in these columns the neutral tints for early autumn. Since then fresh ideas have arisen, and the couturières are intent upon making every woman dress in couleurs de flamme, whether she likes it or not.

"Elles y parviendront, toutes," they exclaimed, like conquerors, just as if we were to be driven like a pack of sheep, and forced to do what did not suit us!

No! indeed, messieurs. You may launch your materials, advertise them, have them paraded by all the leading mannequins, at the theatres, fashionable thés dansants, and at the races; but we will follow you only if these brilliant hues are becoming. Otherwise, no!

For the moment, the actresses are wearing flame-coloured velvets with longer skirts, and sleeveless bodices at the theatres. They are startling, even crude, and generally seem to suit them. But this is by artificial light. Would it be the same, one asks oneself, by daylight?

A "Saving" Grace.

One of the most noticeable features of the new fashions is the fact that the new gowns seen up to the present have far less material in them than was the case last year.

No longer are the dressmakers lavishly using many yards of material in the evening gowns to produce an effect. Instead, fullness is given by subtle cuttings and a clever use of pleating.

This does not mean that the gowns have not a graceful and flowing line, but it does make a distinct difference in the silhouette, which is none the less charming for the restraint. In fact, many women will welcome the change, which will obviate having to "manage" a too full skirt, to which they have not yet become completely accustomed.

One of the most noticeable points in the new fashions, however, is that individuality is being given full play. Periods have the honours, and there's no stopping them. You see some delicious little model that you think is ultra-modern, and was only born yesterday, the first of its species, and then the vendeuse whispers in your ear, "Egyptian, madame," and you remember that Cleopatra wore her skirt drapery that way.

Perhaps, it's the Empress Eugénie or some Chinese maiden from the Ming Dynasty who is responsible for the inspiration; but you simply must suggest in your appearance something old and supple and far away, if it's only the Persian embroidery on your dress or the Grecian simplicity of your line.

More About Millinery.

Choosing your hats is going to be a difficult business this autumn, for variety is the price of style. There are fifty different leading millinery fashions, and every one is a knock-out. Hats are back in the decorative class in earnest, and prettiness is all the mode. So also is beauty of hat-line and grace of drapery.

Velvet hats are in again. About fifty per cent. of the smart millinery seen in and out of Paris salons is made of velvet—real millinery velvet, pile velvet, like Paris used for dresses, and heaps of velveteen.

Taupe or Beaver is going to be fashionable—very. Felt revives, and enters the picture in new forms and new kinds.

Satins and satin braids are used to make really fashionable hats. It is evident that Miss Fashion doesn't intend to cover up her pretty curls entirely, no matter what hat she wears this autumn and winter.

All the new millinery is arranged to show part of woman's crowning glory, and some of it shows a good part of the hair either in front, at the side or in the back, and sometimes all round the head.

Many of the Paris autumn hats have no more than half a crown—a shallow, fitted crown, like a choir-boy's cap, is quite enough; and when a brim is added it is very supple, and folded back in front to show all of the forehead, some hair, and often the ears, or, at least, their locality at the sides. These brims are also cut away in the back in many places to show a cluster of curls below.

Trimmings and Colours.

Chenille and string embroidery trims lots of brimmed hats, and chenille is crocheted into bérets, bonnets and brimmed hats. Velvet ribbon, two or three strands of it, in as many colours, makes one of the favourite trimmings for Paris hats this autumn. Velvet flowers are tucked under the brims or tacked to the crowns of some Paris millinery.

Millinery colours, too, are stimulating. If your costume is in a rich warm shade you will probably choose your hat in the same colour, and you may add a bit of vivid trimming if you want to. A cerise or port-wine red hat may tone up a sombre ensemble.

Green hats and hats of dull orange will be good, and black and white hats will be legion. Hats of turquoise velvet strike a new note with black clothes, and bright blue hats are smart and pretty, too. Lots of pretty hair is being shown all around the new, very small Paris bonnet, which barely covers half the head.

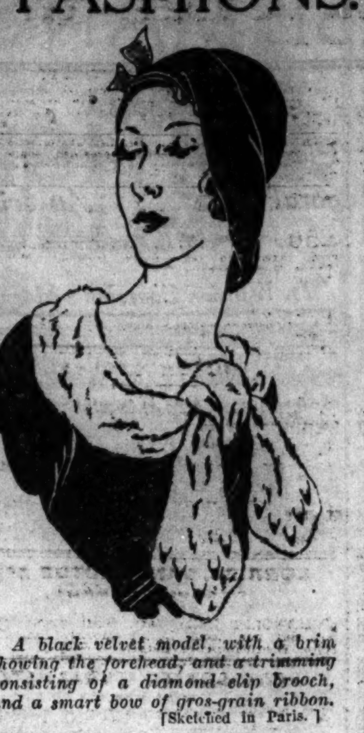
New Paris Lingerie.

The very latest sets of lingerie seen in Paris are of one design and one colour. They are made of fine georgette or chiffon, fleur-de-soie or mousseline-de-soie, which some women prefer to the softer silk fabrics. A step-in or separate drawers, chemise and nightgown are, for instance, all in one shade of green—the rage of the season—rose, blue or yellow.

Some are made on simple, extremely practical lines, with lace and ribbon to ornament the edges. Others are pleated—a smart style, but requiring constant and expensive attention.

All of the colours are more gentle than those of last year, and many charming undersets are made in pastel and neutral shades—champagne, pervenche, orchid and the softest, palest green.

High lights in lingerie are being shown in red—red of many sorts and kinds. There are the pulsing scarlets of single geraniums, lacquer red, vermilion, coral and the brighter flower shades, lovely in the effect of sheer silky material over flesh tint. By the rule of contrast these gaily-coloured underthings are worn by women who select the plainest designs and the most sombre colours for their gowns.



A black velvet model, with a brim showing the forehead, and a trimming consisting of a diamond clip brooch, and a smart bow of gros-grain ribbon.

A Letter from One Girl to Another.

DEAR MARY,—Have you ever suffered from the infuriating superiority of menfolk when, owing to some trifling fault, your electric light has given out? I did—once. But I straightway qualified myself to carry out minor repairs by turning off the main switch one afternoon and dismantling the reading lamp, even to unscrewing the flex from the ceiling rose and examining the fuse box! True, it took me an hour to re-assemble things that first time, but I have been amply compensated since by the saving in temper and bills.

Even if you have a nervous dread of meddling with wires here are some simple faults which any housewife should be able to remedy, and in perfect safety from shocks if switches are turned off.

Electric Light Bulbs.

If a bulb is difficult to insert or remove, see if the side pins on the neck of the bulb are bent—should this be so, straighten them gently with a pair of pliers. Another source of this trouble is a bent collar on the socket; this, too, can be straightened with the pliers.

If, on the other hand, your lamp develops an irritating habit of going on and off in flashes, the fault probably lies in the contacts.

Take out the bulb by pressing it inwards and twisting—to the left for a hanging light, to the right for a reading lamp.

See if the metal contacts on the flat base of the bulb neck are covered with scales, if so, scrape them bright with a sharp penknife.

If the fault does not lie here, test the brass plungers in the holder by pressing them down with a pencil. They should spring up again immediately the pressure is removed; if they don't, the simplest thing is to affix a new holder—and a sensible woman will have a couple of spare holders, as well as extra bulbs and some fuse wire always in the house.

Steam Cleaning.

I'll continue my course of electrical instruction in my next letter! Because I want to tell you how I have reduced my monthly bill for clothes cleaning. I have discovered the uses of steam!

If that becoming velvet tam of yours gets spotted with rain, you can restore its freshness by holding it over the spout of a boiling kettle, so that the steam gets well inside. This will raise the flattened pile in a few minutes.

Velvet frocks can be similarly smartened up if you fix a clothes line in your bathroom, out of range of splashes, and suspend the frock on a coat hanger while you are having your bath.

Steam from the kettle will also restore crushed artificial flowers of velvet and silk or rain-beaten velour hats. As a precaution against burns in this process, it is advisable to wear a pair of fairly thick gloves.

Talking of hats, never let them rest on the brim when you put them away or they will quickly get out of shape. Quite a good support can be manufactured from the wire skeleton of a discarded lamp-shade padded with tissue paper, secured in place with brightly coloured ribbons.

Care of Flimsy Frocks.

Flimsy frocks are particularly difficult to keep fresh, especially when, as now, they almost sweep the floor. No wardrobe will accommodate these dresses hung at full length, so you require coat hangers, with a straight bar across the bottom, over which the dresses may be hung at the waist-line.

To keep them free from all-pervading dust each light frock should have a dust-proof bag of cretonne, with a running tape at the top to tie over the hanger. For this purpose cretonne is the ideal material, and just now there is an exceptional opportunity to obtain linen cretonne, with a cream ground and charming floral designs, for a quarter of the usual price.

Did you see Messrs. Robinson and Cleaver's advertisement in the Irish Times of the 11th October? It will be well worth your while to send for their catalogue of linen bargains, most of which may be obtained duty free, including cretonnes, piece linen, towels and pillow cases.

Irish Linen.

Talking of Irish linen, I wonder if we appreciate it as we should.

The other day, when visiting a friend, I exclaimed delightedly at her tea cloth, a lovely thing of heavy linen, with exquisite Italian embroidery in blue. She told me it was the product of an Irish firm, but she had bought it in London, being unable to obtain the same kind of thing in the Dublin shop!

"Perhaps there isn't a sufficient demand for it here," my friend suggested. If that is so it is time for us to up and demand.

Meanwhile I have ordered a similar cloth and expect it to arrive some time next week. Can you come at tea-time to admire it?

Yours,

AILEEN.

Sloe Wine.

Stew six quarts of sloes in a gallon of water until tender, cover with a cloth and leave for three days, occasionally stirring. Then strain through muslin into a preserving pan, put in the rinds of two lemons, and gently boil for half an hour, removing any scum as it rises. Add four pounds of best loaf sugar, let this dissolve, and when cold put in a piece of toasted bread with a teaspoonful of yeast on it, and leave for two days. It may then be bottled, and is ready for use in two months, although it much improves with longer keeping.

***

Thick Cucumber Soup.

Put together in a stewpan two ounces of butter, two large thinly sliced onions, one large or two small cucumbers, peeled and cut up. Put the lid on the pan and cook over a slow fire for quarter of an hour. Add two tablespoonfuls of rice flour, a bag of mixed herbs and one quart of stock or milk. Simmer for half an hour and rub through a sieve. Return to the saucepan, add quarter of a pint of milk and raw yolk of an egg, and stir till hot without boiling.

Serve with small squares of fried bread.

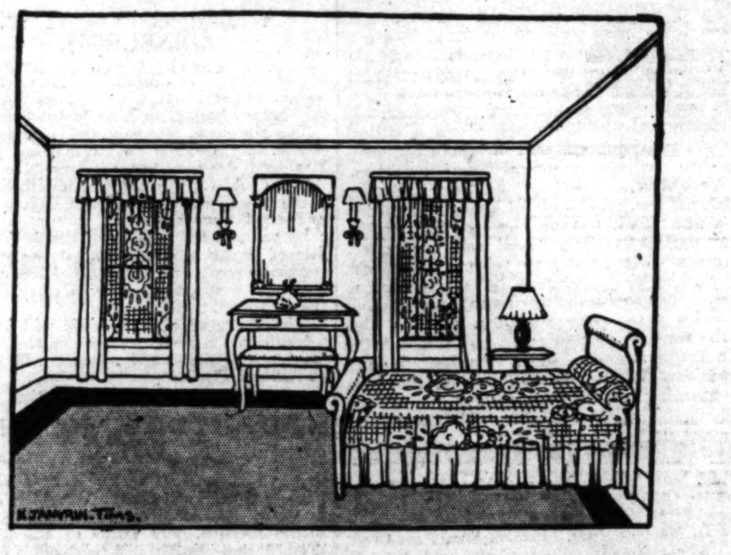
***

Before boiling smoked bacon, remove the rind; this shortens the time necessary for cooking and improves the flavour.

• • • • •

When a saucepan has "caught," fill it with hot water with a few tablespoonfuls of salt, and let it stand all night. In the morning, bring the water to boiling point. If the saucepan is wanted in a hurry follow the same procedure but, instead of leaving it, boil for 20 minutes.

The Gleam of Gold in Modern Decoration.



The colour scheme of this charming bedroom has for its keynote the antique gilt-framed mirror over the dressing-table. To tone with it, inner curtains of old-gold artificial silk lace—which has all the metallic lustre of tinsel without its tendency to tarnish—are used to veil the windows, and the bedspread is of the same golden lace lined with sateen to match. The outer curtains and the valance on the bed are of artificial silk taffeta, in green, shot with gold, and the beige carpet has a dark green border.

The success of this scheme is dependent upon the use of artificial silk, both for the lace hangings and bedspread and for the outer curtains and valance, as no other material can give the glint of gold in the same degree. It has the additional advantage of being very inexpensive, in spite of its rich and sophisticated appearance.

The artificial silk lace hangings and bedspread are particularly practical, as their glossy surface is remarkably dirt-resisting, so that an occasional shaking in the open air to free them from surface dust will keep them clean almost indefinitely.

Cauliflowers are Abundant.

A French cook will carefully remove each "branch" of a cauliflower when cooking it as a vegetable, instead serving it in one round lump. Cauliflowers, by the way, are abundant just now, and there is no nicer way of serving them than au gratin; but how many people make the mistake of using hardly enough grated cheese to justify the name! Another point to remember is that the sauce to be poured over the cauliflower must be very thick.

Here is a good recipe:—Melt an ounce of butter or margarine in a stewpan, thicken with flour, and cook for about a minute; then add half-a-teacupful of full cream condensed milk, diluted with water, and stir until it boils. Season with salt and pepper; pour over the boiled and strained cauliflower, and add the grated cheese. Bake in a very hot oven till brown.

Bird Pets as Companions.

There are few more cheerful or agreeable companions for the busy housewife or maid than a bird pet. Canaries and love-birds, which are very popular at the moment, are particularly friendly and responsive towards those with whom they come in daily contact.

Care should be taken that cages are not hung too high, or where steam or fumes can cause inconvenience to their occupants.

The temptation to give birds tit-bits from the table should be resisted, for this ruins their digestion. The usual seed diet, with a liberal supply to clean water should be adhered to strictly.

Hints.

If a pinch of bicarbonate of soda is added to damsons when stewing it will remove the sharp and acid taste.

Stains on brown shoes made by sea water can be removed by a mixture of milk and soda. Dissolve a large lump of soda in a cup of hot milk and rub this into the leather. Then polish in the ordinary way.

Ten Points in Making Coffee.

Whether made in an earthenware jug, in a saucepan or in a percolator, ten principles of good coffee-making are:

(1) Don't use too little.
(2) Don't use too much.
(3) Give the grounds six minutes to settle.
(4) Strain carefully.
(5) Let the water boil thoroughly.
(6) Don't let the coffee boil.
(7) Keep the lid on the pot to preserve the aroma.
(8) Don't use a tin lid.
(9) Don't use stale ground coffee.
(10) Don't mix stale coffee with fresh.

Well-made coffee, says an expert, should be as clear as good wine. The correct proportions are: one ounce (two heaped dessertspoonfuls) to half-a-pint of water, or, for larger quantities, ¾ to 1lb. to a gallon of water.

A Delectable Dish.

A much-travelled friend, who has just returned from Southern Europe, has described to me the delights of a dish composed of Brussels sprouts and chestnuts, both simple and inexpensive articles of diet.

"First," she said, "the chestnuts were boiled and peeled. The sprouts also were boiled, but not over-cooked. Then chestnuts and sprouts were fried together, in butter.

"It was really one of the most delectable dishes I have ever tasted, and one of the secrets of its success was that the cook had taken the trouble to trim and prepare each sprout as carefully as if it had been a separate little vegetable."

NOTES FROM THE "ZOO."

NEW ARRIVALS.

THE BINTURONG.

(From Our Zoological Correspondent.)

It must be a long time since the Dublin Gardens received such a delightfully large consignment of new animals as was brought over from Liverpool last week under Dr. Ferrar's escort. With scarcely an exception, the whole of this large consignment is due to the liberality of Dr. A. B. Monks (now stationed on the Gold Coast), to whom the Society has already been indebted during recent years for a number of important gifts. The animals all arrived in excellent health and spirits, having evidently been the recipients of scrupulous kindness and care in the course of their long sea voyage.

The stars of the new cast are, beyond doubt, a pair of baby chimpanzees, both beautiful and charming little animals, making an almost startling display of sociability for creatures so newly introduced to their present surroundings. They are probably the youngest chimpanzees that have ever been seen in the Gardens, and by a long way the most engaging in their general appearance. It must be added that, with all their sociability, they are not, as yet, in the slightest degree able to endure one another's company. They have, in fact, to be kept as far apart as the arrangements in the Monkey House will allow. It is towards the human species that their affections are at once displayed; and the eagerness with which little Master Chimp springs, without invitation, into his keeper's arms is only matched by the obstinacy with which, having arrived there, he clings on to his known best friend, making an almost tearful tragedy of the parting that, ultimately, has to come.

THE MONKEY HOUSE.

The chimpanzees, though the best, are far from the only additions to the Monkey House collection in Dr. Monks' gift; for, with them, he has sent a small baboon, a sooty mangabey, a green monkey and two Patas monkeys—of which, by the way, one is open to suspicion of belonging to a rare and little-known variety, the yellow Patas. With all these additions to its tale of inhabitants, it may well be questioned whether the Monkey House was ever richer than it is to-day in animals of the order to which it is specially devoted. In point of number, beyond doubt, it breaks its own record, and further accommodation has consequently had to be provided for some of the inmates.

Besides monkeys, the new arrivals include a binturong and four paradoxures—"good enough jaw-breakers," as a Sunday visitor put it—also two crowned cranes, a white pelican and a crocodile. All, except, the binturong, are natives of West Africa, and are included in Dr. Monks's splendid gift. The binturong, however, is of Indian origin, and it may be taken as a welcome sign of increasing confidence in the "Zoo's" affairs that the Council felt they could afford to buy it. The binturong is, from many points of view, a highly interesting animal, and, though this is not its first appearance in the Dublin "Zoo," it is not, as a rule, very easily obtainable or very generally familiar to the public. Like the paradoxures, it is a best of prey, but, like them, it is also addicted to a somewhat indiscriminate indulgence in any such foods as come in its way. In fact, while an undoubted carnivore, it may be said to have more of the bear than of the cat character. It also resembles the paradoxures in its habit of climbing trees. It has, however, one peculiarity in which it differs not only from them, but of all other animals of the Old World, and resembles only the monkeys of the New. The binturong is remarkable for having a truly prehensile tail, and is known to be given to suspending itself by that organ, after the fashion so common among American monkeys.

HIGH SPIRITS.

With so many new animals on view, the Gardens may certainly claim to have added pretty largely to their attractiveness within the past week, and, though at this time of year the attendance is invariably much smaller than in summer—it did not exceed 2,318 during the week just gone by—the fact that the corresponding week last year brought only 2,069 encourages the view that general interest in the "Zoo" is quietly, but steadily, rising. The few bright days that we had during the week seemed to have an excellent effect on the general spirits of the animals, especially in the open-air enclosures, where zebras, wapiti, bears, crowned cranes, and even the dignified snowy owls, might be seen frisking almost like lambs at play to welcome the unexpected outburst.

The lake, too, is beginning to assume its winter aspect as a chosen home for migratory wild fowl; for a "dopping" (if that is the correct term) of about twenty or twenty-five pochards have already taken up their quarters there, which they will steadily increase until, by the end of November, the surface will seem to be crowded with them. They are picturesque and graceful-looking birds, and are not infrequently mistaken at first sight for widgeon, which they resemble in having red heads and light-grey backs; but they can easily be distinguished from widgeon, even at a fair distance, by the blackness of their breasts.

The Council last Saturday were able to add to the society's list of members the names of Thomas Jackson, Esq., 62 Kenilworth square; Hubert Briscoe, Esq., 49 Lansdowne road; and J. T. Hamerton, Esq., Northfield, Palmerston Gardens (previously a garden subscriber); and James Williamson, Esq., 35 Upper St. Columba road, Drumcondra, became a new garden subscriber.

BRIGADIER-GENERAL GRAHAM.

Brigadier-General Malise Graham, D.S.O., second son of the late Sir Reginald Graham, eighth Bart., of Norton Conyers, Yorks, who died on August 14th, 1929, from the effects of an accident at the Dublin Horse Show, left unsettled property of the gross value of £13,836, with net personalty £9,954. Probate of his will, dated September 12th, 1921, has now been granted to his widow, Mrs. Cecil Lorna Graham, of Rose Cottage, Somerby, Melton Mowbray, Leicester, the sole executrix, to whom he left all his property absolutely.

AN IRISHMAN'S DIARY.

The Connaught Rangers : Old Streets : A "Present" from Ireland.
The Willow Pattern Plate : Refrigeration : Speech and Memory.
The Mayoral Title : An Irish Musician.

Old Dublin Streets.

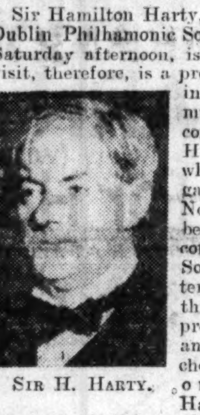
The old streets of Dublin have lost their former characteristics. Gone, indeed, are the glories of the past. Castle street, for instance, is now a woebegone street of ruins and tenements; yet, at the close of the seventeenth, and up to the middle of the nineteenth, century, it was a prosperous thoroughfare. Here, indeed, during the eighteenth century, was a great printing, publishing, and book-selling quarter. Hoey's Court and Werburgh street, at the close of the same century, were noted for their silversmiths and watchmakers, but they, too, died out one by one. The house in Hoey's Court where Swift was born has been pulled down, and for the past hundred years the Court has decayed out of all recognition. Temple Bar was a street once famous for its hatters, but the storm of decay has swept them away. The Cornmarket has no corn, and Wormwood Gate has tasted the gall.

Cold Storage.

A building is now nearing completion in Kent which will be the largest experimental cold store in the world. Financed by the Empire Marketing Board, it is designed for working out the many problems connected with the refrigeration of delicate foodstuffs of all kinds. Seventy years ago the idea of cold-storage occurred to a young emigrant in Australia, named Mort. He read in a newspaper that a prehistoric animal had been found, perfectly preserved, in a glacier, and he spent a large sum of money in equipping a freezing plant, and later sent out a ship with a cargo of frozen food in 1876. Something, however, went wrong with the apparatus, the food turned bad, and it is said that Mort died of a broken heart.

An Irish Musician.

Sir Hamilton Harty, who conducted the Dublin Philhamonic Society's concert last Saturday afternoon, is a busy man. His visit, therefore, is a proof of his continued interest in Dublin's musical affairs. As conductor of the Hallé Orchestra, which has other engagements in the North of England besides the frequent concerts of the Hallé Society in Manchester, he is now in the thick of the work of preparing a huge amount of music, choral as well as orchestral. Sir Hamilton Harty was born at Hillsborough, and his fond memories of the countryside where the Counties of Down and Antrim border Lough Neagh is expressed in the vivid music of his Irish Symphony. Some of my readers may like to know that there is a gramaphone record of the jolly scherzo of the Symphony. One of the composer's earliest successes was the winning of a prize in the composers' competitions under the auspices of the Feis Ceoil with an Irish suite. When we remember also his tone-poem, "With the Wild Geese," and his settings of Irish airs, we can have no hesitation, no matter what laurels he wins elsewhere, in continuing to hail him as essentially an Irish musician.



Sir H. Harty.

The 88th Foot.

Nowadays, when it is the custom to ignore the past history of Irish regiments, it is gratifying to find in an English newspaper an appreciation of the Connaught Rangers. The reference, it is true, occurred in connection with a correspondence concerning the fine physique of the people of Connaught, but is, nevertheless, to the point. When the regiment was first raised in 1793, the following comments, it is recorded, were made by a Scottish surgeon, who joined at the same time: "The officers were not only all Irish, but almost all of one sept or clan, more or less related to the Colonel, and I must say there was never a finer set of young men . . . . in any corps in His Majesty's Service." Later, in his "Autobiography," the same writer—Sir James McGrigor—mentions an occasion, in 1812, when Wellington observed: "One thing I will tell you; whenever anything very gallant, very desperate is to be done there is no corps in the Army I would sooner employ than [illegible] old friends, the Connaught Rangers."

Mr. Winston Churchill's Memory.

Mr. Winston Churchill, in his new book of reminiscences, "My Early Life," which is to be published to-day, makes confession of the pains he took to prepare his speeches in the early days of his political career. His first speech at a political meeting was memorised so well beforehand that he could, he says, have almost said it backwards.

Mr. Winston Churchill.

Similarly with his maiden speech in the House of Commons he made elaborate preparations. "In those days," he writes, "I was unable to say anything (except a sentence) in rejoinder that I had not written out and committed to memory. I had to try to foresee the situation, and had to have a number of variants ready to meet its possibilities."

Mr. Churchill's maiden speech in the House followed one by Mr. Lloyd George, and he modestly states in his book that "the general verdict was not unfavourable." His powers of oratory quickly developed, and to-day there is no better debater at Westminster.

Speech and Memory.

Most of the leading orators both of past and present times have depended more or less on memory. Even Mr. W. E. Gladstone, one of the outstanding orators of the Victorian era, frequently prepared not only the outline, but often the actual sentences, of his speeches.

The late Sir E. Hamilton, who was at one period private secretary to the "G.O.M.," was once asked if Mr. Gladstone prepared his speeches. "He does not sit down at a table and write them out," he replied, "but he lies on a sofa and wombles them in his mind. None of us likes to go near him the day before he makes a great speech."

Mrs. Joseph Chamberlain declared that few, if any, of her husband's set speeches cost less than three days' constant toil, and that five was the more usual number. Sometimes he would say in the evening: "Well, whatever happens, I am going to make my speech before I go to bed to-night," and he would do it, even though he had to work till three or four in the morning.

The Apple Cart.

Cycling in the country the other afternoon, I observed a man with a cartload of apples calling at some roadside cottages. He was certainly giving good value, and he was experiencing very little difficulty in getting rid of his stock. He sold a quart of apples for a penny, while a gallon cost fourpence. Most of his customers brought cans for their supplies, and the children were given a few apples for luck. Stewed apples and apple pies are great favourites with the cottagers, but it is only for a few short weeks in the autumn that they can afford this little luxury.

King George's "Present."

Readers of Macaulay's essay on Frederick the Great will remember that he states the ambition of Frederick William, father of Frederick the Great, to have been the formation of "a brigade of giants, and every country was ransacked by his agents for men above the ordinary stature." In order to help the King of Prussia in the gratification of his ambition King George the First caused to be announced in the Dublin newspapers for 1721/22 that "20 or 30 choice men should be raised in this Kingdom of Ireland which he designs to make a present to the King of Prussia to complete his Royal Regiment." The recruits were to be "young, well-proportioned, and not under the size of six feet five inches," and they should be able to "give a good account of themselves and security for their faithfully serving." Twelve pence per day was the pay offered, but as a further inducement the advertisement quaintly states they would be "as High-Dukes, they being in the same manner as His Majesty's Yeomen of the Guard."

Dublin's Lord Mayors.

The suggestion that the title of Lord Mayor should be abolished and that of Mayor substituted, is a reminder that the Lord Mayoralty of Dublin is of ancient lineage. Possibly it was the thought that the title was originally conferred in the reign of Charles II. that disgusts the Councillor who would abolish it.

The first Lord Mayor, in 1666, was Sir Daniel Bellingham, whose portrait, by an unknown artist, is in the possession of the Corporation; a study of the long list of names of holders of the office will show that ancestors of many of the city's present-day prominent business and public men wore the famous Mayoral Chain. The name of Sir Humphrey Jervis is commemorated in Jervis street, that of Sir John Rogerson in the quay of that name, Sir Mark Rainsford was the owner of what is now Guinness's Brewery and has his name borne by a street behind the brewery front premises; the names of Sir William Fownes, Thomas Bolton, Philip Crampton, Sir Thomas Blackhall, Sir W. Stamer, and many another, may all be traced in the names of city streets.

The brewing and distilling trades furnished many Lord Mayors to the city in the past, as the names of Bellingham, Rainsford, Manders, Darley, D'Arcy, Guinness, and Roe sufficiently testify. An interesting feature of the Roll of Lord Mayors is that for the ten years from 1880 to 1889 the office was held almost continuously by members of the Nationalist Party in the House of Commons.

A Belfast Shipbuilder.

It is not often that a new ship is named after a person associated with the shipbuilding firm which produced it. This unusual distinction has, however, been conferred upon Mr. William Strachan, chairman of Messrs. Workman, Clark (1928), Ltd., Belfast; for the other day a new 9,000-ton oil tanker for an Oslo firm was named The William Strachan. Not since the early days of Messrs. Harland and Wolfff, Ltd., has the name of a Belfast shipbuilder been given to a new vessel. At that time three vessels, built for the late Mr. Stanley Lawther, were called after Mr. G. W. Wolff, Mr. W. H. Wilson and Mr. W. J. Pirrie, afterwards Lord Pirrie, all of whom were directors of Messrs. Harland and Wolff. The compliment to Mr. Strachan is a well-deserved one, and a tribute to his energy and business ability. Belfast people, indeed, regard it in the light of recognition of Mr. Strachan's efforts to re-establish the Workman, Clark shipyards. Since the works of the old firm were taken over by the new company, with Mr. Strachan as chairman, it has been one of the few successful concerns in the present state of shipbuilding depression. Since the yard was open two years ago orders have been received for twenty-one steamships and motor ships, with an aggregate tonnage of 130,000 gross register. So far this year the firm has launched nine ships with a total of 48,000 tons.

The Popular Pattern.

The most famous pottery design in the world is that known as the Willow Pattern. It has, indeed, proved a "best seller" for the potters; for, since it first appeared in 1780, the love story of the beautiful Koong-Shee and Chang, her lover, who were pursued by the girl's irate father until turned by the gods into turtle doves, has captured the popular fancy. Yet the name of the originator of the ware is unknown. One thing, however, is certain: the Chinese never saw a willow plate until one was sent out from Staffordshire. All the principal English potters, Wedgwood, Adams, Minton, Spode, turned out quantities of the popular blue design; and, though the Oriental details of pagoda, bridge, fence, and boat occur in every copy, there are minute differences by which the expert can tell whose work it is. The pattern of the fence, for instance, varies with every designer, as does also the number of apples on the tree. After a century and a half, this legend on a plate still holds its own against the most charming of modern designs.

BALDOYLE RACES.

GOOD RACING AND FINE WEATHER.

Attracted by the prospects of a capital afternoon's racing, there was a very large attendance at Baldoyle on Saturday afternoon last, when the final meeting of the year was held. The weather was in a kinder mood than of late, and the bright sunshine gave a feeling of warmth to the air.

Smart tweed coats were a feature of the ladies' attire. Fashioned with shaped waists, and in many cases an all-round belt, these coats had large stand-up fur collars, and cuffs with trimmings which extended to the elbow. Fur coats were also freely worn, with small capotes of velvet, chenille or tweed, which match or tone with the coat or coat-frock.

Among those noticed in the members' enclosure were:—Lord and Lady Nunburnholme, Lord and Lady Talbot de Malahide, Sir Walter and Lady Nugent, Sir Thomas Ainsworth, Lady Goulding, Sir Thomas Stafford, Lady Chance, Lady Grace, the Hon. Brinsley and Mrs. Plunket, the Hon. Mrs. Dunne, Mr. and Mrs. David Plunket, Miss Olive Plunket, Commander J. C. Gaisford St. Lawrence, Misses Gaisford St. Lawrence, Right Hon. T. K. Laidlaw, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Maher, Mr. H. Jameson, Misses Jameson, Major and Mrs. E. Shirley, Mr. Maxwell Arnott, Mr. and Mrs. L. Morrogh Ryan, Captain and Mrs. Waldron, Mrs. D. Jameson, Mr. Geoffry P. Gilpin.

Captain and Mrs. M. King-French, Major and Mrs. Power, Mr. and Mrs. H. PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY.

OPENING CONCERT IN DUBLIN.

YOUNG PIANIST'S SUCCESS.

The Dublin Philharmonic Society made a promising beginning of its concert season in the orchestral concert given last Saturday afternoon at the Theatre Royal, Dublin. There was a large attendance, and everybody seemed to enjoy the orchestra's playing of good music. A young Dublin pianist, Mr. Fred. Stone, made a successful appearance as soloist in the Schumann Concerto in A minor.

Owing to the illness of Colonel Fritz Brasé the Society engaged Sir Hamilton Harty to conduct the concert. The task of preparing the work was taken up by Commandant Sauerzweig, Colonel Brase's assistant at the Free State Army School of Music. Sir Hamilton Harty took the orchestra in hand at the final rehearsal, and the results that he got from it at the concert on Saturday were creditable to the orchestra as well as to the eminent conductor's ability to give distinction to a performance.

MOZART'S SYMPHONY.

If anyone to whom the larger forms of music are unfamiliar should be frightened at the word "symphony," he need only hear Mozart's Symphony in E flat (No. 39) to arrive at a happy connotation of the term. This symphony used to be a favourite with audiences at the Sunday orchestral concerts, where many people who now enjoy the Philharmonic concerts got a good deal of their musical education. Its four movements, which come in so natural and easy a succession, are full of musical ideas of the most winsome sweetness. The more grace there is in the display of the many beauties of the music the more they are to be enjoyed; and Saturday's performance did not lack grace.

I was glad that the Siegfried Idyll was in the programme for Sir Hamilton Harty, for the work is one with which he has particular sympathy. He did it with the Halle Orchestra here once, and that performance now counts in the first half-dozen of my memorable musical experiences. We could not expect an equal result from the conductor's brief control of the Dublin orchestra, but Sir Hamilton put his mark on the performance, nevertheless. As in the performance of the symphony, the woodwind players were responsible for some of the most delightful moments.

A YOUTHFUL PIANIST.

The middle part of the concert was all Wagner. Besides the Idyll we had the excerpt from "The Twilight of the Gods" known as Siegfried's "Death and Funeral March," and the "Tannhauser" overture. The Funeral March was nearly as impressive as could be, but the performance of the overture was far from being distinguished, unless unfavourably, by reason of the coarseness of the brass tone.

Mr. Fred. Stone showed himself quite equal to the demands of the Schumann Concerto. They are not of the most exacting order, but no work serves better to exhibit grasp of the instrument and musicianly style, if the performer has them. Mr. Stone proved that already he has both in good measure. All his phrases were nicely rounded, his touch was crisp and his tone amply varied; he could be firm in the enunciation of a theme when the responsibility rested with him, and yet knew how to ally himself with the orchestra when that was his due part. From his opening chords one felt confidence in his interpretation. In the lyrical second movement he took charge of the song-like theme with a perfect air of mastery; and, without ever getting bustled, he gave plenty of sparkle to the dashing music of the finale. Sir Hamilton Harty gave a generous lead to the applause that marked the young performer's success.

PRAISE FOR THE ORCHESTRA.

Miss Nancy Lord has succeeded to the leadership of the orchestra. The orchestra will play the same programme, with the substitution of Goldmark's "Sakuntala" overture for the "Tannhauser" overture, for a broadcast from the Dublin Broadcasting Station to-night. Commandant Sauerzwig will conduct this performance.

Sir Hamilton Harty expressed himself, I understand, as favourably impressed by the quality of the Dublin orchestra. Obbligato.

THE MARQUESS OF GRAHAM.

WEDDING TO-DAY IN EDINBURGH.

The Marquess of Graham, heir to the Duke of Montrose, of Brodick Castle, Isle of Arran, will be married in St. Giles Cathedral, Edinburgh, to-day, to Miss Isobel Sellar.

The Marquess, whose height is six feet four inches, has decided to be married in full Highland dress—a kilt of dark blue and a velvet doublet, with a broad waistbelt. The necklace which Miss Sellar will wear belonged to Mary Queen of Scots.

So great is the number of people from the Isle of Arran who will attend the wedding ceremony that the Duke of Montrose has chartered a special steamer to carry them to the mainland.

The Marquess and his bride will be given a traditional Scottish welcome on their return to Arran to-night, and a dance will be held at Brodick Castle.

LADY PERDITA ASQUITH TO WED.

Lady Perdita Asquith, daughter of the late Mr. Raymond Asquith and Mrs. Raymond Asquith, and sister of the Earl of Oxford and Asquith, is engaged to marry Captain the Hon. William G. H. Jolliffe, son of Lord and Lady Hylton.

Lady Perdita Asquith, who is twenty years of age, is the younger daughter of Mr. Raymond Asquith, who lost his life during the great war, when serving with the Grenadier Guards in France. His father (afterwards first Earl of Oxford and Asquith) was then Prime Prime Minister. When her grandfather died, in 1928, the King ordained that she and her elder sister, Helen, should have the same title as would have been due to them if their father had survived the first Earl and thereby succeeded to the title.

Captain Jolliffe, who is in the Coldstream Guards, is heir to Lord Hylton. He is thirty-one years of age, and served in the great war. He was A.D.C. to the Governor-General of Canada between 1921 and 1923, and was Adjutant of the 1st Battalion Coldstream Guards from 1925 to 1928.

PEACOCK THEATRE.

GAELIC DRAMATIC SOCIETY

An Comhar Dramuíochta (the Irish Dramatic Society) began its eighth season last night in the Peacock Theatre, Dublin, with a promise of success more encouraging than that which rewarded their efforts for the spread of the Irish language in the past seven years. They have done good work in that direction in the past, and for that they have earned the support of all who are interested in the language. The play presented last night was Mr. T. C. Murray's "Autumn Fire," which has been translated by Mr. Michael Sugrue. The audience might well have been a larger one. Amongst those present were Mr. Ernest Blythe, Free State Minister for Finance. The performance was a creditable one and was greatly enjoyed. The characters were:—Owen Keegan (T. Forbes), Léan (Maire Sheehan), Mícheal (Frank McDermott), Muirís (R. Kilkenny), Maire Donohue (Brigid Flynn), Neans (Kate Dillon), T. O Séagda (Cathal O'Kelly), Peig Ni Muirtile (Eiblis Kettle). The production was under the direction of Mr. Paul O'Farrell.

A HUNTING ACCIDENT.

Lady Warrender, wife of Sir Victor Warrender, M.P., met with an accident on Saturday while hunting with the Belvoir Hounds. Her horse during a gallop from Marshalls Spinney trod into a blind ditch. Lady Warrender was thrown heavily to the ground, and received a broken collar-bone.

Guards Power, Johnstown, and Carew, Ballyragget, COUNTY KILKENNY, have been presented with the certificates of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

TRAFFIC IN OLD HORSES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

Sir,—It is just a month ago that I had the pleasure of taking Miss A. M. F. Cole's place as speaker to the Dublin Rotary Club on the export of Irish horses for butchery. Miss Cole died at her office this morning, and I am writing to ask all Irish people of goodwill to show the same enthusiasm as my kind Rotary audience displayed in wishing to get rid of the responsibility for this dreadful traffic. Miss Cole was a fighter, and the best memorial we can raise to so brave a fighter is to finish the good fight, the end of which she was not, in the flesh, destined to see.

The conditions at Vaugirard, the Paris slaughter-house, are, according to an eyewitness who saw them recently, as bad as ever. The longer we wait, the more time it gives those who do not want to end the traffic to consolidate their position. Let us, therefore, act quickly, and support the South Dublin S.P.C.A. in their endeavour to induce the Government to prohibit the traffic once for all.—Yours, etc.,

Edmund T. MacMichael, Secretary,
Performing and Captive Animals' Defence League, 17 Buckingham street, Adelphi, London, W.C. 2, October 17th, 1930.

SUBSCRIPTIONS AND APPEALS.

THE MEATH HOSPITAL.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

Sir,—On several occasions you have been kind enough to publish letters appealing to your many readers to help the Meath Hospital tin foil collection. This help has been of the greatest value, and we have realised £600 on the sale of the material. Owing to the fact that the majority of the manufacturers are now using aluminium, which is of little value, instead of pure tin, it is not possible now to work this scheme at a profit. We have accordingly decided to close the collection on December 1st.

We have again to thank our many thousand collectors, and, if they have collections in hands, we would be grateful if they will send them in before the closing date. Parcels may be left at Mr. Eric Massey's Pharmacy, 13 Harcourt street, or at the Meath Hospital. Please note that the closing date is December 1st, 1930.—Yours, etc.,

A FINE FILM.

"ALL QUIET ON THE WESTERN FRONT."

Given such excellent material as Erich Remarque's interpretation of the Great War, no film director could produce anything but a very remarkable film: in his adaptation of "All Quiet on the Western Front," which is being shown at the Theatre Royal, Dublin, this week, Mr. Lewis Milestone has given the world a film version of the novel that is likely to be as widely admired as was the novel itself. It is not that Mr. Milestone has done anything new in film technique, or that he has advanced the psychological boundaries of the screen one jot; it is merely that between Herr Erich Remarque and the history of four fateful years a great film was conceived. The novel cried out to be filmed, and here it is.

Those who adapted the novel for screen purposes have made the story more obvious; as Herr Remarque wrote it the wood was in danger of being obscured by the trees. In the film the story of a "class" in a school is shown from the moment when the professor delivers his patriotic appeal and all his pupils depart on the great adventure to that moment when its last members fall, killed by an aerial bomb. The patriotic frenzy of the aged schoolmaster is splendidly projected, and justified the accusation of the boys when they found themselves at the front: "No, they never taught us anything really useful." The school is as heavily indicted by Remarque as is war itself.

The twenty-eight schoolboys find themselves under the command of a man whom they had known as their postman, but when they try to be as familiar with him as they had been in civilian life they are heavily repulsed. In the obsequious postman they found a petty tyrant and a coward, who inflicted upon them every indignity that his evil mind could think about, from wallowing flat in the mud to crawling under a dormitory table for exercise. To get to the front from such a life seemed like exchanging for Paradise.

The trenches, however, were far removed from the paradisial; blood and mud were the least of the evils. In no previous war film, except, perhaps, "The End of St. Petersburg," are the actual trench scenes so startlingly vivid. In this film the war is made as real as it is now ever likely to be to those who did not know it in their own experience, and an audience must leave the theatre with a sense of having been present at the enactment of the greatest tragedy that history records.

In other war films the fortunes of individuals were followed, and attention was focused upon the fate of one or two. In "All Quiet on the Western Front" it is the fate of an entire generation that is put upon the screen. Hundreds and thousands are seen to die, shattered by shells and mown down by machine-guns; man is seen to revert to the most primitive forms of life, only to find in the end that those who did not actually experience the war at first hand were either still violently in favour of a fight to a finish, as were the old and middle-aged, or willing to replace their brothers in the trenches, as were the schoolboys. A whole generation had apparently been sacrificed in vain. When he knew this, Paul Baumer returned to the trenches.

Back in the trenches, Paul failed to recognise his comrades; they were all new! Katezinsky had said that the war would end when it had ended him, but it actually ended the entire company, the old soldiers, and the schoolboys who entered with a light-hearted sense of fun. A new No. 2 Company would be there at the Armistice.

In this film there are no heroes; all are heroic. It is the epic of a generation—the record of four terrible years during which all the world seemed to be mad. The anonymity of hundreds of the performers in the film makes it more impressive as a record of the time. Against the background of this massed anonymity the figures of Louis Wolheim, as Katezinsky, and Lewis Ayres, as Paul Baumer, stand out in magnificent relief. Their acting could hardly be improved.

As a "talkie," the film is somewhat marred by the American accents and phrases, but it is nevertheless a very impressive film.

If you saw a FERRANTI Set made you would understand why it is so good.

FERRANTI entered into the production of Radio Sets and Speakers after careful consideration and research.

Whatever they produce must be true to the traditions they have kept alive for nearly half a century in the production of electrical apparatus of merit.

In the range of All-Electric Radio now offered, the FERRANTI traditions are maintained, and the workmanship, reliability and performance of these productions set a high standard.

Each component is designed or chosen for the purpose it is to fulfil. Each component is manufactured from selected raw material. Nothing is left to chance. Every inch of wire, for example, is tested before it passes to the Coil Winder. Every coil, every manufactured part, is examined for flaws and tested for defects before it is passed forward for the next operation. The position of every component in the Set is determined by experiment, measurement and test.

Step by step, in the course of manufacture and as assembly proceeds, the components and the Receiver are tested so that everything is as flawless as we can make it. And, finally, the Receiver is submitted to tests to satisfy the examiners that it is O.K. from Aerial to output, that the overall amplification is up to standard, and that hum and distortion are reduced to the small limits allowed.

That is why the FERRANTI Receiver is so good. The taking of pains in the construction of an intricate piece of apparatus—a car, a watch or a radio set—costs money, but the best is invariably the most satisfactory in the long run.

PRESBYTERIAN BAZAAR.

A GREAT SUCCESS.

The bazaar in aid of the Presbyterian Association, 16 St. Stephen's Green, Dublin, was continued on Saturday, and was a great success.

Presiding at the opening ceremony, Alderman Hubbard Clark said that, after being in existence for seventy years, the Association was stronger than ever. Their membership was over 700, and was recruited from all the churches in Dublin and district. It had been a great source of strength to the Presbyterian Church, from which had been recruited many of the leaders in the commercial life of the community. They would find members of the Association in every public organisation which stood for good government and the general amelioration of the conditions of the city and county.

His principal duty was to introduce Miss Griffith, who had kindly come to open the bazaar for the second day. She was the daughter of Sir John Purser Griffith, an engineer of world-wide reputation; but great as the reflected glory must be from father to daughter, it was small compared with what Miss Griffith had accomplished by her own labours in the cause of musical education in Ireland. The Feis Ceoil was easily one of the greatest organisations for the encouragement of music in Ireland or elsewhere, and its success was largely due to the constant and untiring labours of Miss Griffith. There were few in that or any other city doing more for the advance of music than Miss Griffith.

The Chairman then announced that Sir John P. Griffith had sent a cheque for £5 to the Association. (Applause.)

Miss Griffith then formally declared the bazaar open.

On the motion of the Rev. J. J. Macauley, seconded by Mr. Charles Eason, a vote of thanks was passed to Miss Griffith.

DUBLIN DISTRICT COURT.

CHARGE OF ASSAULT.

DEFENDANT AND HIS THREE SISTERS-IN-LAW.

(BEFORE MR. CUSSEN.)

Francis Harvey, Eblana Villas, Grand Canal street, was remanded, in custody, charged with having assaulted his sister-in-law, Miss Elizabeth Tyrrell, at his residence on Friday last. It was alleged by Miss Tyrrell that when she protested against a noise which the defendant made in "fiddling with the lock of the door" he replied by blackening her eyes.

The defendant said that anything that happened was caused by the shouting and bawling of his three sisters-in-law, who lived in the house with him. He had a right to play with the lock, as it was his own property.

PUBLIC-HOUSE DISTURBANCE.

Michael Gorman, who was accused of breaking glass valued at 12s. in the licensed premises of James Knowles, Hawkins street, when refused drink, between 9 and 10 o'clock on Friday night, was remanded until Wednesday for evidence of character, the Justice remarking that it was an intolerable state of affairs that a respectable trader could not be allowed to conduct his business without this kind of irritation.

WOMAN'S LANGUAGE.

Kathleen Wright (29) was fined 20s., or fourteen days' imprisonment, for having used profane and obscene language in Green street between 1 and 2 o'clock on Saturday morning.

Five persons were seriously injured and many received minor injuries when an omnibus travelling from Newport to Pontypool crashed into a telegraph post on Saturday night on a portion of the road known as the Straight Mile.

RADIO FOR EVERYONE.

By Our Radio Correspondent.

It is customary for one in my position to feign cheerfulness at this season of the year. Such cheerfulness, however, does not always rest on a very solid foundation. When I say, therefore, that I feel more cheerful this season than I have felt for several years, I am only expressing feelings which have, I think, sprung from the evidence of better times which I see around me.

So far as the radio trader is concerned, the man who has first-grade apparatus to sell is enjoying better business at the moment than he has done for a considerable time.

The future holds some interesting developments in store for us. We are promised a central high-power station for next season. The erection of that station will mark a new era in the development of Free State broadcasting, although its existence will be certain to displease a number of listeners. I was never one to believe that Irish broadcasting could go ahead with two totally inadequate stations to serve the country. The Free State Department of Posts and Telegraphs did, I believe, the right thing when it recommended a station such as is at present being designed by Marconi's Wireless Telegraph Co., Ltd. The very latest in radio technique will be incorporated in the new station's design. The power should be adequate to make crystal reception in any part of Ireland comparatively simple. When one considers the vast field which such a station will be the means of opening up, I think that those of us who regard ourselves as being progressive will easily appreciate the possibilities which lie ahead.

BETTER PROGRAMMES.

But what of the programmes when we do get the new station? That is a question which we may all ask ourselves. The 2RN programmes have had as much, if not more, mud thrown at them as any radio programmes in the world. While much of the abuse has been deserved, a very great deal of it has been hurled by people who rarely, if ever, listen to their local station, and merely grumble because it seems the popular thing to do. But the new high-power station should change things. It will be bigger than anything we have had before, and it is possible that bigger ideas of programme construction will accompany it. The existing system of programme presentation must be altered. It does not allow nearly enough latitude to the imagination. There is a sameness about the programmes which is inclined to stultify to a great extent the efforts of many fine artists. It is useless to compare our resources with those at the disposal of the B.B.C., but, nevertheless, the results which could be obtained, if slightly more money were spent on administration, would more than justify the expenditure.

The broadcasting service is inclined to be carried on in a bureaucratic manner. It would be well if the authorities governing the service would remember that the job of entertaining the public demands more imagination and initiative than one is accustomed to associate with Government departments.

SPONSORED PROGRAMMES.

Programmes sponsored by commercial enterprise will become part and parcel of the Irish broadcasting system as from this week. Admittedly they are in the nature of an experiment, and the department is only committed to them for a trial period. They may, however, be the means of providing that "variety" of presentation which Irish listeners have been seeking. We shall see. I am told that the amount of advertising talk which will accompany each programme will be very brief. That is good. If sponsors of programmes exceed themselves in this direction the whole idea will defeat its original object. Sponsored programmes are not new. They are not even new in this country. They formed a very important part of the Irish "wireless week" held early in the year, and were, I think, a distinct success on that occasion. They have long held sway in America; often being brilliant, and more often absurd. It is to be hoped that the authorities here will keep a tight rein on sponsors in order that the programmes do not degenerate into mere advertising stunts. I mention these things by the way. They are important, inasmuch as they indicate both to listeners and potential listeners the lines on which radio in this country is developing.

The time is not far distant when it will be possible for almost every person to possess a radio receiver. The hire-purchase system has apparently come to stay, so far as the radio industry is concerned. The exhibition which opens at the Mansion House, Dublin, to-day will convince most visitors of this fact. The man of humble means can thus purchase a first-class receiver at a small initial outlay, the remainder being paid over a period of twelve months.

A general reduction in the price of apparatus will also strike visitors as noteworthy. The day of expensive multi-controlled receivers has passed. Simplicity in design and operation is now one of the principal objects of radio manufacturers. That many of them have succeeded there can be no doubt. One-control tuning is the chief characteristic of the modern receiver. The same temptation to make the night hideous by twiddling numberless controls does not present itself to the listener of 1930. The modern receiver is generally capable of giving good quality reproduction at a minimum of trouble. One can purchase a set with the knowledge that there is more likelihood of its being able to perform the functions claimed for it than was possible with the receiver of two, or even one year ago. This despite the fact that the manufacturers often make rather extravagant claims for their products! All-electric, or sets which work direct from the house-lighting mains, will form some of the principal exhibits. While these all-mains receivers may predominate, it must not be imagined that the manufacturers have neglected the still very popular battery-operated type of receiver. They have not. Nearly every all-mains set has its counterpart in the battery-operated type.

Circuits have also been greatly improved this season. The introduction of the screen-grid valve several years ago, and its subsequent improvements, have made selectivity one of the outstanding features of the 1930 receivers. Thus we have selectivity, increased range and greater purity of reproduction embodied in the up-to-date set.

THE KIT SETS.

The new kit sets will also come in for a good deal of attention. There are a number of outstanding models at the show. Low in price and efficient in operation, they should prove an attractive proposition to the person who can follow simple wiring instructions and who is prepared to assemble the components in his own home. In several of these kits I was struck with the particularly robust finish of the components and the excellent lay-out and design of the circuit. They are likely to prove a good investment.

Improvements in loud speaker designs is also very apparent this year. The permanent magnet moving-coil speaker is coming into its own. This type of speaker will be found on numerous stands, and will, I think, compare very well with the mains-driven type. The "dynamic inductor" principle of construction in cone speaker units will also be worth inspection. These speakers are becoming increasingly and deservedly popular with amateurs. Valves, too, are cheaper and better this year. There are no revolutionary changes in the principles of design, but characteristics have, in many instances, been greatly improved with consequently better all-round performance. All the leading British valve manufacturers are exhibiting at the Show, and will carry a complete range of valves on their stands. Several continental firms are also taking space this year, so that it will be possible to compare the various styles exhibited. Radio-gramaphones, ordinary gramaphones—electric and otherwise—will also be numbered among the exhibits. The organisers have again made arrangements whereby visitors can hear these instruments, and recitals will be given from 2 o'clock each day in a special hall set aside for the purpose. The radio and gramaphone trades are gradually merging, and although the latter is older by far, and many of its members are resisting the merger, it is easy to see that within a very few years both trades will be as one.

The electrical process of reproduction has made gramaphonic reproduction really worth while, and has largely extended the gramaphone field. The radio-gramaphone is the logical outcome of this development.

I should, in conclusion, advise everyone even remotely interested in broadcasting to pay a visit to the exhibition. Apart from being an education in itself, the Show will provide many entertaining features for the benefit of visitors.

Messrs. Ferranti are in charge of the public announcements made in the Mansion House during Wireless Week.

DUBLIN OPERATIC BROADCAST.

2RN PERFORMANCE OF "AIDA."

Continuing its series of opera broadcasts, the Dublin Broadcasting Station last Saturday night gave Verdi's "Aida." Written for a great theatrical occasion, the inauguration of a splendid opera house at Cairo, "Aida" is eminently a spectacular opera. It provides numerous opportunities for gorgeous stage settings and impressive ensembles crowding a wide proscenium. It would not have been surprising if the music without the pictures had failed to please. Actually, proving the soundness of Verdi's theatrical sense, the music heard on Saturday was vivid enough to re-create the spectacle in the minds of those listeners who had once seen a stage presentation of the opera. The performance was, then highly enjoyable, for the singing by principals and chorus alike was excellent, and the augmented orchestra, though lacking woodwind, and having only one trumpet to represent the brass, seldom seemed deficient in power or colour suggestion.

All the principals were good, but Miss May Busby's Aida was, possibly, the finest individual performance ever given from the Dublin studio. The brilliant quality of her voice, which those who heard her as Brunnhilda, with the Carl Rosa company last year, will not fail to remember, was naturally most effective in the big ensembles, but the sweetness and controlled beauty of her singing in the third act, and in the tomb scene at the close, was a thrillingly happy surprise for listeners. I expect Miss Busby to succeed very soon to the place in the esteem of judges of operatic singing held for some years past by Florence Austral.

THE OTHER ARTISTS.

Mr. Ben Williams, a popular Carl Rosa artist, was the Radames. He was not too happy in the "Heavenly Aida" solo; but what tenor ever is, for Verdi set a trying start for his hero in this opera. In the ensembles Mr. Williams was heard to good effect, and the beautiful smoothness of his voice was perfect for the part in the lovely closing duet. The strains there are lyrical music quite to his liking. Mr. Frank Sale, of the Covent Garden Opera Company, was the Amonasro, and did his part admirably to make the third act one of the best bits of the performance.

One could not have desired a better Amneris than Miss Enid Cruckshank. Mr. Austin Carnegie and Mr. J. C. Browner, as the High Priest and the King, were other members of a well selected cast. There was an efficient chorus, producing excellent quality of tone and ample volume for broadcasting purposes. Mr. Vincent O'Brien, a conductor who is never found wanting, held the performance together with his usual ability. As musical director of the Dublin broadcasting station he is entitled to high praise for the organisation of such an operatic performance.

HOSPITALS' SWEEP BROADCAST.

Twenty-four people—all Irish—took part in the first of "Sponsored Programmes," presented on Sunday evening by the Irish Hospitals' Sweep Committee. It was announced as "A jolly, bright musical and surprise entertainment," and fully justified its billing.

There were many surprises. The opening announcement of a relay was one; the idea of the sketch was another, and the dramatic break was a surprise in the Edgar Wallace style.

There is still another surprise in store for the lucky person who gets the £50 offered as a prize. A missing number is required—the clue to it is that it has five figures. The first figure is 5, and the figures are peculiar in themselves and make an unusual combination. Anybody is at liberty to send in a postcard to the Irish Hospitals' Sweep, 13 Earlsfort terrace, Dublin, bearing his name and address and his solution of the missing number.

The idea of this sponsored programme and competition originated with Mr. J. O'Sheehan, who wrote the sketch, arranged the medley of Irish airs, and produced the whole item. The principal artistes were:—Miss Molly Foley, soprano; Miss Florence Howley, contralto; Mr. Haviland Jackson, baritone; Mr. P. J. O'Toole, tenor; Mr. Feargus O'Sheehan, who directed the effects, and the author. Mr. W. Mitchell's orchestra supplied the music. There was, in addition, a chorus of twelve, selected from ladies on the staff of the Sweep.

THE FRUIT-GROWING INDUSTRY.

OBJECTS OF NEW ASSOCIATION.

DROGHEDA, Sunday.

Mr. George King, Julianstown, presided at a largely attended meeting of the fruit-growers of Duleek, Julianstown and Stamullen district in Dundalk this evening, when a code of rules governing the Fruit-Growers' Association, which it was decided to form at a previous meeting, was adopted unanimously.

Mr. P. McCarthy, secretary, explained that since the last general meeting two meetings of the committee had been held, at the latter of which a set of rules was adopted.

The rules set out the objects of the Association as—

(1) Co-operation of fruit-growers with a view to the protection of fruit-growing as an industry by any ways or means which in the opinion of the Association shall be necessary.

(2) The regulation of the relations between fruit-growers and labourers and to conduct trade negotiations.

(3) To discuss and advise on all questions affecting fruit-growing.

(4) To circulate advice, information and statistics relating to fruit-growing.

(5) To take all necessary steps to find new markets, to establish suitable distributing stations, and lease or rent suitable premises for the purpose.

(6) To negotiate contracts with jam manufacturers or others, open and maintain co-operative fruit stores, and generally to empower the chairman and committee to do all things that they, in their judgment, may determine to be for the benefit of the industry.

The rules also provided for the appointment and remuneration of a secretary and the holding of annual meetings.

Mr. Geraghty said that he did not think that the meeting was fully representative, but the Chairman said that that was probably due to the inclemency of the day.

Mr. R. Clarke proposed the adoption of the rules. The committee had done the best they could, and had given the rules every consideration before adopting them.

Mr. P. Curley seconded.

The Chairman put the resolution to the meeting, and it was adopted unanimously.

Several of those present handed in their membership subscriptions.

NEWS SUMMARY

IRELAND.

Dublin and the country generally was visited by a storm of wind and rain during the week-end. Many trawlers put in to Kingstown for shelter, and the Britannic was forced to omit her Queenstown call.—(Page 7.)

The Council of the Advertising and Publicity Clubs of Great Britain and Ireland met in Dublin on Saturday.—(Page 8.)

GREAT BRITAIN.

Miss Irene Burnside (21) was killed in an aeroplane accident at Detling, Kent, yesterday.—(Page 7.)

ABROAD.

Wing-Commander Kingsford-Smith has flown from England to Australia in ten days.—(Page 7.)

The Prime Ministers who are attending the Imperial Conference visited Aldershot on Saturday and witnessed a remarkable display by the mechanised Army.—(Page 13.)

M. Tardieu, the French Prime Minister, in a speech which he delivered yesterday near Belfort, said that in the midst of a world crisis France was privileged by political and economic stability. Her economic situation was extremely healthy.—(Page 7.)

The German Government scored a marked success on Saturday when the Reichstag, after a heated debate, rejected the Opposition group's vote of no confidence, and passed the third and final reading of the bill to provide a sinking fund for the floating debt, as well as the proposed international credit of 500,000,000 marks (£25,000,000).—(Page 7.)

SPORTING.

At Baldoyle on Saturday Sherdoon won the Donabate Hurdle Race, Marty the Juvenile Selling Plate, Suttywallups the Kinsealy Steeplechase, Summary the Autumn Plate, Coronoher the Claremont Steeplechase, and Crested Wave the Portmarnock Plate.—(Page 12.)

At Lingfield Quinine won the Lingfield Autumn Oaks.—(Page 12.)

At Catterick Bridge Eileandonan won the Bridge Handicap.—(Page 12.)

FINANCIAL.

Abundant credit was available in Lombard street on Saturday at 1½ per cent. over the week-end. Discount rates were easier. The Bank of England received 1,000,000 sovereigns from Australia, and sold £6,993 in bar gold and exported 2,000 sovereigns.—(Page 10.)

The closing was weak on the New York Stock Exchange last Saturday.—(Page 8.)

Unrest in Germany

The German Government has been victorious in its first trial of strength with the extremists. Last Saturday several votes of "no confidence" in Herr Bruening's Administration were tabled in the Reichstag by the "Nazis," on the one hand, and the Communists on the other; but the Government in every case had a comfortable, if not overwhelming, majority. Everything depended on the decision of the Social Democrats, whose attitude towards the Bruening Cabinet had not been defined clearly. When they were faced, however, with the alternatives of the existing Government and complete chaos they did not hesitate to make their choice, and voted in the Government Lobby. This action, naturally enough, was most unpopular with both wings of extremists. The Communists hurled abuse across the Chamber, stigmatising the Social Democrats as "Fascists"; the "Nazis," for entirely different reasons, were hardly less vehement. Since the Reichstag opened these two groups have been doing their best to turn the Chamber into a bear garden. Their hatred of each other is equalled only by their hatred of Herr Bruening and his political followers. If the "Nazis" or the Communists can discredit parliamentary institutions, they will have achieved one of the aims which they have in common; and the fact that the German Government has been able to maintain its position in the teeth of such determined enmity augurs well for the future of the Reich.

A great scare was created last week when a mob smashed the windows of Jewish shops in the Leipzigerstrasse. This outburst was the work of irresponsible youths, who have been condemned even by Herr Hitler, and the suggestion that it indicates a change of mind among the people is ridiculous. In almost every country, including Ireland, there are persons whose senses seem to leave them at times of political excitement. When the "Nazis" marched into the Reichstag, clad in their khaki shirts, and began to make themselves absurd by their feeble imitations of the Italian Fascists, their supporters had visions of an immediate dictatorship on the Mussolini model, and decided to make a demonstration against the Jews. The police were able to restore order very quickly, and now, apart from a few nightly squabbles in cafés between Communists and Hitlerites, Berlin is as quiet as any other city in Europe. Hitlerism in Germany is little more than a passing phase. Its leader is a romantic figure who has managed to attract a large number of young men to his side. His appeal to the "soul of Germany" has given these youths a chance to make their protest against the rather flabby course of the elder politicians, but he has neither the intelligence nor the character to capture the imagination of the German people.

The life of the present Reichstag is not likely to be very long. Herr Bruening may be able to retain the support of the Social Democrats for a while, but sooner or later a rupture will occur. For the moment, however, the Government is safe and probably will take the earliest opportunity to adjourn Parliament in order to prepare its Budget. In the meanwhile, the most interesting feature of the situation is the French attitude towards Germany. Hitherto M. Briand's influence has dominated the French Government. His work for Europe's peace has won the approval, if not the applause, of the majority of the French people, and but for the advent of Herr Hitler, with his swastikas, a lasting rapprochement between France and Germany might have been possible. Now the enemies of M. Briand are exultant. They demand the most far-reaching measures, and an important article in the current issue of the Revue des Deux Mondes, believed to have been written by General Weygand, warns the nation against the German dangers. Thus much of the good work of the last twelve years seems to have been undone. Germany must work out her own salvation. If she tolerates the sabre-rattling of the Hitlers and the Goebbels, she cannot complain when France takes fright. There is plenty of common-sense in Germany, which must assert itself now to ensure the stability of the Reich. We do not believe that the German people ever will accept a dictatorship, either of Fascists or of Communists, but they cannot afford a repetition of last week's antics.

Organised Crime.

We owe, perhaps, a debt to Jack Diamond; for he has focussed the attention of the world upon one of the most sinister features of our age. Hitherto there has been a tendency to regard the criminal situation in its organised form as a thing which need not concern respectable citizens. Provided that the denizens of the underworld were content to murder only one another, we have viewed their killings as the private vengeance of the outlaw, which, however deplorable, need not impinge upon our lives if we "do not get mixed up with that sort of thing." We have failed to recognise that under the vast dome of our rather top-heavy civilisation a new lawless society, prompted by the primitive passions of the savage, has been building up a code of wild justice. In the United States conditions have reached a point where every section of the body politic is becoming involved. The large trusts pay tribute to the gangs, and in New York the kosher meat trade, the milk distributors, and even the laundries are taxed after this irregular fashion. More serious, however, than the drain in money and lives—some twelve thousand people are assassinated annually in the United States—is the moral effect of these conditions upon the nation. It used to be said that crime did not "pay," but now in the United States crime, properly organised, is a highly profitable business. Political leaders often allow their protection to be bought by the gangs, while the youth of the country, encouraged by sensational films and irresponsible newspapers, sees in a man like Jack Diamond, not a sorry knave, but a hero of romance. The prospect is not auspicious; for the law seems to be powerless to check the evil. This unhappy state of affairs often is ascribed to prohibition, but a careful examination shows that prohibition, although it has opened up new avenues of illegal activity to a previously existing lawlessness, is not the basic cause. The real reasons for America's unenviable prominence in crime must be sought elsewhere. In the first place, owing largely to her early history as the land of refuge for persecuted sects, she has failed to produce an adequate moral training in her schools, presumably lest she incur the charge of religious intolerance. Secondly, home life in the poorer quarters of her cities leaves much to be desired, because in many cases the children of immigrants speak a different language from that of their parents. In the third place, her police system is not under Federal control. While the various States jealously protect their rights, their citizens, unable, as the gangster is able, to move their businesses from place to place, suffer. At last, however, there are indications that the nation has realised the extent of its disease. Its efforts to cure itself will be interesting, but they are not likely to be successful until a moral force has been created which will cause such deeply-rooted customs of American life as "graft" to be regarded as infamous.

Real Advertisement.

At a dinner given in Dublin last Saturday night, to celebrate the meeting of the Advertising and Publicity Clubs of Great Britain and Ireland, not a little sound sense was put into words. It is true that, as the very existence of such an organisation implies, advertising is the life-blood of modern commerce. It is true also that the Free State has derived great advantage from her campaigns of advertisement within recent years. Yet we submit that manufacturers and producers must not allow themselves to believe that widespread advertisement can cause new markets to spring into being, and old markets to be retained, by its virtues alone. Judicious and well-planned "publicity," as Mr. T. J. W. Kenny suggested, has brought three million pounds from tourists' pockets into the Free State at an expenditure of £15,000. Such a record is laudable, but advertisement to the value of thirty million pounds will not bring back a tourist who has found cause for complaint with the treatment meted out to him in Ireland. Advertisement must be supported by fact, and we are disposed to agree with the attitude of the Free State's Ministry for Industry, as revealed in the speech of Mr. R. C. Ferguson, who said that Government Departments "hardly felt that the time had arrived when they might indulge in publicity." To refrain from advertisement is an error, but to refrain from advertisement until one is sure that one's claims are justified is, or ought to be, an axiom of commercial wisdom. The time, as we hope, is near when the Free State can afford to broadcast her advantages, both to the tourist and to the buyer of commodities, without fear that her customers will be disappointed. Henceforth advertisement must be a mainstay of her traffic.

Journey's End.

All lovers of gallantry will rejoice that Wing-Commander Kingsford-Smith has achieved his latest venture. The flight from England to Australia has attracted the energies of many brave airmen, and has taken its toll of life. In 1919 Sir Ross Smith and his brother, Sir Keith Smith, made the passage in twenty-seven days twenty hours; a year later Lieutenants H. Parer and J. C. McIntosh were successful, although their flight, which had not the advantage of preliminary organisation, occupied several months. Sir Alan Cobham performed the flight in 1926 in thirty-eight days. In 1928 Mr. Hinkler set by his lone venture an example for others to follow; and Mr. F. C. Chichester last year, and Miss Amy Johnson this year, took up his challenge and flew alone to Australia, although they failed to lower his "record." Wing-Commander Kingsford-Smith has beaten Mr. Hinkler's time by a margin of four and a half days. In his career achievement has followed hard upon the heels of achievement; for no later than last July he realised his ambition to put a girdle about the earth, having journeyed by air across the Pacific in 1928, from Australia to Europe in 1929, and from Europe to the western shores of America in the present year. Now the Southern Cross Junior has proved herself to be a worthy successor of the Southern Cross, and Wing-Commander Kingsford-Smith has shown that the spirit which brought him around the world is undiminished. A similar spirit, as we hope, will ensure the happy issue of Flight-Lieutenant C. W. Hills's attempt to reach Australia.

THE SITUATION IN BRAZIL.

CLAIMS AND DENIALS.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Sunday.

The Federal forces operating against the rebels in the State of Minas Geraes continue to advance, according to a Government statement, and have defeated the rebels near Cambuquira. In other parts of Minas Geraes the situation remains unchanged.

On the Sao Paulo-Parana frontier the rebels have retreated in several places. Owing to the improvement in the atmospheric conditions, Federal aeroplanes have been able to reconnoitre the enemy positions.

THE CAPTURE OF ITARARE.

DENIED BY WAR MINISTER.

In a statement in the Press to-day the Minister of War gives a categorical denial to the reported capture of Itarare by the revolutionaries and to the claim that insurgent forces have entered the State of Sao Paulo.

He expresses absolute confidence in the General Staff and officers and men of the Army.

He adds that the armed forces of the country will defend the Legislature, Judiciary and Executive, and that the Army and Navy together represent an invincible force.

CHANNEL MINED.

WARSHIPS WARNED.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

BUENOS AIRES, Sunday.

A telegram from Porto Alegre says that warships have been notified by wireless that the revolutionaries have mined the Santa Catharina Channel.

It is added that martial law has been declared in Rio de Janeiro and Sao Paulo.

ALLIED DEBT PAYMENTS.

A POSSIBLE MORATORIUM.

FROM "THE TIMES" CORRESPONDENT.

WASHINGTON, Sunday.

A report is current in a very limited circle here, too important to be ignored, but impossible of confirmation, and thus to be accepted for the present as a rather vague report and no more.

It is that to-morrow Mr. Mellon, the Secretary of the Treasury; Mr. Ogden Mills, the Under-Secretary of the Treasury, and Mr. George Harrison, head of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, will have under discussion a draft plan for a possible moratorium on Allied debt payments to the United States. This plan, if it exists—and there is sufficient reason to assume that it does exist—would, of course, be tentative and conditional, and discussion would be concerned rather with its adaptability to some future contingency than to any immediate application of its terms.

Yet the no more than theoretic willingness of the United States Government to consider such a measure should bring encouragement to those who are convinced that the need of courageous action by the United States will be apparent in a not too distant future.

Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, the former President of the Reichsbank, spent 30 minutes with Mr. Stimson, the Secretary of State, yesterday, and will see President Hoover and Mr. Mellon to-morrow. What he said to Mr. Stimson has not been disclosed, but when he met the Press on emerging from the Secretary's office, he made no secret of his belief that at some unspecified time Germany would be forced to declare a moratorium on her conditional reparation payments. He did not elaborate on the results which would flow from such a step in the international field, but he did enlarge upon the economic injustice worked upon Germany by the Treaty of Versailles and the need for a revision of that instrument. It would be surprising if, in conversation with the President and other leaders of the administration, he should not advance and dilate upon the same theme.

WEATHER FORECAST.

General Inference.—A deep depression off North-West Ireland will move north, and a secondary trough will cross Great Britain. After rain during the night conditions will improve, but showers will occur in most districts, especially in the West and North.

North-West, North-East, South-East and South-West Ireland.—Wind west to south-west, fresh or strong at first, then moderating somewhat; showers and bright intervals; cooler.

Irish Sea and St. George's Channel.—Strong west or southwest wind, moderating somewhat; showers and bright intervals; visibility good; sea rough.

LONDON LETTER

THE GOVERNMENT'S POSITION.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
SUNDAY NIGHT.

The new session of the Imperial Parliament is near at hand, and the British Government, taking stock of a situation which cannot fail to be disquieting, begins to appreciate what administration really means. Its responsibilities increase every day, but it is patent to all that the strength to carry them does not grow as quickly. Questions of major importance come before the Cabinet for decision, but no decisions are made, and the questions are left in the air or tossed about like a shuttlecock. At present Mr. Snowden controls a situation of almost vital importance to the Empire, but the Government does not seem to be distressed, whereas everybody else is wondering what the effect will be on the band of overseas statesmen and on their countries. As things are, it is not surprising that political circles are looking forward to the Speech from the Throne with uncommon interest in the hope that it may give an inkling whether the Government intends to go to the country in the spring or not. The Speech, doubtless, will be long; for it will mention more than a dozen proposed measures, new or amending. In fact, it will be a "window-dressing" Speech, designed to make the fullest use of the occasion, and to clear the way for an appeal to the country.

The Conservative Prospects.

The Conservative Party is beginning to pull itself together, and it is expected to meet Parliament as a united body behind Mr. Baldwin and its other leaders. That there must be a party meeting before long is obvious, as many things have happened since Parliament was prorogued; and that Mr. Baldwin will be retained as the leader by a vote of confidence is just as plain. There are several members of the Conservative Party who object to Festina Lente as a motto, stoutly preferring the modern touch of "get on or get out"; but they are few, and, though some of them are important in various ways, they are not so important to the party that they will be able to stop the machine or to give it a new driver. The Conservative Party undoubtedly has some difficult days before it—possibly in the immediate future—but it is recovering gradually from the wave of inertia brought about by the adoption of "safety first" as its slogan, and its prospects of victory at the polls when the moment comes are distinctly encouraging.

Another By-Election.

Owing to regrettable confusion, the by-election at South Paddington, which opens to-morrow, with the nominations on Tuesday and the polling on October 30th, will be contested by no fewer than three Conservative candidates, and the possible result may be that a safe Conservative seat will be handed over to the Labour Party. The official Conservative selection is criticised bitterly by the two unofficial candidates, and there is much doubt whether the experience of the Bromley election, when there was an unofficial Conservative whose intervention failed to affect the result, can be repeated. South Paddington formerly was held by Commodore King, who lost his life in the recent yachting disaster off Cornwall.

The Round Table Conference.

It is understood that the Indian Round Table Conference will be opened by the King-Emperor on Monday, November 10th, at St. James's Palace, though possibly the venue may be changed in favour of a place with greater accommodation. It is now concluded that the Conference will last well into the new year, and in view of this possibility the name of the next Viceroy of India may not be announced for some months to come. Lord Irwin will carry on until the end of his period of office—a circumstance which proves most acceptable to the Prime Minister, who is anxious to have his advice and opinion during the progress of the Conference. It is remarked to-day that there is no new departure in the failure to announce the Viceroy's name many weeks ahead of the date on which his commission is made out; for such a step has been taken on several former occasions.

An Oriental Season.

So much interest has been aroused by the Exhibition of Persian Art, due to open at the Royal Academy in the new year, that the early season is likely to receive a distinctly Persian and Indian tincture. The first sign of influence is a great Persian ball that will be given at Grosvenor House in December when Lady Howard de Walden will be the President, and Mrs. Arthur McGrath chairman. Sir Denison and Lady Ross are lending their co-operation, so that the beauty and correct form of the details may be assured. There will be a series of scenes representative of the historic Persian paintings that will be seen later in the Exhibition.

The Tourist Traffic.

The Travel Association of Great Britain and Ireland has been extremely active during the past few months, and one notable result is that, having secured a large volume of evidence to show that Government regulations and restrictions are a serious deterrent to visitors, it has prepared a memorandum which will be forwarded to the Ministers in charge of the principal departments concerned. Furthermore, Mr. L. Atherton Dixon has taken up duty as representative of the Association in the United States, and will arrange broadcast talks from 237 wireless stations in North America, describing life in Great Britain and Ireland. A series of beautiful photographs of British and Irish scenery now are being displayed in the railway carriages on the chief Belgian lines. The Association is contemplating the preparation of a bill to be presented to Parliament, extending the advertising powers of health and pleasure resorts on this side of the Channel.

Helium.

The terrible fate of R 101 will not affect the construction of the great airship now being built at Akron, Ohio, for the United States Navy. It is considered that the conditions governing the construction and use of the two vessels are not analogous, since the use of helium as the lifting gas in the case of the United States airship allows the building of an entirely different form of craft. Furthermore, helium, being non-inflammable, enables the engines to be placed in positions which would be impossible with an airship using hydrogen. Since the wreck of the R 101, telegraphic reports have reached this country that helium gas can be obtained in Ceylon, as well as in Canada.

Christmas Shopping.

The Christmas shopping season opens earlier on every succeeding year, and it is to begin this year with the opening of November in order that the many visitors to the centre from outer London, brought in by the Lord Mayor's procession and the Armistice celebrations, may be attracted. Possibly another reason is that the shopkeepers, in view of the long-continued depression, are hoping for a change and intend to give people a longer period to spend their money. The displays in the West End are to be on a great scale this year, and it is said that a general feature will be British goods.

TO AUSTRALIA IN TEN DAYS.

KINGSFORD-SMITH'S GREAT FLIGHT.

A FEARLESS AIRMAN.

TRIBUTE TO HIS RIVAL—"HILL'S ACHIEVEMENT IS FINER THAN MINE."

By landing at Port Darwin yesterday, Wing-Commander Kingsford-Smith has accomplished the feat of flying from England to Australia in 10 days 2 hours 10 minutes, thus beating Mr. Bert Hinkler's "record" by four and a half days.

Commander Kingsford-Smith has brought off more successful long-distance flights than any other man since the beginning of aviation, and he is the only Briton to fly round the earth.

In the Southern Cross he flew from the United States across the Pacific Ocean, brought it from Australia to Europe, and then flew from Portmarnock to Newfoundland and later to San Francisco, completing the circuit.

Messages of congratulation have been sent to him on behalf of the King, the Prime Minister, the new Secretary of State for Air, and by Mr. Bert Hinkler.

Kingsford-Smith passed his rival, Lieutenant Hill, at Atamboa, where Hill's machine had been damaged in taking off. The two airmen met, and Kingsford-Smith says that he was very sorry to see Hill in such a plight, because he considered that he had achieved something wonderful. "His flight was infinitely more difficult, and was, therefore, a finer achievement than mine."

Wing-Commander Kingsford-Smith left for Sydney this morning on the resumption of his flight.

FROM PRESS ASSOCIATION SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.

PORT DARWIN, Sunday.

Smiling and tanned, Wing-Commander Kingsford-Smith looked down from the cockpit of his machine, the Southern Cross Junior, when it came to rest at the aerodrome here at 1.56 (local time) this afternoon, and returned the greetings of the Government and civic authorities who had come to meet him. The exact time that he had taken on his trip from England was 10 days 2 hours 10 minutes. On descending from the 'plane he asked for a cigarette. He was also offered a whiskey and soda, and replied: "No, thanks; I prefer flying on water." He then drove into the town for a wash, had dinner, and at once returned to the aerodrome to overhaul his 'plane. He was wearing plus fours, and on his right wrist he carried the gold elephant charm.

HILL'S SPLENDID FIGHT.

The airman said that he had been grieved to hear of the mishap to Flight-Lieutenant C. W. Hill, who damaged his 'plane when taking off from Koepang (Batavia) yesterday, after a keen effort to retain the lead over Kingsford-Smith and arrive here first. "Hill put up a splendid fight," he said.

Describing the last hop of his flight, Wing-Commander Kingsford-Smith said that he had had to allow a variation of five degrees owing to a strong wind, but he had sighted Bathurst Island at the time he had expected. The flight, he declared, was the best he had ever done, the average speed being 110 miles per hour.

After his arrival here the famous airman met many old Australian friends, including some who had been his mates during the war. He is leaving for Sydney at six o'clock to-morrow morning, and Captain Matthews, who arrived here yesterday after an unlucky trip, takes off an hour later.

MESSAGE FROM HINKLER.

The first congratulatory message which Wing-Commander Kingsford Smith opened after his "record"-breaking flight was a telegram from Mr. Bert Hinkler, who established the previous record flight from England to Australia in 1928.

"A FINER ACHIEVEMENT."

Commander Kingsford-Smith, referring to the accident which overtook Flight-Lieutenant Hill on Friday, said that when approaching Atamboa he saw Lieutenant Hill's machine lying on the ground fifty feet from the aerodrome, apparently in a dismantled condition. Lieutenant Hill told him that he had run his machine the full length of the aerodrome, but it would not lift. The left wing caught on a fence and the aeroplane capsized. Damage was done to the under-carriage and propeller, and the wings and fuselage were smashed. Commander Kingsford-Smith suggested that Lieutenant Hill might have his damaged machine sent to Singapore for repairs or shipped to England. "It was pitiful," the successful airman said, "to see Lieutenant Hill's machine smashed up and to see a gallant pilot lose all he had fought for so pluckily and had endured so much to attain. I was very sorry to see him in such a plight because I consider that he has achieved something wonderful. He had to do night flying and to battle against storms and other odds which I was fortunate to miss. His flight was infinitely more difficult and therefore a finer achievement than mine. Although Lieutenant Hill showed his disappointment in his face, he met me with a smile. He asked me whether I had a collapsible boat, and when I told him I had not, he said, 'Well, take mine. I shan't need it now.' In thanking him, I had to turn away to hide my emotion."

As to his flight, the worst stretch was between Rangoon and Singapore, where he met terrific head-winds, causing rough flying.

He has received a congratulatory message from Air Vice-Marshal Sir P. W. Game, who says: "I would wish you future success, but I can't think of anything further you can tackle."

A ROMANTIC CAREER.

THE FAMOUS PACIFIC FLIGHT.

There was a flavour of romance about this last flight, for Wing-Commander Kingsford-Smith was flying back to marry Miss Mary Powell, his fiancée, who lives at Melbourne.

Kingsford-Smith's career has been one of the outstanding romances of aviation. He leapt into fame two years ago at the age of 37 when he thrilled the world with his daring flight across the Pacific. His interest in aviation began in its early days, and when in his twenties he gained a reputation as an intrepid fighter in the Royal Flying Corps during the War. At a height of 12,000 feet he was wounded in a single-handed encounter with an enemy machine. He clung to the controls, and succeeded in landing safely, but fainted as soon as his machine touched the ground.

HIS UMBRELLA PARACHUTE.

When a child of five Wing-Commander Kingsford-Smith, who is an Australian, found a picture-book on flying. He was fascinated by it, attempted to parachute from a roof with an umbrella, and a broken collarbone was the result.

During the first night of the Pacific flight Kingsford-Smith flew "blind" in a raging storm, accompanied by tropical rain for several hours. The airman and his companions were mobbed by enthusiastic crowds upon their safe arrival in Australia, and Kingsford-Smith was made a Squadron-Leader in the Australian Air Force. A year later the world waited days for news when Kingsford-Smith and three compnions were lost in North-West Australia on the first stage of an attempt to fly from Sydney to London.

Eleven days later they were rescued at a desolate part of the coast by an aeroplane from Canberra. They had lived on a few sandwiches, a little gruel, mud snails and a type of wild bean. Undaunted by failure, Wing-Commander Kingsford-Smith accomplished the Australia-England flight at a second attempt in 12 days 14 hours. 18 minutes.

He has had many escapes from death, but his smiling indifference to danger seems always to carry him through.

Wing-Commander Kingsford-Smith started from England at 5.35 a.m. on October 9th. His times, compared with Mr. Hinkler's "record" flight and Flight-Lieutenant Hill's effort, are shown in the following table:—

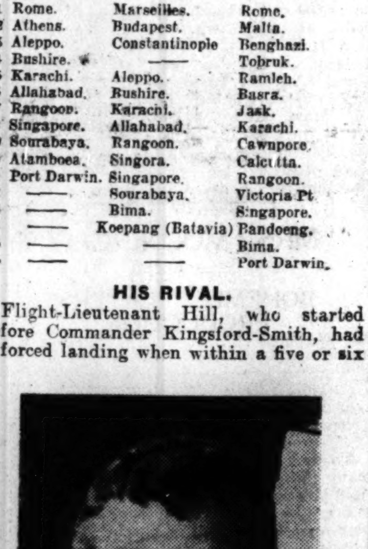
HIS RIVAL.

Flight-Lieutenant Hill, who started before Commander Kingsford-Smith, had a forced landing when within a five or six hours' flight distance from Port Darwin. When he was taking off again he damaged his machine, but if repairs can be effected he still has a chance of finishing his flight in brilliant fashion.



Wing-Commander Kingsford-Smith.

The distance between England and Port Darwin, Australia, is approximately 10,400 miles over land, sea, jungle, and a final 500-mile stretch of ocean.

EARLIER FLIGHTS.

The first flight from England to Australia was made in 1919, when the late Sir Ross Smith and his brother, Sir Keith Smith, on a Vickers Vimy, took 27 days 20 hours to get to Port Darwin. Sir Alan Cobham flew from England to Australia on June 30 to August 5 in 1926. Mr. Hinkler's solo flight was made in February, 1928. Last year Mr. F. C. Chichester flew to Australia in a Moth, and recently Miss Amy Johnson, in a Moth, took 20 days to do the flight.

UNSUCCESSFUL ATTEMPTS.

Many attempted flights to Australia have been unsuccessful, the most tragic being that which resulted in the death of Mr. Eric Hook, who crashed with Mr. Jack Matthews 150 miles from Rangoon. They were forced down owing to a leak in the petrol pipe, and Hook was badly injured. The men endured terrible privations in the jungle, and when Matthews reached Prome alone a search party was sent out, but it was too late, and Hook's dead body was found. They had left Lympne on June 20 in an attempt to beat Mr. Bert Hinkler's "record."

Captain F. R. Matthews, an instructor at the London Aeroplane Club, who arrived at Port Darwin on Saturday, was another who tried to beat Mr. Hinkler's "record" to Australia. He had two forced landings, however, and when he reached Singapore he knew that he could not beat the "record."

"A GLORIOUS ACHIEVEMENT."

EXCITEMENT IN REICHSTAG.

A THREAT TO KILL.

CRUSHING DEFEAT OF OPPOSITION.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

BERLIN, Saturday.

Lively scenes again characterised the sitting of the Reichstag to-day, when Communists as well as Nazis (Hitlerites) made every effort to turn Parliament into a bear garden.

The Socialist spokesman, a Munich Public Prosecutor, especially enraged the Nazis, one of whom threatened to kill him if he returned to Munich. The Nazi was promptly expelled from the sitting, as were also some of his party colleagues, and several Communists.

Over a dozen "No Confidence" motions against the Cabinet and certain Ministers were submitted by Nazis, German Nationalists and Communists. Towards evening, however, the parties supporting the Government—namely, the Centre Party, the People's Party, the Bavarian People's Party and the Democratic State Party—in order to save the Cabinet, introduced the following motion:—

"The Reichstag takes cognisance of the Government's declaration and proceeds to the order of the day over all "No-Confidence" motions, including those against individual Ministers."

It is certain that the Social Democrats will vote in favour of the motion, so that the Cabinet will be able to pursue its reform programme without having to resort to drastic measures.

BLOW TO OPPOSITION.

The first test of strength between the opposing factions came when the Coalition parties demanded that the emergency decrees which were promulgated by President Hindenburg, under Article 48 of the Constitution, should be referred to the Business Committee of the Reichstag. This motion was adopted by 329 votes against 220 votes of the Opposition, which had demanded their revocation.

Scenes, the like of which have never before been witnessed, occurred in the Reichstag when it became clearer that the Social Democrats were voting for the Government. The Communists shouted in chorus, "Down with the Socialist Fascists," and were loudly applauded by the Nazis, who, in turn, shouted: "Wake up, Germany."

The bill to provide a sinking fund for the redemption of Germany's floating debt, as well as the proposed international credit of 500,000,000 marks (£25,000,000) passed its third and last reading this evening by 325 votes to 257, the Government thus obtaining the substantial majority of 88 over its opponents.

BIG GOVERNMENT MAJORITY.

Dead silence reigned in the Reichstag when President Loebe announced that the House was now to take the vote on the motion of the Government Parties: "That the Reichstag proceeds to the order of the day over all 'no confidence' motions."

The motion was adopted by 318 votes against 236, a majority for the Government of 82.

The result was received with loud cheers by the Middle Party, and with hisses from the Nazis, German Nationalists and Communists, the latter singing the Internationale, while the Nazis shouted: "Wake up, Germany."

The Government had previously scored another victory, when the motion of the Government Parties to refer the Communist motion demanding the revocation of the Young Plan and the Versailles Treaty to the Foreign Affairs Committee was passed by 322 votes to 236.

EFFECT OF THE VICTORY.

The German Government's handsome victory over the noisy extremists of Right and Left in this first decisive engagement will have a reassuring effect on many minds, both inside and outside Germany. Much uneasiness, extensive repercussions in the international, financial and political spheres had been caused by the sensational results of the German general election last month, when Herr Hitler's followers of the Extreme Right were returned with 107 seats, as against only 12 in the old House, and at the same time the Communists, on the other wing, were increased from 54 to 76.

Dr. Bruening's Government owes to-day's victory to the fact that the Social Democrats, who are still the largest party with 143 seats, realised the significance of the issues at stake, and threw their weight on to the side of a Ministry in which they are not represented. The result shows that, despite the violent pronouncement of Right and Left extremists, the present Administration is assured of ample backing in its conciliatory foreign policy, and its drastic plans at home for putting the country's finances in order.

obtained yesterday by a Press Association reporter:—

Lord Amulree, the new Air Minister—"It is a glorious achievement."

Captain Errol Boyd, the Canadian airman, who, with Lieutenant Harry Connor, flew the Atlantic on October 9-10 last, and is now in London planning a return flight—"It is a most wonderful feat. I met Wing-Commander Kingsford-Smith ind America, and he is a great man. If he goes after something he does it. He deserves every recognition. It will be a long time, I think, before his new "record" is taken away from him, and it will need very powerful machine to do it."

Lieutenant-Commander H. E. Perrin, Secretary of the Royal Aero Club—"We congratulate Commander Kingsford-Smith on having completed a most magnificent flight. It was typical of the man. He was out to do it and he did it; I consider that his flight is one of the greatest feats of endurance that has ever been done. At the same time I would like to mention Lieutenant Hill's bad luck. After such a great performance it is a pity he did not arrive at Port Darwin first; for, although he would not have beaten Kingsford-Smith's time, he at least would have held the 'record' for a few hours."

When Mrs. Hill, wife of Flight-Lieutenant C. W. Hill, who is leaving England to-morrow to join her husband, heard of Commander Kingsford-Smith's success she said to the Press Association: "Would you give Commander Kingsford Smith my best congratulations on his splendid flight."

MESSAGE FROM THE KING.

A telegram was despatched from Sandringham requesting the Acting Governor of Australia to convey a message of congratulation from the King to Kingsford-Smith.

The Prime Minister has also sent his congratulations to the flyer.

The Prime Minister's telegram read: "Most hearty congratulations on your wonderful flight.—Ramsay Macdonald."

Lord Amulree wired: "On behalf of the Air Council I send you warmest congratulations on the completion of your magnificent 'record' flight to Australia.—Amulree, Secretary of State for Air."

SIR ALAN COBHAM'S TRIBUTE.

Sir Alan Cobham said to a reporter last night: "It is a magnificent performance. One of the chief features of it is that he has done much to demonstrate to the man-in-the-street the possibilities of flying. Surely we ought to take note and say: 'What are we going to do about it?' We have got to have air routes all over the Empire. Commander Kingsford-Smith has shown us what can be done. If we don't take heed, we are not repaying him properly."

DUBLIN STORM SWEPT.

FLOODS IN CITY AND COAST TOWNS.

VESSELS SEEK SHELTER AT KINGSTOWN.

Severe storms were experienced in Dublin and throughout the country during the week-end, the heavy rain of yesterday causing flooding in different parts of the city. The rain was accompanied by a high wind, which made matters very difficult for pedestrians who had to be about. Owing to the gale and huge seas the Britannic had to omit her Queenstown call yesterday.

The weather in Youghal last Friday was of a freakish description. A heavy downpour of rain was followed by a gale to be succeeded in turn by a thunderstorm.

Severe weather also was experienced along the South Dublin coast. Many trawlers and a few schoneors sought the shelter of Kingstown Harbour.

IN DUBLIN.

The heavy downpour of yesterday afternoon, which was accompanied by a gale caused by a very active atmospheric depression passing over Ireland in a north-easterly direction, following upon the intermittent rain of preceding days, led to flooding in the city and in country districts.

Several sports fixtures were abandoned and the conditions were responsible for a new low "record" in Croke Park attendances, there being only a few score spectators at the final of the Junior All-Ireland Hurling Championship.

Towards evening the direction of the wind became westerly and the skies cleared.

Those parts of the city that suffer from flooding were again affected, but not seriously. In the Clontarf area the raised tramcar, used when the roadway is under water, was running during the afternoon; but there was no interference with omnibus traffic.

In the Blackpitts district there was also some flooding. When the rain ceased, however, the floods subsided.

The rain measurement in the city yesterday was .76 inches, or 76 tons of water on every acre. Last Friday the rainfall was .83 inches, so that in the two days the rainfall was nearly 1.6 inches, or 160 tons of water per acre.

ALONG THE COAST.

A rain and wind storm prevailed along the South Dublin coast from the early hours of yesterday until late in the evening. It was a southerly wind and was accompanied by a heavy downpour of rain. There was most of the day an atmosphere of heavy mist out at sea. During the early part of the day some six or seven Grimsby and Fleetwood trawlers struggled into the shelter of Kingstown Harbour, where already, sensing the bad weather, a couple of schooners had taken refuge the previous day.

In the Channel the wind reached the velocity of a gale. All vessels which ran for the harbour shelter found it fairly easy of access, and no accidents were reported.

So heavy was the rain in the towns that the drains were unequal to carrying away the inrush of water. Dozens of long lakes of rain water, overflowing footpaths as well as roadways, were met with on the main roads. At Williamstown the roadway and sidewalks were submerged for a space. The hollow at the old Dunleary level crossing was a big pond several inches deep. When motor cars passed through at any high speed the deep water was swept right over their tops. In many places where the rain accumulated by the roadsides pedestrians were often drenched in the splashing caused by passing vehicles.

FIERCE GALE AT QUEENSTOWN.

BRITANNIC OMITS CALL.

Those who made the journey yesterday morning by tender from Queenstown to greet their relatives from the United States of America were disappointed; for the Britannic omitted the Queenstown call and proceeded direct to Liverpool. The tender proceeded out to Roche's Point to wait for the liner; but, failing to discern the vessel owing to prevailing fog, and being severely buffetted, it returned to the harbour. Later a wireless message was received from Captain Summers, Commander of the Britannic, stating that owing to a raging south-westerly gale, huge seas and fog, he deemed it the more prudent to omit the local call, and was proceeding to Liverpool.

The Britannic had aboard one hundred and seventeen passengers and one hundred and nine sacks of mail for disembarkation at Queenstown. This complement of passengers is nearly double that landed from the White Star vessel on the similar sailing last year, and is believed to be a post-war "record" number of American visitors to come to Ireland by any one vessel at such an advanced stage of the season.

Yesterday's gale was one of the fiercest experienced within recent years, and, though it abated with remarkable suddenness a few hours following the Britannic's departure, huge waves could be discerned breaking over the wreck of the liner Celtic up to a late hour last evening.

The strong wind caused considerable annoyance to large numbers of pedestrians attending Divine Service yesterday morning, and slates were ripped from roofs of dwellings situated in the more exposed parts of the town.

YOUGHAL—There was a heavy downpour of rain in Youghal last Friday. It cleared off in the afternoon, when the wind veered from S.S.E. to S.W. and blew a fierce gale. A three-master which left in the morning had to turn back, reaching the harbour again with much difficulty. Afterwards there was a severe thunderstorm, followed again by heavy rain.

WATERFORD — A heavy rainstorm broke over Waterford yesterday morning and lasted for the greatest part of the day. All outdoor fixtures were abandoned.

MONAGHAN—The heavy rain of last Friday caused serious flooding in County Monaghan.

LOUGHREA—A severe storm, accompanied by heavy floods, broke over Loughrea on Friday night. The electric light failed, leaving the town in darkness. Trees were uprooted and galvanised roofs dismantled. In the rural districts hay and oats were scattered, and in low-lying areas large tracts of pasture land were submerged.

SNOW IN NEW YORK.

A Reuter's New York telegram of yesterday's date says:—After an unusually prolonged St. Luke's summer New York has had its first taste of winter, the temperature over the week-end falling with startling suddenness to 40 degrees. Eighteen inches of snow fell in some parts of New York State, and thousands of cars are snow-bound.

THE KING IN COUNCIL.

LORD AMULREE RECEIVES THE SEALS OF OFFICE.

The King held a Council at Sandringham on Saturday, when Lord Amulree was sworn a member of the Privy Council. Lord Amulree received from the King the seals of office, took the oath, and kissed hands on his appointment as Secretary of State for Air.

FRANCE'S HAPPY POSITION.

UNDISTURBED BY WORLD CRISIS.

MORE INDUSTRY AND FEW UNEMPLOYED.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

PARIS, Sunday.

The comparative immunity of France during the present world crisis in trade and business was the theme of a speech by M. Tardieu, the Prime Minister, which he delivered to-day at a banquet given in his honour at Delle, near Belfort.

Concerning the world economic situation, M. Tardieu said: "I wish that the people of France would unite in viewing their country as foreigners see her, for they realise that in the midst of a world crisis she is privileged by political and economic stability. Indeed, the economic situation is extremely healthy.

RESERVES DOUBLED.

"Reserves covering currency have doubled in the course of two years and now amount to 50,000,000,000 francs gold (approximately £400,000,000). Savings Banks deposits, which is 1926 totalled 5,000,000,000 francs (approximately £120,000,000), amounted in 1929 to 32,000,000,000 francs (£245,000,000), and during the first half of 1930 increased by a further 12 per cent.

"French 3 per Cent. State Bonds have risen in Paris from 66 francs in 1928 to 87 francs to-day, and in New York French 7 per Cent. State Bonds have risen from 108 francs to 120 francs in the space of a year. Only Dutch, Swiss and Swedish State Certificates sell at such a high rate as the French.

"During the first half of 1930," M. Tardieu continued, "the value of loan issues amounted to 11,500,000,000 francs as against 15,000,000 francs for the whole twelve months of 1929.

ONLY 1,000 UNEMPLOYED.

"There was a 4 per cent. increase in industry during the first quarter of the present year over the general index figure for 1928. Other figures, notably that for steel smelting, show the same satisfactory movement. Wheat values have increased by 10 per cent. since July, 1930, while in the United States they have decreased by 40 per cent.

"Lastly, in June last there were only 1,000 unemployed in France."

In conclusion, M. Tardieu said: "To safeguard our position we need more than ever to be united, and to show by the national attitude that we are aware of our assets, and are determined to make use of them.

"I have no intention of discussing certain recent manifestations, because these are merely superficial movements which do not alter the parliamentary position."

"NO CAUSE FOR ALARM."

PREMIER'S FAITH IN THE FUTURE.

"There is no cause for alarm, but we need to be watchful, and on that point 80 per cent. of Frenchmen would agree," said M. Tardieu in a speech to ex-Service men at Giromagny, near Belfort, at a meeting during which he decorated the Mayor with the Cross of the Legion of Honour.

"Events abroad in the past months have often disappointed our hopes, and we are, therefore, having to watch the foreign situation attentively, though without alarm.

"Our efforts to ensure peace by organisation through the development of arbitration as a means of security and a necessary condition before armament could be reduced have not had the success we hoped for, and we are, therefore, using means suited to the present conditions, demanding respect for our frontier and our treaties.

"To-day, as yesterday, I have faith in the future."

THE INTERNATIONAL SITUATION.

FRENCH SOCIALISTS ALARMED.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

PARIS, Sunday Night.

The National Council of the Socialist Party has adopted a report on foreign policy, calling the attention of the public to the disquieting phase which has set in during the last few months in the international situation.

The Socialists declare that Russian Bolshevism, Italian Fascism and German Racialism, in spite of their differences, are joined together in the same war idealogy, and thus constitute a paramount danger for peace and an incentive to armaments competition.

The Council expresses the desire to see France at the Disarmament Conference taking the initiative in schemes for making both disarmament and arbitration practical realities, with substantial guarantees for the execution of arbitral judgments.

DUBLIN HOSPITALS' SWEEPSTAKE.

SUBSCRIPTION FROM EARL OF DERBY.

The Earl of Derby has subscribed for twenty-five tickets in the Irish Free State Hospitals' Sweepstake for the Manchester November Handicap, the draw for which will take place at the Mansion House, Dublin, on November 17. The subscriptions, so far, exceed the highest expectations, and it is expected that more than £100,000 will be available for distribution in prize money. Half the total amount will go to the drawer of the winning horse, one-fifth to the drawer of the second horse, and one-tenth to the drawer of the third horse. There will also be substantial prizes for the drawers of starters and non-starters.

COUNT DE MAZIN DEAD.

OPPOSED THE KAISER'S FOREIGN POLICY.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

BERLIN, Saturday.

The death is announced at Munich of Count Anton Monts de Mazin, aged seventy-eight, who was formerly German Ambassador in London and Rome. During his period of office in Rome, Count de Mazin strongly opposed the foreign policy of the Chancellor, Prince Buelow, because he believed that Germany's alliance with Austria-Hungary and Italy handicapped the country's true interests.

This opopsition was expressed in a letter which he wrote in 1909, in which he said that "with Buelow as pilot and the Kaiser as captain, the German ship of State will get more and more into troubled waters."

Next year he gave further expression to his dissatisfaction by quitting the Diplomatic Service.

THE BANK OF SPAIN.

VICE-GOVERNOR TO BE PROSECUTED.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

MADRID, Sunday.

With reference to the suspension of the Vice-Governor of the Bank of Spain (the Marquis De Cabra), the Minister of Finance says that the Marquis De Cabra will be prosecuted for refusing to obey the instructions of the Government.

LATE NEWS.

BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT WITH "THE TIMES."

THE IMPERIAL CONFERENCE.

A CRITICAL STAGE.

The Times of to-day observes in a leading article:—Within a few days the Imperial Conference will reach the stage when it has to take decisions—decisions which, whether for good or for evil, must profoundly affect the future of all the nations of the Empire. So far in the work of the Conference the British Government have made no attempt to give any sort of lead. The other Empire Governments have shown that they know exactly what they want, and how, in their opinion, it can best be secured. To all suggestions that have been made—even to the suggestions which they have themselves tabled for consideration—the British delegation have maintained a rigidly non-committal attitude. This was quite plainly due to the paralysing effect of internal dissension, but in the preliminary stages of the Conference it could very well be defended on practical grounds. There was, perhaps, an advance to be gained by learning the views of the Dominions and examining the various suggestions made before taking any definite line.

Especially on the vexed question of tariff preferences, it was certainly desirable, before any declaration of policy was made, to know in general terms, at any rate, what advantages the Dominions desired in the British market and what advantages in return they were willing to give British trade in their markets. But these considerations will no longer apply when the plenary meetings begin again at the end of this week or the beginning of next. The views of the Dominions have been expressed with the greatest clearness and frankness, and the Special Committee will by then have reported upon all the different proposals which have been put before the Conference. Unless they are to fail in their plain duty and let the Conference end in a fiasco, the British Government, when the plenary meetings are resumed, must take the lead in arriving at the necessary conclusions.

TARIFF PREFERENCES.

In particular, they must define their attitude towards the desire, so urgently and so unanimously expressed by the Dominions, for a system of reciprocal tariff preferences. No one expects them to commit themselves beforehand to accept any scheme that may be devised. A detailed scheme would, it is common ground, take a considerable time to prepare, and could probably best be considered, as Mr. Bennett has suggested, by the Conference after an adjournment of some months. What is expected from them is a plain declaration, whether in the light of all that has been put before the Conference they believe it possible to devise a scheme which would be mutually beneficial, and whether they are ready to co-operate in preparing one for joint consideration.

And it must, moreover, be expected—after all the promises made by Mr. Macdonald and Mr. Thomas—that in determining their attitude on this question they will be influenced solely by the desire to do what is best for Great Britain and for the Empire, and that they will cut themselves free from the shackles of an obsolete economic philosophy, the teachings of which they have already discarded. The Government that passed the Coal Mines Act of last session cannot with any consistency quote the old tags about the supreme advantages of "free competition" and "open markets," nor can the party which stands for the rigid protection of Labour profess to believe that it is always a good thing for a nation to buy as cheaply as possible.

INDIAN UNREST.

JAWAHARLAL NEHRU ARRESTED.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

ALLAHABAD, Sunday Night.

Jawaharlal Nehru, President of the All-Indian Congress, who recently was released from jail, was re-arrested to-night, under Section 124 A of the Indian Penal Code, on returning from a meeting.

Jawaharlal Nehru was to have addressed to-night's meeting, but did not do so in consequence of the order prohibiting him from addressing any public meeting in Allahabad for two months.

He was arrested near his residence, and was taken to Naini Jail, where he served his previous term of imprisonment. It is understood that the Pandit was arrested because of a speech made a week ago—two or three days after his release from jail—in which he said that the first phase of the great struggle was ended, and the second stage was beginning. He added, that the main feature of this second phase would be the non-payment of taxes. He also said that while the lawyers were arguing and quibbling in London, they in India would fight for reality and the conquest of power.

The Conference of Congress Volunteers which Mr. Nehru attended earlier to-day was not open to the Press.

A Bombay message, dated Sunday, says:—Haji Noor Mahomed Ahmed, a Moslem, who was elected President of the Bombay Congress War Council on Friday, was arrested this morning. His predecessor in the position, Osman Sobhani, had an equally short run, being elected on Wednesday, and arrested and sentenced to nine months' rigorous imprisonment two days later.

CHANDERNAGORE RAID

FRENCH OFFICIAL VISIT.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

CHINSURA, BENGAL, Saturday.

It is reported that the Governor-General of French India will visit Chandernagore shortly in connection with the last month's raid into Chandernagore by Bengal police, under Sir Charles Tegart, for the arrest of persons alleged to have been engaged in terrorist activities in British India. It is understood that the French Minister of the Colonies is expected soon from Paris.

Chandernagore is a small French settlement twenty miles from Calcutta. Acting on information that men wanted for terrorism and murder—including the men who raided the Chittagong armouries—had taken refuge there, the Bengal police, with the permission of the French authorities, raided a bungalow across the border on September 2nd. A revolver battle followed, in which one Bengali was killed and four were arrested.

AIR ACCIDENT IN RUSSIA.

FRENCH PILOT ARRESTED.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

MOSCOW, Sunday.

The French pilot, Felix Laugereau, who crashed yesterday 75 miles south of Orsha, has been arrested for flying over U.S.S.R. without the permission of the Soviet Government.

M. Laugereau said that he was engaged in a flight from Le Bourget to Danzig, Minsk and Saratov.

GIRL KILLED IN AIR ACCIDENT.

MACHINE STRIKES A TREE.

DOCTOR OWNER-PILOT INJURED.

Miss Irene Burnside, the twenty-one-year-old daughter of the Principal of St. Edmund's School, Canterbury, was killed yesterday, and Dr. Edward Douglas Whitehead Reid, of St. George's House, Canterbury, a well-known physician, was seriously injured, when the aeroplane in which they were travelling crashed at East Sutton Park, near Detling, Kent.

Dr. Reid, who has flown in air races, was piloting the machine. The aeroplane crashed into trees in the grounds of East Sutton Park when the pilot was attempting to make a forced landing. The machine belonged to Dr. Reid, and he had taken Miss Burnside out for a short trip. The accident occurred when they were returning home.

AN ENTHUSIASTIC AIRWOMAN.

Miss Burnside was an enthusiastic airwoman. Her father is the Rev. Canon W. F. Burnside.

East Sutton Park is tenanted by Mrs. Stanley Wilson, and is not far from Maidstone.

Eye-witnesses state that the machine seemed to be in difficulties before the pilot attempted to make a forced landing. By the time the ambulance arrived Miss Burnside was dead. Dr. Reid was removed to West Kent Hospital. He sustained a fractured skull and other injuries.

East Sutton Park is an isolated spot, about four miles from Detling. "It was getting dark," said a woman who was passing near the spot, "when I heard the hum of an aeroplane engine. Suddenly there was a crash, and I saw the tail of an aeroplane disappearing into some trees. There was a loud report, and some flames leaped up."

A WING TORN OFF.

Mr. Fullman, the manager of the Queen Head Hotel, which is a short distance from East Sutton Park, said: "The accident happened about 5.30 p.m. It was becoming dark at the time, and a heavy fog came over from the sea."

A. Mr. Burt, a gardener, who saw the whole thing, told me that the machine began circling round, obviously trying to find a landing place in a field adjoining East Sutton Park. A belt of fir trees, 30 to 40 feet high, surrounds the park, and the pilot seemed to have difficulty in avoiding them. It appears that in an effort to avoid crashing into them he opened out his engine to rise above them. One of the wings struck a tree and was torn off.

"The machine wobbled brokenly across the road and crashed nose first into the base of a sycamore tree, not 40 yards from East Sutton Park House.

WAY LOST IN FOG.

"Mr. Burt was the first there, and he attempted to pull the pilot and the woman out of the cockpits. The girl was killed outright.

"Later we were able to pull the two of them out and render what help we could until local doctors arrived. The propeller and part of the engine were buried in the tree.

Dr. Reid kept his aeroplane at Deakesbourne Aerodrome, Canterbury. He had set off during the morning to take Miss Burnside to Sussex, and apparently lost his way in the fog that came up.

Dr. Reid attended the Archbishop of Canterbury when he was taken ill soon after his enthronement. Miss Burnside was one of four sisters. Their father, Canon Burnside, and Dr. Reid were friends. Miss Burnside was a great enthusiast for flying, and often went for flights with Dr. Reid.

TOOK PART IN AERIAL DERBY.

Dr. Reid is aged 47. He served in the European War as surgeon at the Duchess of Westminster Hospital, France, and later with the Egyptian Expeditionary Force. He is greatly interested in aeronautics, and has been an owner-pilot since 1919. He flew in the first Grosvenor Cup Race and the last Aerial Derby. Dr. Reid, who is the son of a doctor, is married.

Dr. Reid was reported to be in a very grave condition at midnight.

This makes a total of twenty-two people killed in civil aeroplane crashes in England since the beginning of this year—twelve in accidents to air liners and ten in mishaps to private machines.

FATAL MOTORING ACCIDENT.

SCHNEIDER TROPHY PILOT KILLED.

Flight-Lieutenant O. E. Worsley, who was a member of the British Schneider Trophy team in 1927, died on Saturday in Windsor Hospital, following a motoring accident on the Great Bath road.

Flight-Lieutenant Worsley, who was attached to the 29th R.A.F. Squadron at Epping, was driving a motor car from Maidenhead towards London on Saturday afternoon, and was overtaking a car west of Slough when a collision occurred with another car travelling in the opposite direction.

Flight-Lieutenant Worsley was thrown from his car, and suffered severe head injuries. He had a companion, who fortunately, escaped injury.

This is the third fatal accident on the Bath road, Slough, within three days.

In 1927 the Schneider Trophy Race was held over the Adriatic, near Venice, and was won by Britain. Each of the three Italian machines failed to complete the course. The winner was Flight-Lieutenant S. M. Webster, who covered the triangular course at an average speed of over 281 miles per hour. This was the highest speed attained up to that time.

One of the British team of three was Flight-Lieutenant Kinkead, who had to give up after six circuits of the course. He was killed while attempting to break the seaplane speed "record" a few months later in trials over the Solent. The third member of the British team, Flight-Lieutenant Worsley, was the only other man, apart from Flight-Lieutenant Webster, to complete the course. He was flying a super-marine Napier machine.

Flight-Lieutenant Worsley's companion was Flying-Officer Darbyshire, who refused to go to hospital.

"BEST FORM OF INVESTMENT."

ADVERTISING AND PUBLICITY.

BRITISH DELEGATES IN DUBLIN.

The Council of the Advertising and Publicity Clubs of Great Britain and Ireland met in Jury's Hotel, Dublin, on Saturday. In addition to the Irish members, delegates attended from all the important centres of England and Wales.

Mr. Andrew Milne (London), Chairman of the Clubs' Council, presided, and the business was conducted in private.

THE LUNCHEON.

The delegates were later entertained to luncheon, at which Mr. C. E. McConnell, President of the Publicity Club of Ireland, presided. Welcoming the visitors, he expressed the hope that their visit to Dublin would be an enjoyable experience, and that good results would follow the proceedings of their conference.

Mr. T. A. Grehan, Vice-President, Publicity Club of Ireland, also joined in the welcome, and amidst applause presented a Claddagh ring to Mr. A. Milne, Chairman of the Clubs' Council, and a similar gift to Mr. Walter Henman, Hon. Secretary, Advertising Association of Great Britain and Ireland.

Mr. Cormac Breathnach, speaking in Irish, also heartily welcomed the delegates to Dublin. Mr. Andrew Milne, responding to the toast of the delegates, expressed the thanks of the visitors for the very enthusiastic welcome that had been accorded them. Dublin, he was glad to say, was getting out of her difficulties and pulling herself round. He was delighted to see that, in twelve months, wonderful changes had taken place in her development.

Mr. G. Russell Chapman, General Secretary of the Advertising Association, and Mr. Walter Henman also responded.

ADVERTISING THE FREE STATE.

Captain Charles Higham (Manchester) said that in England they admired the way things were going on in Ireland. He thought more might be done to advertise the Free State. "In England," he said, "we take a tremendous amount of your exports, and would sooner have your exports than Danish or those of any other foreign country." He hoped that they would have a greater Dublin and a greater Ireland.

Mr. John Fergus (Glasgow) expressed thanks for the cordiality of the welcome to the visitors.

Mr. W. Findlater (Dublin) proposed the health of the Chairman and Mrs. McConnell.

Mr. McConnell suitably responded on his own behalf and on behalf of Mrs. McConnell.

LORD MAYOR'S ADDRESS.

At a dinner given in the Gresham Hotel in the evening the Lord Mayor (Senator Alfred Byrne), proposing the toast of "The Visitors," said that he was pleased to be accorded the privilege of welcoming the delegates to Dublin because of the fact that it was one of the first public functions he had attended since his election to the position of Lord Mayor. Dublin had had no Lord Mayor or Corporation for the past seven years, but they had now resumed municipal control, and it was the aim and desire of all his colleagues that the best traditions of civic government should be maintained in their ancient city.

They were a capital of a new State in the making, and so far they had established their claim and justified their position as part of the great Commonwealth of Nations. Most of them would have observed their recognition by the League of Nations, and the part that they were playing at the moment in the affairs of the Imperial Conference. He had been a member of their great British Legislative Assembly, and it might interest them to know that the Lord Mayor of Dublin—the title went back to 1443—was the only Lord Mayor or Mayor who is entitled to appear personally at the Bar of the British House of Commons. (Applause.)

Concluding, the Lord Mayor said that he firmly believed that Press advertising was the best form of investment for any business that hoped to achieve success. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. Andrew Milne, responding, said that during the last eighteen months he noticed the great improvement that had taken place in Dublin. The delegates appreciated very much the honour that the Lord Mayor had done them, and on behalf of the Publicity Clubs of Great Britain he presented the Lord Mayor with a gold-mounted walking-stick, suitably inscribed.

GOVERNMENT AND PUBLICITY.

Mr. R. C. Ferguson, Ministry for Industry and Commerce, who also responded, said that recognition of the value of publicity by Government departments was, perhaps, overdue. Personally, he felt that the moment had arrived. People in Ireland might not have observed the progress that their country had made, as they were living in the centre of things. While they had not yet reached the point of publishing a year-book, giving an exact statement of the economic figures, which was necessary if a business man was to form an accurate opinion of how things stood, and though they had not as many economic barometers as they should like, yet, taking what they had, they had made more progress than even they themselves were conscious of. (Applause.) Their imports had been decreasing, and their exports increasing, and they were one of the few countries that had that much to say. They realised that hard work was necessary. Ireland was the nearest neighbour to their cross-Channel guests, and it was the natural market for their goods; and, on the other hand, Great Britain was the natural market for the produce of this country. (Hear, hear.) He would like to point out that when they made an effort in this country to provide more employment, whether by tariffs or otherwise, it should be recognised that, in so far as this country was prosperous, it would be able to buy more goods, and that would add to the prosperity and good relations of both countries.

"The Club Movement" was proposed by Mr. T. J. W. Kenny, President of the Irish Tourist Association.

It was responded to by Mr. G. J. T. Clampett, President of the Dublin Rotary Club, and Mr. C. Russell Chapman, the general secretary of the Advertising Association.

NO BOUNDARY RECOGNISED.

The toast of "The Publicity Club of Ireland" was proposed by Mr. J. F. O'Hanlon, T.D. He said that he was very glad the Publicity Club recognised no boundary in Ireland. (Applause.) One hundred millions of money was exchanged between Ireland and England, but England, he was sorry to say, was getting the lion's share, as she usually did. (Laughter.) But he was glad to say the exchange was becoming more adjusted. He did not consider the exports to other countries outside England, which were negligible.

Mr. J. C. M. Eason, O.B.E., proposing the toast of "The Press," remarked that the Press was made the scapegoat for everybody if anything went wrong, but through it all the Press showed an extraordinary record of useful public service. (Applause.)

Dr. Lombard Murphy, Mr. W. C. Chillingworth and Mr. J. J. Simington responded.

The following delegates attended:—Messrs. C. S. Howse, W. J. Early, E. Russell Chapman, C. Crean, M. Gonedan, Miss E. E. Sherren, Mr. and Mrs. Milne and Mr. and Mrs. Pearse (London); Mr. R. R. Prentice (Hamilton), Mr. J. Fergus (Glasgow), Mr. C. F. Plowman (Herts), Mr. and Mrs. Cooke (Leeds), Messrs. R. H. Jackson, C. Higham, H. Boon, and H. S. Hicks (Manchester); Messrs. W. Henman, A. H. Railton and Mr. and Mrs. Bradshaw (Birmingham); Mr. and Mrs. Howe (Oxford), Messrs. F. H. Kelly and M. Doddie (Leicester), Mr. A. S. Smith (Yorkshire), and Mr. and Mrs. Clarke (Woking).

MECHANISED ARMY AT WORK.

DISPLAY FOR EMPIRE PREMIERS.

An exciting race between a dozen tanks over hillocks and ditches; a miniature battle fought at a fierce speed by swiftly-moving fighting machines, and rapid bridge-building, on a scale to meet the requirements of modern armaments, were in the programme of a military demonstration attended by the delegates to the Imperial Conference at Aldershot on Saturday.

The purpose of the display was to indicate the Army's progress in mechanisation and scientific development.

The programme illustrated the steps taken to provide rapid transport, and concluded with such engineering feats as have made it possible for the heavy armour-plated vehicles to cross quickly over wide expanses of water.

The most exciting event of the day was a tank race. The Dominion Premiers and delegates, with whom was Mr. Tom Shaw, Secretary for War, jumped up from their seats in the temporary grand stand in order to see the twelve competitors scurrying round the full length of the course. The old war-time model was given a generous start, but it could not keep pace with its modern competitors. Two-men tanks, but half its size, hurried past it at twice its speed. Last of all came the very latest sixteen-tonner—a monster of efficiency and speed. It shot away from the mark, accelerated rapidly, and finished well ahead of the next best of its rivals. A small camouflaged two-men tank made the most of its handicap, and came in second, while the third place was held by a medium "C" tank. This model will be shortly superseded by the new sixteen-ton tank.

The effectiveness of the new types of fighting machines and appliances was shown in the battle of "Hill C." In the tactical operations to capture this vantage point an attacking force used armoured cars carrying wireless telephony and telegraphy, cavalry with machine-guns, infantry with all the modern equipment that has been devised to enable them to combat hostile machine-gun fire, close-support artillery, anti-tank guns, and, finally, a tank company controlled by wireless telegraphy. The force carried all before it, and made the way clear for the infantry to advance.

A greater contrast with the old spectacular pictures of war could not be imagined. Drab-grey ironclads swarmed over the countryside, often hidden behind dense smoke screens, and only an occasional glimpse of infantry gave an indication of the human direction behind this well-organised mechanism.

Fighting vehicles and tractors, with which the Army is now experimenting, in pursuit of a perfect weapon, filled another section of the programme. There were forty types of armoured cars and tanks, some of them no larger than a baby car, others gigantic in proportion, swift, and so heavily armoured that they were able to plunge through an eighteen-inch brick wall and level trees before them, and yet scarcely falter in their progress.

Another phase illustrated the ingenious adaptation of commercial transport to the exacting military needs of a modern mechanised army. All kinds of cars, from the limousine to the heavy lorry, crossed rough and untracked ground almost as effectively as the caterpillar vehicles.

The delegates were entertained to luncheon at the Camberley Staff College.

THE LAY APOSTOLATE.

BISHOP COLLIER AND "CATHOLIC ACTION."

The Most Rev. Patrick Collier, D.D., Bishop of Ossory, preached at High Mass in the University Church, St. Stephen's Green, Dublin, yesterday, on the subject of "The Lay Apostolate, or Catholic Action."

The Most Rev. Dr. Byrne, the Archbishop, presided at the Mass, and the assistant priest at the Throne was the Right Rev. Monsignor Watters, P.P., V.G., Drumcondra; the assistants at the Throne being the Right Rev. Monsignor Michael Cronin and the Very Rev. Canon McMahon, President of Clonliffe College, and the master of ceremonies, the Rev. Michael Murphy, C.C., Pro-Cathedral. The celebrant at the Mass was the Rev. John Burke, Dean of Residence; the deacon was the Rev. Michael Allen, chaplain, St. Vincent's Hospital; the sub-deacon, the Rev. W. Thackaberry, chaplain, Mater Misericordiæ Hospital, and the master of ceremonies, the Rev. Cyril Kennedy. Canon Grimes, University Church, and the Dean of Residence, were in the sanctuary.

All the Roman Catholic professors and staff attended the Mass and, preceded by the students, walked in procession from the college to the church, wearing their academic robes.

In the course of his sermon, the Bishop said that they were not unaware of the glorious part which the National University had been taking in Catholic action in Dublin, in Cork, and in Galway; but, besides their official work as a teaching and examining body, they had the function of being strongly Catholic and national in their action, and he appealed to them, as a University, to take up the question of Catholic action and do their utmost for it. It might be contended that, while Catholic action was necessary in other countries, it was not quite so necessary in Ireland. Such an opinion, he submitted, was uninformed and misleading, and even dangerous. There was a time when, perhaps, that opinion might be applied to Ireland; but, owing to modern developments, they had been brought within the stream of European and, indeed, of international life, and, therefore, they had need of the help that Catholic action could give them.

Speaking of secular forces arrayed against the Church, the Bishop said that Paganism was at their very doors, and, outside the Catholic Church, there was no effective resistence offered to it. In his own Catholic town some weeks ago picture posters were exhibited that were shockingly indecent. Those posters had been there very possibly for the best part of a week and no one raised voice or pen against them. The same was true of picture houses in Dublin, Cork and other big cities, and these things were really a menace to morality.

The Bishops had summed up the works that called for Catholic action in this country—a clean Press, a clean cinema, a clean theatre, and a clean dance house. These were obvious works for action for the Catholic lay apostolate. Two works in particular he would recommend, and the first was the help they could give in preparation for the Eucharistic Congress, which was so soon to come here; and the second was their help in the great project of building the Catholic Cathedral in Dublin. Catholic truth also called for their assistance.

A chair of Catholic action, added the Bishop, had been approved, and would very shortly be set up in one of the constituent colleges of the National University, and, speaking for himself, he invited the Catholic University to take Catholic action under its wing and make it one of the great works of the University.

The members of the Dublin Club were warmly thanked for the arrangements which they had made for the reception of the visitors, and for the hospitality accorded to them. The delegates were driven back to Jury's Hotel, where they had tea. They left Westland Row on their return to England at 8.25 p.m.

THE JEW IN MUSIC.

SONGS THAT MOSES COMPOSED.

THE TEMPLE SERVICE.

There was a large attendance at the opening meeting of the 1930-31 session of the Leinster Society of Organists and Choirmaster in the Royal Irish Academy of Music, Dublin, on Saturday night, when an interesting lecture, entitled "The Jew in Music," was delivered by Mr. Bernard Shillman, barrister-at-law. Mr. W. H. Vipond Barry presided.

The lecture was illustrated by Mrs. B. Shillman (mezzo-soprano), who sang "Eili! Eili! Lomo Azavtoni" ("My God! My God! Why Hast Thou Forsaken Me"), a group of Hassidic folk songs in Yiddish, and "Nobil Signor" (from Meyerbeer's "The Huguenots"); Miss Myrrha Jephson (violoncello), who played a 'cello obbligato of Max Bruch's "Kol Nidrei"; Miss Posy Shreider (violinist), who played Achron's "Hebrew Melody" and an excerpt from Bloch's "The Baal Shem," and Mr. F. C. J. Swanton (organist), who played Bach's "Choral Prelude on Tonus Peregrinus," Meyerbeer's "Coronation March" and Mendelssohn's Prelude and Fugue in G major. Miss Carmel Turner was the accompanist.

BIBLICAL RECORDS.

Beginning with the Bible as a source of Jewish music, the lecturer stated that the most cursory glance through the pages of that Book showed the devotion of the Israelites to the art of music. It was evident from the Biblical records that their ancestors had various kinds of sacred and secular musical compositions.

Early in Genesis (IV. 21) they were told that Jubal was the father of all such as handled the harp and organ, showing that the art of music was cultivated very early after the creation of man. Moses, the great law-giver, was a composer of songs; for his Pentateuch contained two songs—one which he composed on the occasion of the crossing of the Red Sea (Exodus XV.), the Shirath Hayom, and the other which he wrote on the last day of his earthly life (Deuteronomy, chap. 32), Ha' a zinu. King David, who was called "the sweet singer of Israel," composed a collection of beautiful lyrical effusions. He was also a player on the harp, and it was by his playing on that instrument that he drove away the spirit of melancholy from Saul.

There was a beautiful legend, characteristically Jewish, in the Talmud, to the effect that King David used to hang his harp over his bed, and a north wind passing between the strings caused the instrument to emit a most heavenly music. The Song of Songs, Shir Hashirim, ascribed to King Solomon, himself a composer of proverbs and songs, was the greatest love song in the whole range of sentimental love lyrics.

It was the power of music that often inspired prophesy. When the prophet Elisha was required by the Kings of Israel, Judah and Edom, to prophesy before them, he said: "Now bring me a minstrel"—and "it came to pass when the minstrel played that the hand of the Lord came upon him."

THE TEMPLE SERVICE.

But, perhaps, the most fascinating study of the musical sources of the Bible would be to collect together the scattered references to the musical Services in the Temple. The number of Levites appointed to sing and play in the Temple was 4,000. These were divided into twenty-four classes, every one of which had its own leader, called the Menatziach, or chief musician, with a staff of Menatzchim or sub-directors under him.

It might be safely asserted that no nation of antiquity could show anything to equal the music of the Temple at the times of Kings David and Solomon, either in point of quality or external grandeur; and the provision made for the efficient training of a number of vocal and instrumental performers and the proper management of the musical portion of divine worship were more complete and more systematically planned than those of the most musical nations of modern Europe.

JEWISH FOLK-SONGS.

Turning to Jewish folk-songs, Mr. Shillman said that it was a general truism that the character of a people often could be gauged best by its legends and folk-songs. Jewish folk-songs in some respects might be compared with the negro spirituals that had such great vogue in recent years.

The lecturer added that he had read somewhere that many of these negro spirituals were composed and sung by the negroes while at their work as slaves, and that their oppressors would not dare to suppress these songs, even when they could, since it meant better output. It was the same with Jewish folk-songs. They illustrated the truism that in countries where the people suffered the greatest hardships, folk-songs were the richest.

The best example of Jewish folk-songs were to be found in the Hassidic music of the Jews. The Hassidim were a seventeenth-century sect of the Jews, and in some respects they might be compared with the Puritans of seventeenth-century England. Hassidism in its earliest stages was a revulsion from the excessive intellectualism that prevailed in the academies of Polish and Russian Jews.

THE JEWISH OPERA MEN.

Among the labourers in the field of opera music three Jewish composers were conspicuous. They were Meyerbeer, Halevy, and Offenbach. The statement of Benjamin Disraeli (in his "Life of Lord George Bentinck") that Mozart was also a Jew was without foundation. Mozart was not a Jew.

Halevy's opera "The Jewess" was saturated with Hebraic melody, but the same could not be said of Offenbach. Meyerbeer's opera "The Huguenots" was first produced in 1836. It was the earliest of the French form of modern "grand opera." Meyerbeer's aim in writing this opera was to show up the intolerant treatment of the Jews all over Europe; but, as he did not want to give offence by making this aim too conspicuous, he selected the massacre of the Huguenots on St. Bartholomew's Day as the theme subject for religious intolerance.

One of the saddest things in musical history was the attack made on Meyerbeer by the great Richard Wagner. It was an act of ingratitude on Wagner's part, because Meyerbeer had befriended Wagner in his days of youth and struggle. Wagner was, however, at all times a Jew-baiter, and in his work Das Judentum in der Music he violently rated the Jewish incursion into the realm of music.

OTHER FAMOUS COMPOSERS.

Other famous Jewish composers were Felix Mendelssohn and his two companions, Moscheles and Joachim. In the short span of his thirty-eight years of life, Mendelssohn wrote more compositions than any other musician who had ever lived. At the moment preparations were being made both in Hungary and in Austria to celebrate the centenary of the birth of another great Jewish composer, Carl Goldmark (1830-1915). In many of the towns where this centenary would be celebrated, Goldmark's most famous opera, "The Queen of Sheba," will be staged.

Other Jewish composers of recent years were Anton Rubinstein, who wrote a musical work on "Moses"; Gustav Mahler, who, like Beethoven, wrote nine symphonies, and Maurice Ravel, whose work showed a certain almost Hebraic melancholy, which gave some colour to the rumour that he was Jewish.

RENAISSANCE OF HEBREW MUSIC.

Finally, the lecturer stated that a new era appeared to be opening to-day for Jewry in the sphere of music. It was a veritable renaissance, not of Jewish music, but of Hebraic music. The call to nationhood which was so marked a feature among all peoples today all over the world was sending Jewish musicians to seek inspiration from their own Jewish national consciousness, and, instead of composers who happened to be Jews, they could look forward to Jewish composers and a characteristic Jewish note in musical composition.

The leading spirit of the renaissance was Ernest Bloch, a Jewish composer, who had just celebrated his fiftieth birthday, and whose musical compositions were intensely Hebraic. His music was a large, a poignant, an authentic expression of what was racial in the Jew.

BELFAST LOUGH.

NEW FOG SIGNALS.

The Belfast Harbour Commissioners are experimenting with a new system of fog signals in Belfast Lough.

The installation consists of a diaphone apparatus, which is intended to supersede the present reed-horn fog signals. They will increase the sound by over 50 per cent.

The Commissioners will test the new apparatus to-day in consultation with the captains of cross-Channel steamers.

INTEREST IN FREE STATE STAMPS.

DEMAND OF DEALERS AND COLLECTORS.

Particular interest has been aroused in the world of philately by the latest Irish Free State stamp issue. The Shannon stamps—as the large-sized twopenny issue, which has been on sale for the last few days, are called—make a new departure in Great Britain and Ireland, where pictorial stamps have not hitherto been issued. The issue is of the twopenny value, which has, of course, the greatest demand for ordinary use, as it is likely to have the best appeal for collectors.

Irish Free State stamps have been in considerable request by dealers and collectors because of the comparative infrequency of new issues. The Shannon stamp, which bears the representation of the Ardnacrusha power station, like its forerunners, the Catholic Emancipation Centenary stamp, is designed to mark an outstanding event in the youth of the State. The Emancipation issues of the twopenny, threepenny and ninepenny values were made on June 26th, 1929, and were in circulation for about three months. The unused set is already at a small premium.

The issues of distinctive Free State stamps for all services were made in 1924, and superseded the overprinted British stamps, whose values have also appreciated with philatelists.

COLLECTORS' APPLICATIONS.

Our reporter learned on Saturday that special arrangements have been made at the General Post Office to deal with applications from collectors and dealers all over the world. Within the last year stamps to the face value of £3,000 have been despatched to applicants, and the officials have had to interpret many quaintly-worded requests from foreign countries, and far-off corners of the earth. The "order-book" contains records of despatches to Germany, Holland, Czecho-Slovakia, Japan, China and South America. The Hawaiian Philatelic Society asked that a well-selected lot be sent "as we want the Irish Free State to stand out in our collection."

There are promises of continued custom. A Berlin collector who begs a list of all new stamps "remains the servant of the Chief Postmaster; hoping to hear from you in this affaire. I am always in similar affaires to your disposition."

"Show Time," featuring Florence Smithson, is the attraction at the Olympia. Others in the cast are Bertram Rogers, Joy Taylor, Iris Wanda, Madge Waller, Bert Sharp, Ruby Meredith, Cissie Locke, Billy Campbell, Pearl Moss, Marjorie Mather, Billy Ward and Hal Bert.

At the Abbey Theatre George Shiels's three-act comedy, "The New Gossoon," will be presented.

"Rookery Nook," the Aldwych Theatre farce, will be shown at the Capitol, with a strong programme, which includes the introduction to Dublin of Hywel Warden Owen, the young Welsh boy soprano.

OBITUARY.

MR. A. M. MACROBERT, M.P.

Mr. A. M. MacRobert, Unionist member for Renfrew East, died suddenly on Saturday afternoon, as the result of a heart attack when he was shooting on the estate of Old Ballikinrain, Stirlingshire, aged fifty-seven years.

He had travelled from his residence in Edinburgh last Friday afternoon after attending Court, and was the guest of Mr. Frederick C. Gardiner, a well-known Glasgow shipowner. On Saturday morning Mr. MacRobert was included in the shooting party. Shortly after leaving the house he was seized with a heart attack. He was carried back to the house, and two doctors were summoned, but, despite their attentions, he died within about two hours.

Mr. MacRobert appeared to be in his usual health on Saturday morning. Only last Thursday he addressed a political meeting at Renfrew. He then complained of fatigue, probably brought on by his frequent journeys to and from London.

Mr. MacRobert was Solicitor-General for Scotland from December, 1925, to 1929, when he became Lord Advocate, a position which he held up to the general election of that year. His death will necessitate a by-election. At the last general election he was returned with a majority of 1,563 votes over his Labour opponent Mr. J. M. Munro.

Mr. MacRobert is survived by his wife and one daughter.

LIEUTENANT-COLONEL G. E. GORREST.

The death is announced in Melbourne yesterday of Lieutenant-Colonel G. E. Gorrest, Progressive Liberal member of the Victorian Legislative Assembly, who has represented Caulfield since 1927.

MR. E. R. KENNEDY, BELFAST.

The death took place suddenly on Saturday, at the Spa, Ballynahinch, of Mr. E. R. Kennedy, of Messrs. Munce and Kennedy, architects and civil engineers, Belfast, a former President of the Ulster Society of Architects, and a Fellow of the Royal Institute of British Architects. He went out to crank up his motor car, after which he returned to the house and suddenly expired. Mr. Kennedy was the son of the late Mr. W. Kennedy, Kenbells House, Antrim road, Belfast, who was for many years a departmental manager of the York Street Flax Spinning Company, Belfast. During the war he served with the Ulster Division as captain in the 8th Royal Irish Rifles (East Belfast Division), and in 1919 he entered into partnership with Mr. J. S. Munce, M.Inst.C.E., town surveyor, Holywood and Carrickfergus.

MISSIONARY ANNIVERSARY.

The Missionary Anniversary and Harvest Festival Services held recently at the Methodist Centenary Church, St. Stephen's Green, Dublin, were, perhaps, the most successful held there for some years past. The Rev. John E. Neill, the recently appointed minister to this church, preached at both Services.

A meeting held on Monday last was chiefly interesting to Dublin Methodists by reason of the Rev. W. H. Massey's interesting address on changing conditions in Methodist Ireland. After a rapid survey of the state of affairs in the days of the old "horseback preachers," he went on to speak of the rapid extension of the work with the demand for a larger preaching staff, the horse giving way to the pedal cycle, then the motor cycle, and now the motor car.

The church choir and the special soloists, Mr. Edgar Deale (Dublin) and Mr. W. F. Watt (Waterford), also contributed to the success of the anniversary. The financial results were most encouraging, £203 being contributed.

NEXT ELECTION IN FREE STATE.

MR. LEMASS AND FIANNA FAIL VICTORY.

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.
CLAREMORRIS, Sunday.

Mr. Sean Lemass, T.D., addressing a Fianna Fail meeting at Kiltimagh to-day, referred to the housing problem in Dublin.

A spark of executive ability, he said, would have abolished it long ago. Irish bricks, cement and other building materials—with the possible exception of timber—were available, and a little application would soon remove the sore of 78,000 people living in houses unfit for habitation.

During the term of office of the Commissioners who administered the affairs of Dublin, the Killaloe slate quarry, which produced Irish slates, had not received an order for even one slate, though the Glasgow Corporation had not used anything else for the past couple of years, and their architect described the Killaloe product as second to none.

Mr. O'Connell, of the Labour Party, planned to establish a democratic co-operative commonwealth—whatever that might be. No one knew where the Labour Party stood or what were its aims. Its outlook seemed to be bounded by relief grants, and when the promised programme of the party was published it would be found to contain the usual generalities.

"A SMASHING VICTORY."

When the general election took place in the near future—probably before the end of next year—he (Mr. Lemass) believed Fianna Fail would have a smashing victory.

Mr. P. J. Ruttledge, T.D., said that the Government were in no way anxious to proceed with the vesting of land, no matter what wonderful schemes Mr. Roddy was supposed to produce from under-hats. He criticised the Government's policy of extracting income tax arrears, going back in many cases with assessments to 1914, and imposing loads which the people could not bear. Their methods retarded the whole progress of the country, but money, he said, must be found somehow for foolery at London and Geneva.

Messrs. R. Walsh, T.D., and M. Cleary, T.D., also spoke.

DR. RYAN, T.D., AND THE HOME MARKET.

FIANNA FAIL'S POLICY OF PROTECTION.

Speaking at a Fianna Fail meeting at Celbridge yesterday, Dr. Ryan, T.D., said that the only way they could prevent the sending of the land annuities to England was by electing Fianna Fail with a working majority at the next general election.

In Ulster old age pensions were payable at 65 years, and they also had pensions for widows and orphans, and if the annuities were kept in the Free State they could have similar benefits. The Press had made great capital out of the fact that the adverse trade balance had been reduced. How had it been reduced? If the people went closely into the matter they would find that the Free State exported more cattle and imported less goods.

Referring to the question of protection, Dr. Ryan said that the policy of Fianna Fail was that anything that could be produced in this country should be produced and marketed. They intended to establish a stable market for home produced goods, and in that way the producers would obtained a good price for their products. He appealed to the people to give Fianna Fail a working majority at the next election, and thus give them an opportunity of putting their programme into operation.

Mr. Buckley, T.D., also addressed the meeting.

DUBLIN FUSILIERS' OLD COMRADES.

FIRST ANNUAL REUNION DINNER.

The Royal Dublin Fusiliers' Old Comrades' Association held their first annual reunion dinner at Wynn's Hotel, Dublin, on Saturday night. It was a very successful and enjoyable function. Mr. J. Beatty, Chairman, presided, and there was a large attendance of members of the famous regiment.

Dinner over, the company stood in silence for two minutes as a tribute to fallen comrades. The toast of "The King" was then honoured, the band of the British Legion playing "God save the King."

The hon. secretary, Mr. J. J. Finnegan, read the following copy of a telegram which had been sent by him on behalf of the Association to the King:—"Royal Dublin Fusiliers' Old Comrades' Association, on the occasion of the first annual reunion dinner, desire to offer Your Majesty their loyalty and devotion, which it was their privilege to give you while serving with the regiment." (Applause.)

Mr. Finnegan said that he had received the following reply:—"The King has received with much pleasure the message from the Royal Dublin Fusiliers' Old Comrades' Association assembled at their first annual reunion dinner. In thanking them for their loyal assurances His Majesty wishes them a very enjoyable and successful evening.—Private Secretary." (Applause.)

TOAST OF "THE REGIMENT."

Proposing the toast of "The Regiment," Lieutenant-Colonel J. P. Hunt referred to the valour and splendid achievements of the Royal Dublin Fusiliers for nearly two hundred and fifty years, and said it was with sorrow that the Old Comrades saw the colours of the regiment consigned to the tomb in 1922. It seemed a very unfitting thing for a Government that had such a regiment that it did not do something to preserve some sign of its glorious valour. If they could not have continued the name of Royal Dublin Fusiliers, could they not have revived the old name of the Bombay and Madras Fusiliers? Something might have been done to keep the name of the Royal Dublin Fusiliers alive in some shape or form. When Her Majesty, to commemorate the distinguished services of her Irish soldiers in the Boer War, created the regiment of Irish Guards, surely her successors should have retained one of the regiments whose services led to the creation of the Irish Guards. However, the regiment had passed to oblivion, except that the colours should remain in charge of His Majesty the King. The only alternative was that they should meet at least once a year to commemorate the wonderful record of achievement of their wonderful regiment. (Applause.)

Mr. J. J. Finnegan proposed the toast of "The Guests," which was suitably honoured.

The attendance included:—Lieutenant-Colonel J. P. Hunt, D.S.O., C.M.G., D.C.M.; Major R. Baker, D.S.O.; Lieutenant J. H. Hartigan, Company-Sergeant-Major A. J. Cullen, Mr. M. Geeves (hon. treasurer), Lieutenant-Colonel de Courcy Wheeler, Captain C. Craig McFeely, D.S.O., M.C.; Captain J. P. Dobbs, M.C., and Captain G. Hamlet.

Apologies for non-attendance were received from General Sir William Hickie, K.C.B.; the Rev. Canon McClean, the Rev. Colonel Murphy, the Rev. Major Bird, Major Tynan, D.S.O., Major Crozier and the Rev. Father Crotty.

DROWNED IN QUARRY HOLE.

DUBLIN BOY'S FATAL SLIP WHILE FISHING.

A little boy named Arthur Byrne (9), of Glasthule, Co. Dublin, was drowned in a quarry hole near Castle road, Dalkey, last Saturday. He was fishing with a companion when he let his line fall, and in endeavouring to retrieve it, he overbalanced and fell into the water.

His playmate ran for help, but when people arrived there was no sign of Byrne. His body was recovered after about twenty minutes dredging.

At the same quarry several years ago two brothers lost their lives in a similar manner.

UNION OF COMMERCIAL TRAVELLERS.

A meeting of the National Union of Commercial Travellers (Dublin branch) was held in Wynn's Hotel on Saturday last, Mr. J. Mulcahy, Vice-President, presiding, to extend a welcome to Mr. E. C. Tyler, honorary treasurer of the Union, who gave an interesting address. A vote of thanks to the speaker, proposed by Mr. James A. Whelan, and seconded by Mr. W. J. Davenport, honorary secretary of the Dublin branch, was passed with acclamation. Messrs. McGrane and McKenzie were elected honorary auditors.

NARCOTIC DRUG TRAFFIC.

ATTITUDE OF LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
GENEVA, Sunday.

The recent large seizures of opium and narcotic drugs at Rotterdam, Marseilles and Hong Kong attracted considerable attention in League circles in Geneva. All eyes are now turned towards the League organisations, and particularly towards the Central Opium Board, which opened its seventh session last week, under the chairmanship of Mr. Lyall (Britain).

There is, however, a certain amount of criticism in anti-opium circles in Geneva of what appears to be the inadequate methods of the Central Board in dealing with the problem of the illicit traffic in narcotics. The Board so far has confined itself to the compiling of statistics, and does not consider itself justified in going outside the actual provisions of the Geneva Convention. It is pointed out, for instance, that it recognises the right of any Government to allow any drug manufacturer or dealer to do anything which is not specifically forbidden by the Convention. It is held, however, that, if the Board is to succeed in its task, it will have to undertake any inquiry which it is not specically forbidden to undertake.

The Central Board, it is further contended, cannot afford to be indifferent to obvious essentials, such as an estimate of the forces arrayed against the application of The Hague and Geneva Opium Conventions and against the limitation of manufactures of narcotics, and to an estimate of the direct and indirect cost to Governments of narcotic addiction.

NEW METHODS POSSIBLE.

The present session of the Central Board, in view of the foregoing considerations, is viewed with great interest. It is thought that that may now change the methods which it has been pursuing for the past twenty months, approach the problem of the illicit traffic in narcotics from a more practical point of view, and submit to the League Council definite proposals for direct inquiries on vital points or for study by the League's Advisory Committee, which assembles on January 9 next. Failing this, it is feared that public opinion will lose faith in the League's capability of dealing effectively with the ever increasing danger of narcotics.

NEW LEITRIM CHURCH DEDICATED.

"MEMORIAL TO ZEAL OF A GOOD PRIEST."

CARRICK-ON-SHANNON, Sunday.

The ceremony of the dedication of St. Patrick's Church, Drumboylan, Cootehall, was performed to-day by Dr. E. Doorly, Bishop of Elphin, in the presence of a large congregation. The ceremony had been postponed, owing to the sudden death of the Rev. R. Morris, P.P. Father Morris died in the church just as it was completed for the dedication ceremony, fixed by him to take place on the last Sunday in August.

The Bishop, after having performed the dedication ceremony—assisted by Rev. T. Gallagher, P.P., and the Rev. Joseph Conway—recited the first Mass in the church.

Addressing the congregation after the first Gospel, he referred to the death of Father Morris. It was, he said, to the zeal, ability and untiring energy of Father Morris, ably assisted by the labours and money of the people of the district, that the erection and furnishing of that beautiful church in so short a space of time was due. The church, dedicated to St. Patrick, would stand on the hill in their midst as a perpetual memorial to the zeal and energy of a good priest.

"The word dedication means the setting apart of something for a sacred purpose, and when a church is dedicated it is set apart for the service of Almighty God, and may not be used for profane purposes. While we know and believe that Almighty God is everywhere, and ought to be adored in all places, there is no reason why special places should not be dedicated to Him where His people may worship Him and hold communion with Him. Indeed, in the new law, since he has left Himself in the Sacrament of the Eucharist, and offers Himself in the Sacrifice of the Mass, there is an absolute necessity for setting apart worthy places for carrying out these mysteries. Such a worthy place we have dedicated here to-day to the glory of God and the honour of St. Patrick."

"MRS. MOONLIGHT."

BOHEMIA PLAYERS' PRODUCTION.

Tom Moonlight	Robert Willis
Minnie	May H. Carey
Edith	Evelyn Dodd.
Sarah Moonlight	May Bonass
Percy Middling	Maurice Cregan
Jane Moonlight	Rita Crowe
William Ragg	Denis O'Dea
Peter	Paddy Cahill

To look young always is the desire of so many people that Benn Levy's "Mrs. Moonlight" was sure of popularity from the first. When the Bohemia Players presented the play for the first time in Ireland at the Abbey Theatre, Dublin, last night the audience found it very good indeed.

Some "Peter Pan," some "Mary Rose," and possibly a hint from the continuing youth of Miss Fanny Ward, may be found in "Mrs. Moonlight," but such fantasy must not be examined too closely. Sarah Moonlight had worn the turquoise necklace known as "The Dreird," and wished her once. It was given her as a wedding present, and she had wished for permanent youth. If one were to credit everything one hears it might be thought that the grant of her wish would be the source of happiness—instead it brought embarrassment and woe. To hold her husband's love she would have youth—but she found that change is essential also. As she could not change she left her home, giving the impression that she intended suicide. She went abroad, taught music, and lived.

Tom Moonlight, her husband, married Edith, her adopted sister. Her daughter Jane was on the point of engagement to one Willie Ragg when Sarah comes on a visit to the house ostensibly as her niece Joy. Tom did not like Willie Ragg, and Edith detested him for the wastrel he certainly was. Sarah detached him; he would follow her to Paris. Thirty years later Jane's son Peter finds a fainting woman outside their house. When she is brought in the old servant Minnie, who presented the "Dreird" to Sarah, and, of course, the audience know her for Sarah; to the others she is just a little mad. Old Tom identifies her; but he is over 80 years old and doting, so no one heeds him. Tom dies, and Sarah departs with him, saying "Mine eyes have seen." Just a little mad, perhaps, but Mr. Levy has made of his "Moonlight" an enticing play. While stretching his material and the credulity of audiences to the extreme, his dialogue covers the deficiencies of his plot.

Last night Mr. Denis O'Dea, as Willie Ragg, carried the play on to a higher plane. It was his breeziness in the second act that brought the production to life. The solid qualities of the 1890's were excellently presented by Messrs. Robert Willis, as Tom Moonlight, and Maurice Cregan, as Percy Middling. Miss Rita Crowe made a stolid Jane, and Miss May Bonass an ethereal Mrs. Moonlight, in contrast to the solidity of her sister Edith as presented by Miss Evelyn Dodd. As Minnie Miss May H. Carey gave a finished study of the old Scots retainer, and Mr. P. Cahill made an attractive Peter.

The play was excellently staged by Miss Lena Munro.

"EXCOMMUNICATION" WITHDRAWN.

A large congregation at Pelton Parish Church, Durham, at Morning Service yesterday heard the Rural Dean read a statement by the Vicar, the Rev. E. A. Merryweather, retracting the sentence of "excommunication" which he pronounced on three parishioners on the previous Sunday morning. The Vicar himself left Pelton on Saturday and was not present at the church.

The Press Association understands that the Rev. E. A. Merryweather has resigned from the living of Pelton.

POVERTY THROUGH ALCOHOL.

Bequeathing £200 to the Building Fund of the Batley Temperance Society, Alderman John William Turner, of Deightonholme, Stamcliffe, Batley, Yorks., at one time a Mayor, who died on August 23rd last, aged 69 years, wrote:—"I desire to express my firm belief that the habitual use of alcohol is the chief cause of poverty and unhappiness that are inflicted on mankind."

NORTHERN UNEMPLOYMENT DOWN.

There was a decline of 334 in the number of persons seeking employment through the NORTHERN IRELAND Exchanges last week. The total number of persons registered as unemployed was 70,109. The decrease last week was due to short time workers being in employment.

RUSSIAN GRAIN FOR BELFAST.

Another cargo of Russian oats and wheat has arrived at BELFAST on board the Nordborg, from Leningrad, via Dublin. Her consignment to Belfast consists of approximately 1,000 tons of oats and 700 tons of wheat. About a week ago another vessel discharged about 1,350 tons of Russian oats at Belfast.

SNAKE FOUND AT YOUGHAL.

A snake about 1½ feet long was captured in the garden at the rear of the Provincial Bank, YOUGHAL, last Friday. It appears that the gardener was clearing away some weeds, when he saw the reptile coiled round a shrub. It was seized, put into a bottle, and submitted to a local naturalist, who pronounced it to be of a poisonous type.

STAMP COLLECTORS.

The Irish Philatelic Society is starting a section for juniors up to eighteen years of age, and with a view to helping the younger members it has been arranged to hold meetings conducted by the seniors. These meetings will be held twice a month, from 7 to 8.15 p.m. Junior members will not be entitled to approval books of stamps. There are a few vacancies for adult members. The hon. secretary of the Society is Mr. T. A. Fleming, of Ballymacoll House, DUNBOYNE, Co. Meath.

SLIGO WOMAN'S DEATH.

The death occurred last Wednesday of an old SLIGO resident, Mrs. M. A. Reidy, at the age of ninety-five years. Solemn Requiem Mass was celebrated at the Cathedral on Friday, at which the Most Rev. Dr. Doorly presided. After High Mass the remains were interred in the family vault in Sligo cemetery. The chief mourners were:—Mr. M. J. Howley, solicitor (nephew); Miss Howley and Mrs. W. V. Donohoe, Tubbercurry; Mrs. O'Connor, Roscommon; Mrs. Bergin and Mrs. Butler, Dublin (nieces).

WESTMEATH'S DRAINAGE PROBLEM.

At the meeting of the Westmeath County Council in MULLINGAR, Mr. Thomas Maguire presiding, Mr. P. Phylan moved, in accordance with notice of motion:—"That this Council consider the existing system of drainage complicated and insufficient, and hereby call on the Government to provide legislation whereby existing drainage boards be abolished and new and improved laws enacted to simplify the control of drainage." Mr. Colgan seconded the motion. Mr. P. W. Shaw, T.D., said that in other counties minor drainage schemes had been carried out and huge amounts given in grants. Westmeath stood out by itself in the Free State as being the most backward county so far as drainage was concerned. The motion was passed unanimously.

"WARM WORK."

When a blacksmith was sued at DUNDALK District Court for non-payment of a shop debt, he said that he was unable to pay the money, as he had a family of six children. He admitted that he spent about five shillings a week on drink, adding that he generally took three bottles or pints of stout a day, which he believed was good for him. Mr. O'Hagan, solicitor for the creditor, described this as a luxury. The blacksmith said that his work was very warm. "When I get home at night I am very hot, and I take the stout because it does me good. If I did not take it I would probably have to call in the doctor." The District Justice ordered him to pay the debt by weekly instalments, telling him that he could cut out some of the drink without any ill-effects.

WINDOW-SLASHING.

Judge McElligott, in allowing compensation to a number of TRALEE traders whose shop windows were damaged by being slashed, said that it was a sad thing to think that the ratepayers of Tralee must indemnify the insurance companies for that damage done by thoughtless boys. Superintendent Casey, in his evidence, expressed the view that the window-slashing was done by youngsters, as all the scratching was so low down. He added that since he called at the schools and got the teachers to warn the boys to surrender glass-cutting diamonds, sold by hawkers for a few pence, no further damage had been done. The following awards were made: Munster Warehouse, £38; Messrs. McCowens, Ltd., £23 10s.; Messrs. Revingtons, £70 10s.; Mr. Michael Sugrue, £13 10s.; Messrs. Lyons and Company, £48; all to be levied off the Tralee urban district.

BRITISH LEGION—NEWRY BRANCH.

The annual meeting of the NEWRY Branch of the British Legion was held in the Young Men's Institute last Friday. The annual report showed the branch to have enjoyed a good year. The Relief Committee investigated 627 cases of distress, and grants were made to deserving cases. The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows:—President, Earl Kilmorey (re-elected); Vice-Presidents, Captain E. F. O'Connor, M.D., Major Parkinson-Cumine, M.C., Colonel the Rev. E. H. Collins, O.P., and Captain T. W. Yarrell; Chairman, Sergeant T. J. Lowry (re-elected); Hon. Treasurer, J. Thompson; Hon. Secretary, J. G. McEvoy; Committee: Messrs. McGuigan, Ellison, O'Donohue, Crothers, Hyde, Linton, Crilly, McKee, Mark, Porter, Loughead and McCaw.

PAYMENT OF A DEBT.

Charges that a widow, Mrs. Elizabeth Magrane, of Monascribe, a border townland, had defeated the ends of justice by removing her stock across the border whenever the Sheriff's bailiffs appeared were denied at DUNDALK District Court. At the last Court an application was made for the payment of the debt by instalments, and it was alleged that whenever the bailiffs visited the woman's house goods were removed across the border. Mr. Coffey, solicitor, for the widow, denied this at the Court on Saturday, and stated that there was no evidence to substantiate the allegations made in Court. The woman was unable to sell or let her farm because of a boycott. She had married into a farm, and her husband died after twelve months. The husband's children, by a first wife, claimed the farm, and, though they had no rights of ownership, they were able to deter people from purchasing the farm or even taking it for letting. Mr. Russell said that the fact remained that the Sheriff's bailiff had been unable to seize goods, because when he got to the woman's house he could not get hold of them. District Justice Goff made an order for the payment of the debt by small monthly instalments.

CHARGES AGAINST CAVAN MEN.

At Bailieborough (COUNTY CAVAN) District Sessions, before District Justice Lavery, three local young men were charged with alleged offences under the Firearms Act. The defendants were—Dominic Daniels, Drumooslin; Owen Heeney, Crocknahattina, and John Johnson, Coranaff. The three cases were taken separately. Daniels was charged with being in the unlawful possession of three revolvers and thirteen rounds of ammunition, and with having the revolvers and ammunition with intent to endanger life or property. The accused man was returned for trial to next Circuit Court at Cavan. Heeney was charged with being in the unlawful possession of a revolver and rifle, and with having the weapons with intent to endanger life and property. The defendant was returned for trial, and was admitted to bail, himself in £80 and two sureties of £40 each. John Johnson was charged with being in the unlawful possession of three revolvers and thirteen rounds of ammunition. The accused man was remanded on bail, himself in £80 and two sureties of £40 each. In the charge against Daniels, Civic Guard Davin gave evidence of searching the defendant and finding in his pockets a pair of handcuffs and a bullet of the dum-dum pattern.

GOSSIP FROM THE COURSE.

BREEDING OF UT MAJEUR.

SEASON'S THREE-YEAR-OLD FORM RECEIVES A FILLIP.

MANY IRISH-BRED WINNERS.

FROM OUR TRAVELLING CORRESPONDENT.

LONDON, Sunday Night.

The race for the Cambridgeshire can await detailed discussion for another week. Not that we shall know much more about it then than we do now; for none of the prominent candidates is likely to be seen out in the course of the present week. It is extremely likely that Mr. Arthur Dewar's colt, The Recorder, will remain a very strong favourite until the end of the piece, and I anticipate that the three-year-old will start as hot a favourite as did Polymelus with his penalty for winning the Duke of York Stakes.

We have seen in the past high-class three-year-olds who were real good things for this race that is so hard, as a rule, to win, and the names of Winkfield's Pride and Velocity occur in this connection; but it should be remembered that they were both in with less than 7st., while The Recorder has 8st. 7lb. to carry. Except on his first appearance at Lingfield, when he was beaten by Good Fish through running green, The Recorder has done everything that has been expected of him this season in the most convincing fashion, and it is not improbable that at his distance he may be the best three-year-old of the year.

THREE-YEAR-OLD FORM.

Since Rustom Pasha slammed the four-year-old Empire Builder in the Champion Stakes on Tuesday, and since Ut Majeur won the Cesarewitch running away on the succeeding afternoon, many people have revised their ideals about the three-year-old form of this season, and have been shaken in their tenaciously held idea that it is bad.

The fact that so many of the second season horses were beating each other in the first four or five months of the season made people sceptical, but in the last month or two the form has been sorting itself out pretty well, and I should say that it is at least up to the standard of last year, or even the last three years, though it would probably be below the season in which Coronach and Colorado were the principal protagonists.

The performance of Ut Majeur was certainly a very impressive one, but there are a few doubts whether it is quite as good as it looked. I have heard since that Friendship was not at his best on the day, and that on the evening before the race there was some doubt about his being able to run at all.

FRIENDSHIP AMISS.

He has, I believe, been a sick horse since the race, and may not be able to run for the Hwfa Williams Memorial Plate at Sandown on Wednesday next, which looked a gift for him.

Then there was Old Orkney, who broke down some distance out, and put in a very creditable performance to finish third, and more than save the big each-way bet which his owner, Mr. J. J. Murphy, cabled from India to his trainer on the morning of the race.

Old Orkney, of course, will not be able to run again this season, and when I saw Major Sneyd on Friday he did not know until he went home whether there was any chance of repairing him for next season.

If we come to analyse those who finished behind the placed horses, they do not amount to a great deal, with Brown Jack running a long way below his old form and Baytown finding the course too far for him. All the same I imagine that Ut Majeur is a really good three-year-old, lacking, perhaps, a little in the way of initial speed, but a real stout-hearted colt.

INSTRUCTIVE PEDIGREE.

It is hard to see anything on the horizon that will beat him next year in the Ascot Gold Cup. As a sire of the future Ut Majeur is a most interesting proposition, and I have not for a long time seen a big winner with a pedigree which is more instructive.

His dam, Uganda, a good filly when she was racing, carries four lines of St. Simon, one of Hampton through Gorgos and Ladas, one of Isonomy through Bitter Orange, Tragedy Queen and Gallinule; one of Bend Or through Silent Lady, Cyllene and Bona Vista; and one of Carbine also through Silent Lady. He is thus closely inbred to St. Simon. Mating her with Ksar was an attempt at a complete outcross; for in all the pedigree of that good French horse I cannot find a single indication of the blood of St. Simon, even if one goes back and searches for any trace of Galopin, Vedette and Voltigeur.

Ksar himself was a good deal inbred to The Flying Dutchman, and Ut Majeur is thus the result of mating two horses inbred, but on totally different lines. Tragedy Queen, the grandam of Bridaine, sire of Uganda, comes of a well-known Irish family, and from her Mr. Simons Harrison bred at Cottingham Comedy King, who became one of the greatest racehorses, and later one of the greatest sires, in Australia for Mr. Sol Green. Ksar was a great racehorse in France immediately following the war, and the only horse he ever had to lower his colours to was the Irish-bred Kirkcubbin.

Both his sire and his dam, Bruleur and Kizil Kourgan, won the Grand Prix de Paris for M. de St. Alary, and Kizil Kourgan's dam, Omnium II., was a great racehorse. Those breeders—and they are a growing number—who keep on trying to find an outcross for their inbred mares have taken much heart from the success last week of Ut Majeur.

There has not been seen so good a three-year-old performance in the Cesarewitch as that of Ut Majeur since 1884. In that year St. Gatien won with 8st. 10lb., and it is no exaggeration to say that the Aga Khan's colt could have carried the same weight and won with it last Wednesday. In that season St. Gatien dead-heated with Harvester in the Derby. From there he went on to Ascot and won the Gold Vase from a couple of smashers like Corrie Roy and Tristan, both six-year-olds.

In the Cesarewitch he had behind him his stable companion, Florence, who had that season won the Manchester Cup, and a few weeks later was able to complete Mr. John Hammond's great double of the Cesarewitch and Cambridgeshire. Like Ut Majeur, St. Gatient won the Cesarewitch by four lengths from Lord Rosebery's Polemic, who was carrying only 6st. 1lb. and was a four-year-old.

Other brilliant three-year-old performances in the Cesarewitch have been those of Foxhall, who had won the Grand Prix de Paris that year, and won the Cambridgeshire under his penalty; and Plaisanterie, who also won the Cambridgeshire with her penalty.

IRISH-BRED WINNERS.

France took her full share of the breeding honours of the four days' racing at Newmarket, claiming no fewer than three winners on the first afternoon, including Diademe, also by Ksar, who took the Newmarket Oaks.

Conspicuous Irish-bred winners were Rustom Pasha, who gave a splendid performance in the Champion Stakes; Sherab and The Leopard, both by Tetratema; the St. Ida colt by Old Rowley, bred by Mr. Dan Hederman; Caballero, Soloptic, Portlaw, Turtle Soup and Strongbow—a very imposing array.

During the coming winter we shall be hearing much discussion as to whether Portlaw or Jacopo is the better two-year-old. They certainly appear to be the two best colts that the season has shown us. Both, of course, were bred in Ireland.

The racing at Lingfield yesterday was only mildly interesting. The most important event was the Lingfield Autumn Oaks, which Lord Ellesmere won with Quinine, who had a head and three lengths to spare from Silver Mount and Lord Glanely's winner of the Epsom Oaks, Rose of England. If Quinine has not altogether fulfilled all the expectations that were formed of her last year, she won yesterday in good style, overhauling Silver Mount, who had been the pacemaker, at the distance, and then beating her cleverly. Gwyniad was very troublesome in the paddock and made no show in the race, nor did Phalarette, who was one of the joint favourites.

NOTICE BOARD'S SUCCESS.

The other important event of the day was the Lingfield Handicap, which Colonel Brinsley Fitzgerald won with Notice Board, a Trespasser gelding, who beat Dusty and the French horse, Miganpouf, by a neck and three lengths. Miganpouf is in the Cambridgeshire, and he is just beginning to find his form in this country. Even though he may not win the Cambridgeshire, other races should come his way. The Irish Cesarewitch winner, Tor, finished last of all in this race.

A filly by Hapsburg out of Tobermory, owned and trained by Stanley Wootton, won the October Nursery very easily by a length and a half from Guiding Star, with the Ballyshee gelding third. It is a common complaint that horses trained by Wootton always start at false prices, but there was no complaint on this score yesterday, for the Tobermory filly was a 20 to 1 chance.

A full-brother to the Portland Handicap winner, Polar Bear, called Go Easy, by Stratford out of Polar Belle, was the winner of the Non-Stayers' Plate by a length and a half from Basra. This fine-looking animal was introduced to us first as a hurdler last season, after Mrs. Hollins had given Mr. Sidney MacGregor, of Leamington, who found him in Ireland, a big sum for him. He has fine speed, and we shall see him performing with distinction again over hurdles during the winter, when he is likely to prove himself a champion at the game.

The selling nursery was easily won by a filly by Ellangowan out of Gorse, and then the Orange Peril filly by The President, a son of Sunder and Americus Girl, beat Trojan Prince in the Cage Selling Plate.

SELECTIONS.

At Wolverhampton to-morrow I like the chance of ORANGE TIP in the Wyfold Handicap. The massive TREMENDOUS looks a good thing in the Stanton Plate, and, as Turtle Soup is likely to be absent, the Dunstall Plate should fall to the ST. IDA COLT.

BALDOYLE.

AN OUTSIDERS' DAY.

WINNERS AT 100 TO 1 AND 50 TO 1.

CORONOHER DEFIES WEIGHT.

The racing season at Baldoyle finished on Saturday, when a splendid afternoon's sport was witnessed by a big crowd. It was, however, by no means a satisfactory afternoon from the point of view of backers, who in race after race saw the downfall of favourites until Coronoher came to their rescue and won the Claremont Steeplechase after a great finish with Boinne and Sea Fisher.

All the races were of an attractive kind, but the finish of this steeplechase was about the best, and it was no mean performance of Mr. E. L. Lloyd's horse to carry 12st. 7lb. and concede weight to all the others over the three miles' journey. At one time it looked as if Coronoher would not get on terms with either Boinne or Sea Fisher, who were fighting out the finish, but he outstayed both, and had they to go another half mile would have won in easier style. Coronoher is nicely weighted in the Grand Sefton Steeplechase at Liverpool with 10st. 7lb., and does not incur a penalty for this win.

A REVERSE OF FORM.

Backers' troubles began with the opening race, a hurdle race for three years old, which was won by Sherdoon, the mount of Joe Canty. A month previously at Proudstown Park Lady Heath easily accounted for Mrs. M. Dawson's gelding, but now could only finish third, separated from the winner by Long Waste.

Mr. J. J. Parkinson for the second time this season brought off a 100 to 1 winner when Marty won the Juvenile Selling Plate from a big field. It was a desperately close finish, in which another of Mr. Parkinson's horses Top Off and Scariff were the others concerned, and it was only in the last stride that Marty got her head in front. Mr. Parkinson accepted the nice wager of £500 to £5 about the winner. The Tote dividend for the stables' two winners was only 18s. 6d., but backers of Marty for a place were able to draw a dividend of 57s., or odds of 27½ to 1. Nobody was disposed to bid for Marty at the subsequent auction, so she remains at Maddenstown Lodge.

The six runners for the Kinsealy Steeplechase were all making a first attempt over the major obstacles, except Suttywallups, and it was the experienced horse who triumphed. Mr. R. J. Cleary, the owner of Suttywallups, has few superiors where the training and knowledge of steeplechasers is concerned, and Suttywallups on this occasion was the most proficient "lepper," with the result that he led from end to end of the race and won in easy style. The smart flat race performer, Stranathro, seemed to be going all right half a mile from home, but it looked as if something happened to him after he had jumped the second-last fence, and he was pulled up before the final obstacle was reached.

A BIG NURSERY FIELD.

The field of fifteen runners for the Autumn Nursery Plate was an unwieldy one, and a couple of jockeys were thrown prior to the start. Then, owing to the gate going up slowly at one side, several horses suffered when the signal was given. One to escape all trouble was Summary, a rank outsider, who, in the hands of J. Conlon, led for virtually the entire journey, to win at ease from Battle Zone and Frantic. Bonus, the favourite, never appeared in the race with a winning chance, and actually finished last.

Crested Wave, a daughter of Jackdaw, added further to the discomfort of backers by winning the Portmarnock Plate, after a long drawn out finish with Snood and Gallant Prince. It was certainly not out of her turn that Mr. John O'Brien's filly won; for, though she is now at the end of her third seasons' racing, she had not previously earned a winning bracket.

SPORTING GOSSIP

Cambridgeshire Colt's Good Gallop.

Yesterday morning the Ellesmere House trainer, R. J. Colling, gave Mrs. J. Carruther's Cambridgeshire candidate, Cat o' Nine Tails, with W. Alford in the saddle, a fast stripped mile spin with Wykeham across the flat. The son of Beresford and Saxham Cat acquitted himself well. Cat o' Nine Tails has won his last three races, and has been allocated the handy weight of 6st. 12lb. in the Cambridgeshire.

Jockey Cautioned.

After the Lingfield Handicap at Lingfield Park on Saturday J. Childs, the rider of Ox and Ass complained of the riding of K. Gethin on Mallock. The Stewards cautioned Gethin as to his future conduct in this respect.

Dobie to Ride in India Again.

Dobie leaves for India on Thursday to fulfil his usual engagement there. He will return in time for the opening of the flat racing here next March.

82½ to 1 Tote Winner.

The totalisator paid a dividend of £8 7s. to 2s. for King's Writ, the winner of the Leeming Lane Welter Plate at Catterick Bridge on Saturday. This represents odds of 82½ to 1. His starting price was 20 to 1.

WOLVERHAMPTON: PROBABLE STARTERS AND BETTING.

TURTLE SOUP FANCIED.

ORANGE TIP FOR THE WYFOLD.

There are six meetings during the present week, and the Wolverhampton executive is the only one lucky enough to have a clear fixture. The Aga Khan's useful filly, Turtle Soup, has been given top weight in the Dunstall Plate, but as she had a race on Thursday it may be decided to miss this engagement. Russet was a good winner at Chepstow, but may have too much to do here. At level weights I prefer Decorum, but St. Ida colt won so easily at Newmarket that I think he is capable of looking after both of them. Balance has been running well in better-class company, and seems fairly certain to be concerned in the finish. Allegro and Reindeer, who were first and fourth respectively at Birmingham, can meet again, the latter having 5lb. the better of the weights. I am satisfied that on this occasion Reindeer will reverse the placings, although there may not be much in it. If, however, Turtle Soup takes her chance I shall not look further for the winner, but in her absence Reindeer may be good enough.

The Wyfold Handicap will not attract many runners. King's Oven appears to be confronted with too big a task. He has to give as much as 38lb. to some, and I do not think he will give 19lb. and a beating to Promptitude, who was creditably fourth in the Yorkshire Cup. Stolen Flame disappointed at Chepstow, but may be given another chance, and Muezzin, who is in form just now, will also have to be considered. I like the chance of Orange Tip as well as that of anything else. He has figured prominently in most of his races, and with the handy weight of 7st. 3lb. may prove the best.

Caballero has been given a mammoth task in the Thornycroft Handicap, and I do not give him much of a chance. I have been told to look out for Orbindos, and I pass on the information for what it is worth. To my mind, he seems a little past his best. Knight of the Vale and Land o' Burns make more appeal to me than anything else, and I give my vote in favour of Land o' Burns.

TRIANGULAR CONTEST ABANDONED.

At the annual general meeting of the Committee of the A.A.A., over which Mr. R. C. J. Pratt presided, in London on Saturday, the dispute between the two governing bodies of Ireland came under consideration. After much discussion a resolution was unanimously passed that the A.A.A. shall not participate in the contest with Scotland and Ireland which was to have been held in England next year.

LADOUMEGUE SETS UP NEW 1,000 METRES RECORD.

PARIS, Sunday.

The French runner, Ladoumegue, this afternoon broke the world's record for 1,000 metres at the Stade Jean Bouin. He covered the distance in 2 minutes 23 3-5 seconds. The previous record was 2 minutes 25 4-5 seconds, and was held by the German runner, Dr. Otto Peltzer.

Ladoumegue incidentally equalled the record for the 1,000 yards in 2 minutes 11 2-5 seconds set up by C. E. Ellis.

The track was in excellent condition, and Ladoumegue was given an ovation by the crowd.

NEW DISCUS RECORD.

A. R. Edwards, of the Brighton and County Harriers, set up a new English record for the discus throwing on Saturday, when, at a meeting of the Sussex County Amateur Association, he achieved 126 feet 8 inches, which beat the previous best made by M. C. Nokes, in 1927, by 7 inches.

CITY AND SUBURBAN HANDICAP.

The 25 Miles Handicap of the Cycling Section of the City and Suburban Harriers was decided yesterday. A strong wind interfered with the times, and under the circumstances the performance of the scratchman, H. Twamley, in doing 66 minutes 55 seconds, was a notable one. Result:

INTER-CITY MATCHES.

TRINITY FAIL IN THE NORTH.

OLD WESLEY WIN AT LIMERICK.

All the Dublin senior clubs had matches on Saturday, but Dublin University, Old Wesley, and Palmerston were out of town. Trinity gave a disappointing display in Belfast, where Instonians beat them, but Lansdowne, playing North of Ireland at Lansdowne road, had a good win. Wanderers followed up their victory over Trinity by defeating Monkstown, and Clontarf sprang a surprise on Bective Rangers, winning a close game at Donnybrook by 6 points to 5. Much was expected of the meeting of Blackrock College and University College at Williamstown, but it was a moderate game, ending in a draw of six points each. Old Wesley maintained the form they have shown since the opening of the season by defeating Garryowen at Limerick. Palmerston, who travelled to Belfast, were beaten by Malone, who thus won their first match of the season.

NORTH'S DEFEAT.

LANSDOWNE BACKS TOO CLEVER.

At Lansdowne road, in perfect football weather, Lansdowne defeated North of Ireland by 4 goals and 3 tries to 3 goals (2 penalties) and 1 try.

The Lansdowne backs were much superior to their opponents, and gave the impression that they might have added to their score, but for positions of the game seemed inclined to take matters easily. The Northern backs indulged in some neat passing bouts, but as a rule these did not gain much ground, as the Lansdowne tackling was very keen.

The forwards were fairly evenly matched in the scrums, but the Lansdowne backs got the ball more frequently, O'Reilly being particularly nippy at the base of the scrum, and got the ball away cleverly. Moran, the Lansdowne full, was not impressive, his fielding being several times at fault, and his kicking rather lacking in length. All the three-quarters did well, Crowe, in particular, doing great work both in attack and defence. Lambert played a sound game, and seems likely to develop into a first-class centre. Arigho was not as prominent as usual, and Lightfoot took his chances well, except on one occasion, when he might have scored, but elected to pass instead. Davy was at the top of his form, and, in addition to scoring twice, he paved the way for three more tries. Of the forwards, Conroy, Pike and MacNeaney were prominent, the last-named, in particular, being very noticeable.

Bailie, the Northern full, fielded and kicked well, and Atkinson and Bristow were the best of the three-quarter line, while Patrick and Adrian worked well together behind the scrums. Rea, Robinson and Wilson were the pick of the forwards.

Play was only in progress about five minutes when, after North had attacked with a couple of passing movements, Crowe got possession, and, putting in a strong run, got over for a good try, McEnery just failing to convert. Shortly afterwards Davy scored after a splendid run. North now had a spell of attacking, and, from a free, Atkinson kicked a fine penalty goal. Lambert quickly nullified this and scored near the posts, O'Reilly adding the points. Nearing half-time Lightfoot scored from a pass from Davy, Lambert failing to convert. North showed better form in the second period, and Haselden and Bristow scored tries, while White kicked a grand penalty goal. Lansdowne, however, added tries per Davy and Crowe, who scored twice, McEnery and O'Reilly converting one each. Result:—

Lansdowne—4 goals 3 tries (29 points).

North of Ireland—3 goals (2 penalties) 1 try (14 points).

Teams:—

Lansdowne—D. H. Moran; J. E. Arigho, M. F. Crowe, N. H. Lambert, E. J. Lightfoot; T. A. O'Reilly, E. O'D. Davy; M. E. Bardon, J. C. Conroy, J. Hanlon, J. MacNeaney, J. E. McEnery, J. Maguire, V. Pike, J. Powell.

North of Ireland—H. W. Bailie; J. M. McFeeters, J. M. Atkinson, L. M. White, J. Bristow; J. Patrick, J. Adrian; A. Campbell, J. R. Baxter, F. McCombe, G. C. Rea, A. Robinson, O. M. Stewart, L. Wilson, C. O. Haselden.

WANDERERS' EASY WIN.

MONKSTOWN WEAK IN DEFENCE.

Wanderers defeated Monkstown at Sydney Parade on Saturday by 2 goals (from tries) a dropped goal, a penalty goal and a try to a try, or 20 points to 3. Wanderers deserved their win, for their backs combined well, while the Monkstown back division played as individuals. Eliminating such fortuitous scores as dropped and penalty goals, Wanderers crossed their opponents' line three times, but more alert Monkstown defence should have saved a couple of scores.

The losers were unlucky in losing a couple of scores, when Arigho and Ganly had run to the line, but they were dilatory in touching down in defence, and once Williams, following up smartly, almost caught Gillis napping. It was not nearly as good a display as Wanderers gave against Trinity earlier in the week, and was mainly a forward fight, in which Monkstown held their own well. Kennedy gave a sound exhibition at back for the winners, but his vis-a-vis Gillis was moderate, kicked short and ran across too much. Grealy showed fine dash on the Wanderers' left wing, which developed most of the attack, and, with Bermingham, the pair worked a variety of the "scissors" move very effectively. Keegan, at centre, was very alert, scoring two tries and dropping a smart goal. Weir, who played scrum-half for Stowe School last season, is a distinct find. His deliveries were well taken by Hewat, who opened up the attack cleverly, and the best of the forwards were Clinch, Halligan, Williams and Condell. Ganly stood out in the Monkstown three-quarter line, and ran strongly; Wall was good in defence at out-half, and the best of a sturdy pack were Mulhern, Hooper, Shanks and O'Farrell.

After twenty-five minutes desultory play Kennedy landed a penalty for Wanderers, and five minutes later Weir slipped over from a scrum, for Kennedy to add the points. Near the interval Keegan dropped a goal.

Monkstown did better in the second period, and were getting possession. Half-way through, Weir and Hewat sent Keegan over, for Kennedy to convert; but then Ganly broke through from half-way, to score a fine try, which Mulhern barely missed improving on. Near the end, from a cross-kick by Grealy, Keegan got the touch, but Kennedy sent wide. Result:—

Wanderers—4 goals (1 dropped, 1 penalty) 1 try (20 points).

Monkstown—1 try (3 points).

Teams:—

Monkstown—C. H. Gillis; E. S. Fitzherbert, H. V. S. Harty, J. B. Ganly, J. A. Arigho; T. H. D. Wall, G. G. Patterson; E. C. G. Mulhern, J. J. Hooper, J. R. Shanks, K. O'Farrell, I. Millar, O. S. Murphy, W. T. E. Condell, M. A. J. O'Reilly.

Wanderers—D. E. P. Kennedy; S. T. Hutchinson, J. T. Keegan, R. L. Bermingham, J. J. Grealy; J. C. D. Hewat, P. J. Weir; J. D. Clinch, C. R. Graves, L. Halligan, M. McQuaid, H. N. Potterton, D. T. Young, J. K. Riley, B. Williams.

TRINITY AT BELFAST.

BACKS FAIL AGAINST INSTONIANS.

Dublin University gave a disappointing display against Instonians at Ravenhill, Belfast, and were beaten by 1 goal 3 tries (14 points) to a goal (5 points). The home side were the better opportunists, and possessed the stronger defence. Considering that the teams operating have traditions of back-play, the form shown by the outsides was very disappointing. Instonians had the wind in the first half, and led at the interval by a try, but, as Trinity had been handling better, it was anticipated that they would improve in the second period. They failed, however, there being a lack of thrust in the centre, and the passing being right across the field in nearly every instance.

A. C. Douglas played a fine game at full back for Instonians, and T. A. C. Agnew looked after J. F. McNeice, who, however, was not well served. H. R. Davies at full back for Trinity was not a success.

With the wind in the first half, Instonians were mainly attacking, but they threw away many chances, and the only score was obtained by Agnew after Jackson had cut through in the Trinity 25. Soon after resuming, when Trinity were passing, the ball went loose, and Hewitt, darting in, gathered, and on reaching Davies kicked past the full back and, getting up, fell on the ball for a try. He repeated the manœuvre soon afterwards, and though Michael scored for Trinity and Cussen converted, Douglas fielded a defensive kick at centre, surprised the Trinity defence by sweeping through the centre instead of kicking for touch, and sent Elliott in for a score after Parke had replaced Davies at full back. Hewitt landed a great goal. Result:—

Instonians—1 goal 3 tries (14 points).

Dublin University—1 goal (5 points).

Dublin University—H. R. Davies; J. F. McNeice, T. G. Parke, R. M. Cussen, N. Tindall; T. B. Hannin, J. W. Stokes; H. Michael, T. S. J. Anderson, D. L. Graham, H. V. Tighe, W. J. Hall, St. J. Pike, R. C. Sutton, J. Keays.

Instonians—A. C. Douglas; W. S. Wilson, P. P. Jackson, H. C. Hewitt, T. A. C. Agnew; A. P. Elliott, R. K. Hobson; J. P. Campbell, A. Colbert, J. Halliday, J. G. N. Kernahan, J. M. McDowell, R. McNeill, J. McF. Neill, H. S. C. Thomson.

CLONTARF'S SURPRISE.

A DUEL BETWEEN FULL-BACKS.

Considerably below full strength, Bective Rangers were beaten by Clontarf at Donnybrook on Saturday by a penalty goal and a try (6 points) to a goal (5 points). Play never rose to any great heights; defence was superior to attack, but the teams were well matched, each had chances, the winners made more of theirs and reaped the reward of a narrow victory.

Clontarf were on top during most of the opening half, and a fine goal landed from a penalty by Giddings was only a fair indication of superiority shown. Not long afterwards the same player got a clever try, but this time he failed with the kick at goal. Bective pressed continuously in the second half, but passes were dropped or badly given at critical moments, and the only score recorded by them was a goal kicked by White from a try obtained by Fitzsimons.

More interesting to most people than the game generally was the duel between two full-backs who are in the running for highest honours. As the game ran each was severely tested, and gave an impressive display. They are sure fielders and get fine length. Langan gives an impression of great solidity in defence, but Morris seems quicker and more resourceful. No way lacking in sturdiness, the latter's accurate touch-finding and pace often enable him to carry war into enemy country, and on Saturday the honours were his.

Giddings was good in the Clontarf three-quarter line; Lyons and Tyndall were effective at half, and Mooney, Glass and Roche excellent forwards. J. O'Connor ran strongly at centre for Bective; Fitzsimons and J. D. O'Connor combined well at half, and Smith, McMurrough and McAllister were seen to best advantage forward. Result:—

Clontarf—1 penalty goal 1 try (6 points).

Bective Rangers—1 goal (5 points).

Teams:—

Clontarf—D. J. Langan; J. B. Mullally, J. C. Harte, O. G. Giddings, A. D. A. Browne; S. V. Lyons, G. A. Tyndall; P. H. Mooney, J. P. Cavanagh, W. D. Ryan, O'S. Roche, T. D. Murphy, J. V. Glass, V. Hayes, H. C. Storey.

Bective Rangers—D. P. Morris; H. P. Lightfoot, D. J. O'Connor, N. V. Hogan, J. V. Connell; J. V. Fitzsimons, J. D. O'Connor; P. Lalor, D. G. Moore, M. A. McAllister, J. C. McGrath, J. C. McMurrough, J. Smith, J. J. White, J. J. Sheehan.

Referee—Mr. R. A. C. Barrett.

WILLIAMS IN FORM.

SCHOOL BACKS FAIL TO HOLD SPEEDY FORWARDS.

NATIONAL BANK 4, KINGSTOWN G.S. 2.

A speedy forward line and splendid stickwork on a soft pitch gave National Bank victory over Kingstown Grammar School by 4 goals to 2 at Kimmage on Saturday. The winners were much the better team, and in the forward line Williams was particularly prominent. In the first half he scored one of his side's goals, while after the interval he secured a further two. Hanley and Armstrong also played well.

With the exception of D'Arcy, in goal, the Grammar School defence was not as good as usual. The forwards, however, among whom Ritchie, Lindsay, and Cheetham were outstanding, did some fine work.

Play had been in progress about a quarter of an hour when Williams opened the scoring with a hard shot. From the subsequent bully-off the visitors' forwards got moving, and Duke, beating several defenders, put them on level terms with a clever goal. Just before half time Dixon gained the lead for National Bank.

In the second half the ground had cut up badly, and the hockey was not of an interesting nature. Williams broke away at midfield and scored, after a fine solo run, while shortly afterwards the same player's shot glanced off a Grammar School defender's boot and went in for a goal. The losers' second score was obtained by Ritchie just before full time.

DROPPED GOAL DECIDES.

OLD WESLEY DEFEAT GARRYOWEN.

The meeting of Old Wesley and Garryowen at Limerick on Saturday was productive of a splendid game, in which there was plenty of scoring. The Wesley forwards, headed by Love and Fitzpatrick, fairly dominated the play, and were masters in loose play, being ably assisted in their efforts by the halves, Massey and Young, and Prescott on the left wing. Walker at full had a day out, his kicking, fielding and tackling being a treat to witness, and it will be surprising if much more will not be heard of him in the future. The home side were without four of their regular players, and, perhaps, the absence of O'Sullivan at full was the loss most felt. O'Connor, Sullivan, the scrum half, and his partner, Ringrose, were the choice of the Garryowen backs, while Griffin, Heffernan, Coffey and Walsh were most prominent forward.

Twenty minutes elapsed before the scoring opened, and then Walker dropped a great goal from thirty yards, failing in a similar effort a few minutes before. Garryowen had several back movements before M. O'Connor eluded his opponents and ran from half-way before sending Price over to score, the last-mentioned failing to convert. In a few minutes, after a round of passing, the Limerick men added to their second score per Morris, Price again failing to goal. Wesley retaliated when Massey broke through at half-way, and, putting Love in possession, the latter ran strongly for thirty yards to score, but failed to convert. This was the position at half-time, the Dubliners leading by a point.

Prescott broke away in a great solo dribble early in the second half and scored, Young failing to add the points. Garryowen took play to the Wesley 25 by a sprint along the left wing from Morris, and, the forwards carrying on the movement, T. Griffin scored, P. Sullivan missing the goal. In the closing moments Love again scored, taking advantage from a mistake by the Garryowen full, Walker failing in his effort to goal. Result:—

Old Wesley—1 dropped goal 3 tries (13 points).

Garryowen—3 tries (9 points).

MALONE'S FIRST WIN.

PALMERSTON WELL BEATEN.

The other Dublin side visiting Belfast, Palmerston, gave Malone their first victory of the season by 1 goal 4 tries (17 points) to a penalty goal (3 points). The match was played at Balmoral Showgrounds, and Palmerston should have been in a strong position at half-time with a strong breeze at their back, but their backs had not the punch to get through the Malone defence. In this game Malone gave their best display of the season, and while the forwards were dashing and virile, the backs handled more confidently than in the earlier games.

The first score of the game fell to Palmerston, when A. E. Thompson landed a penalty goal, but Majury got an unconverted try for Malone, so that the teams were level at the interval. After half-time Johnston scored twice from forward rushes, but neither try was converted. Later Lyons finished a clever back movement with a try, which Kidd converted, while Johnston scored another unconverted try. Result:—

Malone—1 goal 4 tries (17 points).

Palmerston—1 penalty goal (3 points).

Malone—R. B. Laverty; J. H. Majury, L. L. Richardson, W. H. Jolley, J. N. Lyons; W. A. Loughran, F. G. Sherry; W. H. Kidd, D. E. Beattie, J. Fisher, L. L. Halliday, C. C. Harte, J. W. Johnston, H. M'Gladdery and R. H. S. Smith.

Palmerston—E. Thompson; M. J. Fee, V. E. Kirwan, F. R. Hussey, R. T. Falkiner; J. H. Hazlett, J. R. Patterson; C. N. Kirwan, D. D. Hussey, A. E. Thompson, J. H. Thompson, C. P. Kenna, W. Mahony, H. W. Darker and W. Smith.

DRAW AT WILLIAMSTOWN.

BLACKROCK COLLEGE HANDICAPPED.

The game at Williamstown, where Blackrock College and University College played a draw of 6 points each—2 tries for the home side to 1 penalty goal and 1 try for University—was by no means as interesting an affair as one would have expected. It was a hard fought, robust game, but there was little distinction in the play, and for the major portion of the time the forwards controlled matters.

Blackrock, who were handicapped through the absence of their best players—P. Crowe in the three-quarter line and M. Burns amongst the forwards—should have won on the general run of the play, as they were more often on the aggressive, and on one occasion Healy had the hardest lines in not scoring on the right wing. This player was injured early in the second half and forced to retire, and Traynor had to come out of the pack to fill the vacancy. The home forwards played a right good game, and were better than the pack opposed to them. Keaney, Vaughan and Hay were all prominent, while Traynor acquitted himself admirably when playing three-quarter. Lynch and Gorevan both did good work at centre and scrum-half, respectively, while Martin was sound in the last line of defence.

University College had a couple of changes, and the absence of F. Dawson necessitated R. Hogan coming from full back to fill the latter's place at half, and O'Connell went full. The latter played quite well and kicked with good length. P. Cremin and Kiely were the best of the middle line, and Hogan and Roche showed a thorough understanding at half. The forwards were best represented by W. Cremin, Gleeson and Neary.

Early in the game National got several chances from frees of kicking goals, but Roche and Saurin both failed in turn in their efforts. Midways through Blackrock opened the scoring, Gorevan sending Walker over for a try which was not converted. Then a few minutes later Gorevan crossed for another unconverted try. Shortly before the interval Saurin landed a penalty goal, and immediately afterwards Healy was almost over for Blackrock after a good follow-up.

The second period was hotly contested, and both sides had strong spells of attack. Only one score was registered, however, and this came to University College, when Kiely wound up a good round of passing by crossing far out, but the kick at goal failed. Result:—

Blackrock College—2 tries (6 points).

University College—1 penalty goal 1 try (6 points).

Teams:—

Blackrock College—E. Martin; S. Healy, P. Branagan, A. Lynch, C. Walker; J. Gorevan, P. Branagan; J. McFeeley, W. Carroll, R. Hay, J. Keaney, F. O'Reilly, B. Tinion, J. Traynor, M. Vaughan.

FINE VICTORY FOR NAAS.

NATIONAL BANK'S SUCCESS.

MONKSTOWN DRAW.

Despite the rainfall of Friday, the various pitches recovered well, and Saturday's programme was carried through in full. Railway Union, Naas and National Bank scored easy victories over Three Rock Rovers, Wicklow and Kingstown Grammar School respectively, but Dalkey only won by a solitary goal from Clontarf, and Monkstown and Pembroke Wanderers played a draw.

CLEVER MARKSMEN.

SULLY BROTHERS GET RAILWAY UNION'S GOALS.

RAILWAY UNION...... 5 THREE ROCK R. 2

For their first game of the season, Rovers gave quite a good display at Londonbridge road, their close marking in defence being an outstanding feature. The play throughout was very fast, and the superior combined efforts of the Railway forwards, together with excellent shooting by C. and V. Sully, left them masters of the situation, and provided a contrast to the individual brilliance at times of the Rovers' attack. Early in the play Railway attacked, and a couple of shots were sent just wide. Eustace, in saving from V. Sully, sent behind, the resulting corner being converted by C. Sully with a brilliant flick shot. Following another corner V. Sully added a second goal. Rovers then had a couple of innings without result, until Crawley slipped through to reduce the lead with a fine shot. Before the interval Railway scored again, C. Sully netting a fine save by Eustace from V. Sully.

For a time in the second half Railway showed sparkling attacking powers, and V. Sully scored two splendid goals after clever individual efforts. Rovers subsequently defended stubbornly, and Boyd eventually relieved the pressure, and sending S. Leonard away, Evans secured the latter's pass to score with a great rising shot.

Three Rock Rovers—F. Eustace; J. F. Mahony (capt.), A. P. Kelly; R. S. Wix, G. V. Boyd, R. M. Corbett; S. Leonard, R. Evans, C. J. O'Reilly, W. Crawley, R. Leonard.

Railway Union—W. C. Leopold; K. N. Browner, M. C. O'Donoghue; J. J. Corscadden, W. Chiddick (capt.), H. W. Sully; T. Browner, C. Sully, V. Sully, W. Knight, T. Hennessy.

JAMES PURCELL'S THREE.

WEAKENED NAAS TEAM BEAT WICKLOW AT HOME.

NAAS............ 4 WICKLOW............ 0

Naas have certainly made a great start in senior circles; for, following their win over National Bank, they journeyed to Wicklow and beat the more experienced home team by 4-0, a victory that was well deserved. Naas were easily the better side, and even an injury to John Purcell, which forced him to retire after twenty minutes, failed to knock the reorganised team off its balance, and rarely in the first half did Wicklow look like scoring.

Naas got away with a flying start, and before Purcell retired Jim Purcell had performed the "hat-trick." Subsequently Gelletlie had a few good tries for Wicklow, but Leonard was sound. In the second half Wicklow were awarded several penalty corners, but close marking by the visiting backs never allowed the home forwards time to get a direct shot at goal. The final goal, which came midway in the concluding period, was easily the best; for Joe Tyndall beat the entire defence before placing in the net.

Naas—P. Leonard; John Purcell, C. Tyndall; D. O'Rourke, J. D'Arcy, Jack Tyndall; J. M. Wheeler (capt.), D. M. Purcell, James Purcell, D. A. Gibson, Jos. Tyndall.

Wicklow—W. D. Roberts; C. Hopkins, R. Kent; E. J. Hopkins, N. J. McEachern, P. Flood; J. H. McCarroll, F. C. Gelletlie, D. M. O'Reilly, J. D. D. Kerr, H. Saul.

Umpires—Messrs. W. Morrison and G. Richardson.

A GOAL DECIDES.

DALKEY DEFEAT CLONTARF AT THE STILES.

DALKEY .... 1 CLONTARF 0

One goal decided the issue in favour of Dalkey, who were visitors to Clontarf at the Stiles, Howth road, on Saturday. This goal came late in the game and was scored by O'Kelly from close range. Just previous to this Prouse, in the home goal, had saved a couple of hard shots and he could not be blamed for the one that beat him. Taking the game as a whole, Dalkey deserved their victory; in fact, with a little luck, they would have been a couple of goals up at the interval.

In the first half Anderson, in the visitors' goal, had a very easy time, having to deal with only a couple of shots. He was well covered by Keyms, late of Dublin University, and Pender. But, try as they might, Dalkey could not score. In the second half the home defence stood up well until the goal was scored. In the closing stages they nearly gave way again. Prouse and Palk stood out amongst the defenders, and the brothers Keegan were strong in attack. For Dalkey, Keyms, Pender, Wilson, Garratt, Sheehan and O'Kelly played well.

Clontarf—J. S. Prouse; A. W. Palk, A. V. Carroll; O'Mahony, G. N. Coughlan, N. P. Healy; H. V. Keegan, S. E. Keegan, A. J. Keegan, Bell, Bristling.

Dalkey—Anderson; Pender, Keyms; Kenny, L. C. Wilson, F. Regan; Kennedy, Garratt, J. Maloney, Sheehan, O'Kelly.

Umpires—Messrs. R. Mellon and W. F. McDonnell.

A POOR GAME.

MONKSTOWN AND WANDERERS DRAW.

MONKSTOWN .... 1 PEMBROKE WAND. 1

A very bad pitch was responsible for reducing the standard of play in this match at Royal terrace, Kingstown, to a level far removed from what is expected from these teams. The home team were very uncertain, the halves and forwards seeming to be unable to stop the ball. Pembroke were more reliable in this respect, but their forwards found Darcus and Dormer hard to beat, and Sutton got little to do in goal.

A draw was, perhaps, a fitting result, even though Pembroke had more of the play in the second half. A mistake by the home backs let Allen through to give Pembroke the lead, but it was not long till Gray equalised with a great shot. Play was very poor on change of ends, and neither side could score.

Monkstown—W. Sutton; E. Dormer, G. Darcus; P. McWeeney, G. Tyndall, W. Delamere; J. McElveen, H. Legge, J. Brewster, J. Gray, N. Phillips.

Pembroke Wanderers—A. McNeill; R. Hertis, R. Donoghue; S. Doyle, C. Little, E. Beadie; P. Lindsay, E. Riley, R. Martin, D. Allen, M. Cregan.

GOLF.

THE ALLIANCE AT CASTLE.

GOOD SCORING IN A RAINSTORM.

A 75 BY P. O'CONNOR.

Fifty members turned up at the Castle yesterday morning for the opening meeting of the Alliance season to battle for almost three hours against a rainstorm of exceptional severity. The wind was blowing with hurricane force straight down the course, and the first hole, normally a 4 for the professionals, was transferred into a possible 6, while many competitors breathed a sigh of relief when they left the green having taken only 8 strokes.

Even the big hitters were right up against it. William Nolan, for instance, did not reach the mounds on the left with his drive, and his ball was buried in them off his second, and, home in five, he took three putts. His assistant, Doran, also had an amusing experience. A raking drive was followed by a full brassey, which left him in the grassy hollow across the fairway. He hit the ball up hard and high, but the wind swept it back, and he played his third shot from longer range than his second.

The fourth, fifth and eighth were also regular teasers, and at the eighth several balls were blown out of bounds on the left. Homeward it was, of course, as bad. Mashie shots became full No. 2's for the professionals and brasseys for a goodly number of the amateurs; and the putting, needless to say, was also a problem. One trying to score under such conditions could well imagine what it was like at Portmarnock and Dollymount.

It was fortunate for all, however, that the course was in comparatively fine order and that very few players had to avail themselves of the advantage of the local rule re plugged balls, while the greens were fast and true.

In the circumstances Pat O'Connor and William J. Gill played admirable golf. Starting with a level half dozen, the Woodbrook professional reached the turn in 36, and came back in 39 to win the best gross by four strokes from Gill, who fought the wind in fine style and required only thirty putts. He won the best nett with 78, and M. J. Knightly, one of the last to finish, came into the prize list with 79 nett, to beat John Doran by one stroke; but the latter had the misfortune to be out of bounds at the 8th, 11th and 14th (twice).

The leading returns were:—

(a) P. O'Connor (Woodbrook)	75	+2	77
(b) William J. Gill (Sutton)	79	1	78
(c) M. J. Knightly (Clontarf)	86	7	79

THE ANNUAL MEETING.

Captain L. J. Arnott presided at the annual meeting in the clubhouse, and expressed the pleasure he felt at being re-elected President of the Alliance, which was doing excellent work for golf in Dublin. He referred to the match with the Ulster Alliance, which this season would be played in Dublin, and said it was one of the most important functions of the Alliance to entertain their fellow-golfers from Ulster. He paid a tribute to the zeal of the outgoing captain, Mr. Douglas Figgis, who did so much to further their interests during his term of office; thanked Mr. T. A. Healy for his efforts in connection with the raising of £60 for the funds, and spoke of the assistance given by the various clubs, particularly the Castle, the committee of which had had a welcome for the Alliance on at least half a dozen occasions.

The report and balance sheet were passed, Mr. Beattie's statement showing a balance in bank of £57.

GAELIC GAMES.

TIPPERARY OVERWHELM LONDON HURLERS.

(BY PAT'O.)

TIPPERARY...... 11-5 LONDON 1-0

Having played so well against a strong Galway side in the first inter-province round, London had trained carefully, with sound hopes of giving Tipperary a close run. They had a calm crossing on Saturday under the charge of Messrs. Collins and Smith, President and Secretary, respectively, of the London County Board. The only change on the side which beat Galway was the entrance of Dr. Waldron, who was prominent with U.C., Dublin, for many seasons before he opened a London practice. This change was from strength, and not from weakness, so London's prospects seemed bright. They are a light, fast team, who like a dry sod and a fast bouncing ball. Their London pitches are usually bare and road-hard, so that recent weather and yesterday's downpour severely handicapped the visitors.

Against them was a sturdy side of Tipperary men accustomed to heavy pitches and tough games. The Munster men revelled in the conditions. They had the advantage of playing with a storm of wind and rain to aid them in the first half. London struggled gallantly, but they were so weary after half-an-hour facing the deluge that they were incapable of using it to their advantage in the second half. That London did not score in this half is clear evidence of Tipperary's stamina and steady defence.

The winners meet Kilkenny in the final, and in yesterday's play Tipperary are likely to create a "record" in winning all three championships—Minor, Junior and Senior—in the same season.

Tipperary rushed down from the throw-in. Murphy, Shalloe and Duggan saved, but Harrington and Brown, working up on the left, fed Harty, who rushed a goal through inside a minute. Harrington and Fletcher pointed quickly, but London put up a powerful defence. The game was now confined to London territory, and Walsh was called upon repeatedly between the posts. He won repeated applause in saving skilfully from all angles. Tipperary's front lines were very accurate and aggressive. They never set a ball astray, crossing and re-crossing admirably. Harty, Looby, Fletcher and Harrington, dribbling quickly and controlling the heavy ball well, totted up scores for Tipperary. When London worked upfield they found O'Gorman and the Ryans a trio safe backs. It was late in the half-hour when O'Neill missed a chance at Tipperary's goal mouth. Holding position, however, Waldron drove a long ball from the left, which travelled all the way to the net for London's lone score. At half time Tipperary led by 7 goals 4 points to a goal.

Early in the second half Looby had a long range point, and, playing with great energy in all sectors, Tipperary added to their long lead. Waldron, Mackey and O'Neill, for London, tried hard to narrow the gap, but Gorman, Ryan and Connolly held them up, and Gorman showed fine judgment in goal. Their forwards' inability to register took the heart out of the London backs, and when Looby, Harty and Harrington came through, Murphy and Walsh failed to hold them. The finish was tame.

Tipperary—Gorman, Ryan (3), McGann, Harty (2), Connolly, Dwyer, Furlong, Harrington, Looby, Fletcher, Brown, Wade.

London — Walsh, Shalloe, Landy, Lindsay, Murphy, Duggan, Holland, Desmond, Cremin, Griffin, Waldron, Mackey, O'Neill (2), Kennedy.

CHAPELIZOD TOURNAMENT.

DOLPHINS .... 2-2 PARNELLS 0-3

Yesterday, at Chapelizod, two games were listed for decision in the gold medal tournament, but only one played, that between St. Mary's (Leixlip) and Ballyboden Wanderers falling through, St. Mary's being awarded a walk-over. The Dolphin-Parnell game was completely spoiled by the high wind, which made it an impossibility to play good football. Parnells had the advantage of it in the first half-hour, and got chances enough to put the result beyond doubt. They had six free kicks all within easy scoring distance, but on each occasion they missed badly. They only succeeded in scoring three points, secured by Quinn, Devine and Kirwan. Dolphins had one per Hunston. In the second half Parnells concentrated on defence, and for a time held the Dolphin forwards, but after fifteen minutes Boylan put through a goal. Another goal and a point by O'Reilly to Dolphins ended a game which, under better weather conditions, would have been an interesting struggle.

BOXING.

CARNERA LEAVES FOR EUROPE.

Primo Carnera sailed from New York on Saturday for Genoa. His has been one of the most successful heavy-weight invasions of America, with 23 knockouts to his credit out of 24 fights. Carnera was accompanied by his manager, Leon See, who said that negotiations for a return bout with Jimmy Maloney, who inflicted on Carnera the only defeat of the tour, had broken down because Maloney refused to fight outside Boston. Carnera is going straight to Milan, where he will meet Monse Bouquillon, of France, on November 4. His next fight after that will be against Paolino Uzcudun at Barcelona on November 26.

Carnera may return to the United States in December for a title bout with Max Schmeling in Chicago, or a match with Jack Sharkey at Miami in February.

WALKER AND SUAREZ WIN.

At St. Louis Mickey Walker, in a non-title bout, knocked out Johnny Clune, of Los Angeles, in the second round of a ten rounds bout.

Justo Suarez, the Argentine light-weight champion, who is a possible opponent for Kid Berg, won his fifth successive victory in the United States when, at Madison Square Garden, New York, he beat Louis Kaplan, former feather-weight champion, on points over ten rounds.

PAOLINO BEATS GRISELLE.

At Paris on Saturday night Maurice Griselle, the French heavy-weight champion, was declared the loser in the fifth round of his ten-round contest against Paolino Uzcudun at the Velodrome d'Hiver. Griselle wanted to go on with the fight, but blood was pouring from his face so that he could hardly see, and when he had to support himself on the ropes the referee awarded the fight to Paolino.

GREYHOUND RACING.

BIG CROWD AT CHARITY MEETING.

The charity meeting in aid of the Linen Guild of the Coombe Hospital attracted a very large gathering to Shelbourne Park on Saturday night. The racing was highly interesting, and, with the seven events comprised the programme, and each carried a valuable cup.

The racing was highly interesting, and, with the majority of the winners stoutly supported, backers fared well. Luggie, the property of Mrs. Lynch, Dunshaughlin, put up a very impressive performance in winning the Duggan Cup from a "hot" field. Little Mark, with odds laid on, never flattered, and Luggie passed the line four lengths in front of Mac Sgeolan. Guiding Pal was too fast for his opponents in the O'Donoghue Cup, while the Arnott Cup was won by that stylish jumper, Emir Bey. The well-backed Master Bedouin won the Count McCormack Cup, a sprint event, by three lengths from Never Gloomy, who led for a good part of the journey.

Mrs. Murrough presented the cups, and General O'Duffy thanked the patrons on behalf of the hospital. Details:—

FINANCIAL NEWS AND NOTES

LONDON STOCK EXCHANGE FEATURES.

A CHANGE FOR THE BETTER.

THE DEBT CONVERSION SCHEME.

From Our Financial Correspondent.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON, Saturday.

The Stock Exchange record last week was certainly more interesting, and, on the whole, it was more encouraging. It started with somewhat acute depression, for there appeared to be a considerable amount of liquidation, while the heavy fall in Brazilian Bonds was disturbing to say the least, and base metal prices further declined. Not unnaturally, perhaps, rumours of fresh difficulties in the House were somewhat rife. Afterwards markets took a decided turn for the better, helped by the optimistic note sounded by the Chancellor of the Exchequer at the Mansion House. Later news from Brazil was regarded as more encouraging, and the better sentiment induced bear covering. The rapidity with which prices rallied confirmed the opinion previously expressed that for some time past markets have been somewhat artificial, for the fall in prices was quite out of proportion to the amount of stock actually sold. It is to be hoped that the recovery will be maintained. Certainly, there is room for a very substantial improvement in more than one direction.

ATTITUDE OF THE PUBLIC.

As yet, the general public has not taken more than a slight interest in markets. It is said that, even when the depression was most pronounced there was comparatively little selling by the ordinary investor, but now that things appear to have taken a turn for the better there is, as yet, little public buying. This is not very surprising. The previous depression had been so prolonged and had involved such heavy losses that there was a natural hesitation to come in again in case the rally should be followed by a fresh spasm of weakness. Prices may, indeed, go lower still, but it would be very remarkable if a substantial further decline were witnessed, and people who have courage to buy now will probably do well.

A MARKET OPINION.

In regard to this matter, the opinion of a leading Stock Exchange firm, which is contained in its monthly review, may be mentioned. In spite of adverse factors, according to this authority, and the natural disappointment at price reactions and paucity of business, a feeling persists that we are "bumping along the bottom," though it may be a very uneven bottom, presenting some unexpected and disturbing irregularities. There has recently been a recurrence of liquidation, and the stocks affected show material declines, but the selling appears to be less general and more individual than was the case six weeks ago, and, in spite of the appearance of weakness, markets are sold out and oversold. For this reason, the firm mentioned would not attempt to deter investors who are considering buying Ordinary Shares in industrial concerns, which are well equipped and managed and have substantial resources.

INDUSTRIAL SELECTIONS.

These views are certainly sound, and they may be endorsed by an indication of the kind of undertakings referred to. Among these may be included Associated Portland Cement, Furness Withy, Swan Hunter, P. and O. Deferred, Imperial Tobacco, and Courtaulds. Shares of a more speculative type, but which are certain to appreciate substantially in the event of a market revival, include United Molasses, Unilevers, Dunlop Rubber and Vickers. Some electrical equipment issues, too, have given way considerably in recent months, and, of these, among the most promising from the standpoint of capital appreciation possibilities are Associated Electrical Industries and Siemens Bros. The latter appear to be under-valued at about 1 1/16. There is probably also scope for improvement in shares of the strongest motor companies, particularly Dennis Bros. and Leyland.

SCOPE FOR APPRECIATION.

In several other directions, of course, prices are very low compared with the level reached last year or earlier in 1930. These include Brazilian Government Bonds and Argentine Railway securities. The ordinary investor will hesitate to buy the former until more definite news is obtainable of the situation in the country, but there should be little hesitation in taking an interest in Argentine Rails at present prices. The recent strong recovery in the exchange is encouraging, though it is not clear why it fell so much previously. The political situation appears to be settled now that the Argentinos have got a change of Government, and nearly all the annual reports of the railways speak hopefully of crop prospects for the current year. When Ordinary Stocks of companies with strong reserves are quoted at prices which yield from 8 to 10 per cent. on the money invested, it is evident that the worst features of the situation have been discounted.

FOREIGN BONDS.

The newer European Government Bonds, such as Esthonia 7 per cent., Hungary Counties 7½ per cent., and Rumania 7 per cent., have also fallen heavily, but here the most cautious investor will probably decide to leave such bonds to people who want them for mixing purposes—that is, to bring up the average yield on an assorted holding. Recent developments in Germany have indicated the possibility of political unrest in other European countries, especially those that were badly hit by the war, and, at the best, a certain amount of risk is taken in making purchases. Possibly, it would be better to buy Chinese Government Bonds. There the political situation appears to be settling down after years of chaos, and, as shown by a recent announcement, the authorities evidently intend to meet the foreign obligations so long as funds are available for the purpose. The recuperative powers of China are immense, and it is useful to remember that throughout the long period of internecine warfare the Customs receipts were remarkably well maintained.

SECURED LOANS.

A purchase of Chinese Bonds should be confined to the loans that enjoy specific security, such as the 4½ per cent. of 1898, the 5 per cent. of 1896, and the 5 per cent. of 1913. The last looks attractive, for, at the current price of 65½, and allowing for accrued interest, the return is just 8 per cent., irrespective of redemption. Before long the 4½ per cent., 1898, issue will be a prior charge on the Maritime Customs, and should gradually rise well above the present figure of 85. The 5 per cent., 1912, appeals more to the speculator, and the fact that the indicated yield is 12½ per cent., shows the element of risk that attaches to a purchase, but a 5 per cent. security quoted at 40 gives plenty of scope for improvement.

DEBT CONVERSION.

It would be a pity if holders of 5 p.c. War Loan were frightened into selling their stock by Mr. Snowden's statement respecting the conversion of part of this issue. Such an operation cannot come yet awhile. Before the project holds out any hope of success it would be necessary to see gilt-edged stocks at a still higher level, with a strong demand for securities on a yield basis of considerably less than 4½ per cent. Probably the utmost that the Chancellor of the Exchequer could hope to effect would be the replacement of some hundreds of millions of this 5 p.c. War Loan by a long-dated security issued on terms yielding 4½ per cent. The annual saving to the Exchequer, and consequently to the country would be £10,000,000 if the whole of the 5 p.c. Loan were converted on such terms, but any such scheme would have to be entirely voluntary on the part of those affected. It is sometimes said that the Goverment will propose a reduction in the rate of interest on this particular stock. This is ridiculous, for it would be tantamount to repudiation, but there is no doubt that between now and 1947, the final redemption date, attempts will be made to replace as much of this security as possible by one carrying a lower rate of interest, and in respect of which the dividends are paid less tax. Where investors were fortunate to obtain the 5 p.c. War Loan at or about the issue price of 95 there is a strong inducement to realise the handsome profit indicated, and with the proceeds buy a larger amount of stock, even though the new security carried a lower rate of interest.

FINANCIAL PARAGRAPHS.

THE OUTLOOK.

In the immediate future the course of the Stock Markets will probably be influenced mainly by events in New York. When the President of the United States is called into consultation with the President and Vice-President of the New York Stock Exchange it may reasonably be assumed that something out of the ordinary is under discussion. In this instance it is believed to be the financial situation arising out of the recent slump and the risk of a panic if firms who are known to be weak are allowed to fail, (writes The Sunday Times). It would, perhaps, be going too far to say, as some sanguine people profess to believe, that the worst of the depression has been seen. But the slump in commodities cannot go on for ever, and there are signs that the lowest levels have been nearly, if not quite, reached. When this conviction is forced upon consumers they will begin to buy again, and the securities dependent upon higher commodity prices will benefit. Economic troubles are at the root of the political disturbances in South America, as well as in Germany and Spain. Remove these and people will no longer be anxious for a change of government, except by constitutional methods. The world is undergoing a period of deflation, and its symptoms are reflected by the stock markets. How difficult it is to employ capital profitably and yet with safety is evident from the huge oversubscription of recent issues of the gilt-edged type. High-grade but low-yielding securities will continue to be favoured so long as political unrest and falling commodity prices render more speculative investments unsafe, and consequently unpopular. But the time must come again when speculative purchases can be indulged in without excessive risk, and those who are able to hit upon the psychological moment for effecting purchases of investments that are now unduly depreciated and offer ample scope for recovery will in the end secure an ample reward. For this reason the course of events in the financial as well as the political world should be watched with the closest attention. Seldom has there been a more interesting phase than that through which the City is now passing.

ALLIED STORES "CRISIS."

Whatever is happening behind the scenes of the Allied Stores merger, there can be no doubt that the most careful precautions have been taken to hide the facts (says The Observer). In every quarter from which information might legitimately be sought the answer was the same, "No information." Rumour has, therefore, been exceedingly busy, even going so far as to declare that, despite the approval of the shareholders and the registration of the £13,000,000 company, the whole deal is "off." It appears to be quite true that difficulties have arisen, chiefly due to the clashing of personalities with strong views regarding policy. Strenuous efforts are being made to bring the varying individual opinions into line, and the hope that these will prove successful is the justification for the secrecy that is being observed. We have authority for stating that the deal is a long way from being "off." It is, indeed, difficult to see how this could be the case in view of the whole-hearted approval of the merger expressed by the shareholders of the several companies concerned. The scheme is now before the Court. Should negotiations now in progress with the object of settling the difficulties which have arisen fail, serious opposition may, of course, develop which will jeopardise the result of the application for sanction. There is every hope, however, that this will not be the case. Meanwhile, we suggest to the shareholders of the companies concerned that they should await events with patience.

BANK OF BRAZIL'S EMERGENCY ISSUE OF NOTES.

A Rio de Janeiro message states that the Bank of Brazil has been authorised by Presidential decree to issue 300,000 contos paper, guaranteed by £1,000,000 sterling and Government bonds. The decree declares that the "present extreme necessity justifies an emergency issue of Bank of Brazil notes.

LONDON MONEY MARKET.

ABUNDANT CREDIT.

ONE MILLION SOVEREIGNS FROM AUSTRALIA.

The position in the London Money market on Saturday morning followed the general trend of the week's business. Supplies of loanable credit were abundant and bill rates easy. The clearing banks still required their minimum rate of 2 per cent. for call money, but, at this level, were prepared to lend up to the end of the month. Outside the clearing circle borrowers secured most of their requirements at 1½ per cent., while balances were available towards the end of the session down to 1 per cent.

Discount rates were weak in tendency. There were both buyers and sellers of the "hot" bills at 2 1/16 per cent., while the banks found a few more December rates at 2 per cent. A quotation of 2 1/16 per cent., now represents the top position for three months' fine bank bills, which were also quoted down to 2 1/16 per cent. Competitive business has been reported during the week at 2 1/16 per cent.

The Bank of England announced the receipt of 1,000,000 sovereigns, which were known to have come from Australia. The Bank also showed the sale of £6,993 of bar gold and the withdrawal of 2,000 sovereigns for export. The next consignment of South African gold to be offered in the market amounts to £453,000, while 250,000 sovereigns from South Africa should be paid in to-day.

Fine gold was unchanged at 84s. 11½d. per fine ounce. Silver was ⅛d. lower at 16⅝d. per ounce for both cash and forward delivery.

The decision of the Argentine Government to authorise exports of gold for the service of the country's external loans had little effect on the rate of exchange, which closed at 38⅝d., as compared with the previous level of 38⅜d. The principal foreign exchanges showed very little movement. Sterling in New York appreciated to 4.86.01¼, the rate on Paris rose to 123.88, and on Berlin to 20.42⅞. The Amsterdam rate continued to improve, with a rise to 12.06 11/16.

MANCHESTER MARKETS REVIEW.

FURTHER ADVANCE IN BACON.

From Our Commercial Correspondent.

Taken all round, business in this centre has been quiet throughout the week, but, so far as the provision trade is concerned, there is a much stronger feeling in most departments, especially in pig products. The bacon market shows distinct signs of recovery, and at the weekly meeting of the local Bacon Committee it was decided to advance the price of Irish by 4s. to 6s., Danish, Swedish and Dutch 3s., and Polish 4s. to 5s. per cwt. At present weather conditions are exceptionally mild for the time of the year, and this may have a depressing effect on business, but there is little probability of any falling off in prices owing to the reduced quantity of Continental available. Available supplies of lard are by no means heavy, and the market for this product is also very strong, prices having advanced somewhat sharply as compared with the beginning of the week. The Danish official quotation for butter has been wired six kroner higher, and "top" now stands at 246 kroner per 100 kilos, as compared with 332 kroner at the corresponding period of last year and 315 in 1928. All Scandinavian and Continental makes have advanced in sympathy, and both Irish creameries and New Zealands are also dearer. There is every prospect of a further advance being recorded next week. Eggs also rule firm, and, owing to the shortage of English new laid and Northern Ireland, Irish Free State have advanced in price. Danish and Swedish also command comparatively high prices, but increasing quantities of South African, Australian, and Argentine are now coming forward at reasonable prices. A report of great interest to farmers has been presented by the Inter-Departmental Committee which was appointed in April last by the Minister of Agriculture and the Secretary of State for Scotland to review the progress made by the English and Scottish scheme for grading and marking beef. According to this report, the expense that has been incurred has been more than justified in the Committee's opinion. In London, where the scheme has had a fair trial, the Committee shows that it was accompanied by a marked increase in the supplies of high quality Scotch beef bought at Smithfield Market. In the case of home-killed (English and Irish beef) there was no actual increase in the quantity, but there was a substantial rise in the value. The Committee recommends that the existing scheme should be continued on the present experimental basis in London (including supplies from North-East Scotland and Birkenhead) and in Birmingham up till October 31st, 1931, and should be extended on the same basis for twelve months to other areas. The Manchester area should be considered for extension when a start has been made in the new areas, but, with regard to this centre, some modification as regards to finish may be necessary to meet the variation in demand.

At Salford Cattle market on Tuesday there was some decrease in the numbers of Irish fat and dairy cattle, but little alteration in the number of lambs shown. Fat cattle were rather easier, but sheep and lambs showed little change. Dairy cows rather favoured buyers. According to official returns during the week ended October 4th, 242 Canadian cattle were landed in Great Britain, all of which arrived at Manchester. Of these, nine were slaughtered at the landing place, 86 were licensed out for slaughter and 24 were licensed for further feeding. Of the 455 cattle which arrived at Birkenhead in the previous week a further 296 were slaughtered at the landing place. At the Manchester Pig market supplies were fairly large, but demand again ran mainly on cutters and small choice sizeable baconers, fat, heavy pigs being again very difficult to move. At the Manchester Dead Meat market a quietly steady trade was experienced at the beginning of the week, but at the close, owing to the milder weather, coupled with increased supplies, trade was very slow, notwithstanding reduced prices for both home-killed and imported descriptions.

Little change in either dead poultry or game, but present weather conditions are causing buyers to act cautiously.

IRISH FAIRS.

DUNGARVAN (CO. WATERFORD), October 15.—Large cattle fair, the approximate numbers on offer being: Store cattle 1,200, fat cattle 200, springers and milch cows 130, calves 35. Large supply of sheep, numbering approximately 417 lambs, 2,350 store and 200 fat sheep. Some 50 young and 1,260 store pigs were also offered. The cattle fair was composed chiefly of shorthorn stock, with some lots of Aberdeen-Angus crosses. Average attendance of exporters and home dealers. Store cattle met a slow trade at recent rates, but a fair clearance was effected. Young pollys, with condition and quality, were in demand for export. Fat cattle sold slowly at values tending lower. Prime springers and milch cows met a keen inquiry at high rates; secondary lots were neglected. All classes of sheep and lambs met a dull trade at lower figures, and many lots remained unsold. Young and store pigs were hard to cash, even at reduced values. Range of prices per head:—Calves, under six months, £2 to £3 2/6. Store cattle: 6 to 12 months—1st class £8 to £9 10/-, 2nd class £6 5/- to £7 15/-; 1 to 2 years—1st class £11 15/- to £14, 2nd class £9 10/- to £11 10/-, 3rd class £7 to £9; 2 to 3 years—1st class £15 to £17 10/-, 2nd class £12 15/- to £14 10/-, 3rd class £10 to £12 5/-; 3 years and over—1st class £17 to £18 10/-. MISCELLANEOUS.

English wools show another slight decline, and holders who bought at the fairs and have held on are wondering when the bottom will be reached. There is certainly no indication of recovery at present.

HIDES AND LEATHER.

(SPECIAL REPORT.)

Conditions at Bermondsey this week were not encouraging, and with slow bidding, prices were mostly easier. First clear ox were ¼d. to ½d. down, with heavies at 7¼d. English sole bends of 10/12lb. and 12/14lb. averages were in steady request, whilst 14/16lb. were scarce and wanted. Trade in offal was disappointingly quiet, with values difficult to maintain owing to the large supplies available. Rough leather was in quiet demand, with values barely steady. There was a good demand for upper leathers at the fair, with willow and box calf in keen request. Dark brown shades of kid attracted fair attention, and there was a moderate inquiry for black kid. Real reptiles were quiet, but there was a better inquiry for imitations.

TROPICAL PRODUCE MARKET ACTIVE.

PRICES MAINTAINED.

From Our Commercial Correspondent.

LIVERPOOL, Saturday.

Markets have held well throughout the week, with a fair amount of business done in the chief sections. Palm oil, for instance, has been quite actively sought, but dealers are moving cautiously, and are not free sellers even at an advance of 10s. to 15s. on last week's rates. For spot softs business was done early on at £21 and £21 5s. and to-day buyers would go to £21 7s. 6d., but only here and there can sellers be found, and then for small quantities. For forward arrivals £21 5s. has been made, while the Northern Continent has shown interest in November shipment of Lagos oil at £21 per ton. Home consumers have been mainly interested in forward shipments, for which full rates have been paid. Mediums and hards have also hardened slightly in values, though the actual amount of trade done has been small.

Palm kernels have moved 2s. 6d. to 3s. 9d. up on the week, with a steady trade to Hamburg at £10 12s. 6d., and £10 13s. 9d. for October-November shipment; November-December was done at £10 15s., and December-January at £11, at which rates further business would be likely, but sellers ask from 1s. 3d. to 2s. 6d. per ton on previous prices. Hull consumers have put through a fair amount of business in material near at hand, paying £10 12s. 6d. for October-November position.

Copra has been a firm market with Eastern shippers continuing to show reserve, not even the higher rates ruling inducing them to meet buyers' demands. Compared with a week ago F.M.S. Straits October-November and November-December positions have recovered 12s. 6d. per ton, with £15 15s. the last price recorded. To-day offers of £15 17s. 6d. are not taken up any too freely for shipment. Rotterdam and Dutch East Indies same positions and shipments made £15 16s. 3d., and Marseilles has sought October-November mixed Dutch East Indies around £15 3s. 9d.

Groundnuts have kept a steady tone with business rather better. For Coromandel machined October-November positions £12 8s. 9d. has been paid, as against £12 a week ago. November-December made £12 5s., December-January £12 and January-February £11 17s. 6d. To-day further business is only possible at 2s. 6d. and in some cases 3s. 9d. more money.

Cottonseeds have remained rather inactive, though £4 10s. is still offered for January-March shipment of Brazilian f.o.q. ex ship terms. Seed oils have tended easier, cottonseed being 6d. easier at 26s. 6d. for common edible. Deodorised net naked made 28s. 6d. ex mills. Linseed was quiet, with raw quoted 32s. and boiled 34s. per cwt. spot in barrels.

THE AGRICULTURAL OUTLOOK.

VIEWS AT LIMERICK FARMERS' MEETING.

A meeting of the farmers of the eastern division of County Limerick was held in the Town Hall, Limerick, last Saturday, for the purpose of forming a Farmers' Union to deal with matters affecting the agricultural interests of the country, especially in view of the present existing depression in the prices of bacon, butter and other produce.

Mr. Lorcan O'Toole, Dublin, organiser, was present.

The Mayor said that he hoped their deliberations that day would bear good fruit.

Mr. John McCormack, Chairman, said that dairying was the keystone of the farming industry, yet the price of Irish butter was down as compared with the price of Danish or Swedish. Legislation could not do anything without organisation. There was nothing political in the objects of the meeting.

LOANS.

Mr. O'Toole said that there was an alternative proposal to de-rating. Something more was needed to enable the farmer to rise from the stagnant position in which he was at the moment, and he suggested the granting of loans for fifteen or twenty years at, say, three per cent., and the repayment of which could be guaranteed by doubling the agricultural grant. He urged the fostering of the home markets, and said that it was bad business for farmers to pay 1s. 1d. per lb. for foreign bacon while they sold their own pigs at 6d. or 7d. per lb. There was a necessity for the establishment of an abattoir in Limerick to deal with their own killings, as in Cork, and which would enable the farmers to prevent the import of bacon to the extent of £1,500,000.

Mr. J. J. O'Shaughnessy, Secretary of the West Limerick Farmers' Union, said that the farmer's income had been decreased by one-third of what it was formerly owing to the acute depression prevailing. He proposed that the Free State Government should hold itself liable for the second moiety of the rates by increasing the agricultural grant.

Mr. Martin Sheehan seconded the resolution.

NEED OF RELIEF.

Mr. George Bennett, T.D., said that they all agreed that the farmers were, so to speak, "down and out," but they differed as to the causes and the remedies. He was in full cympathy with the resolution, as he held that something should be done for agricultural relief during the present winter.

Mr. Crowley, T.D., said that the only way in which they could help to remove the economic depression was by the farmers fully organising and pressing forward their claims.

Mr. B. Laffan, ex-Chairman of the Limerick County Council, said that he did not see how they could keep politics out of any farmers' organisation. What power, he asked, did the farmers ever possess except through politics? Now, after all the promises, the farmers were in 1930 a helpless lot and the laughing stock of the world. He would advise the farmers not to join any union, but to remain on the ditch and let those two political parties fight it out between them, as they seemed determined to do. Then the farmers could come in their thousands off the ditches and swamp these political parties at a general election.

Mr. Laffan then left the meeting.

The Chairman regretted his departure, and said that, no matter what Mr. Laffan stated, they all agreed that there was never a greater necessity for union among the farmers.

The resolution was adopted, and a working committee was appointed for the county.

IRISH HUNTS AND FOREIGN FORAGE.

REPLIES TO LETTER FROM GRAIN GROWERS' ASSOCIATION.

The Irish Grain Growers' Association has received replies to a letter on the subject of foreign oats, from which the following are extracts:—

Tipperary Foxhounds.—"No member of the Tipperary Hunt has knowingly bought foreign oats, hay or straw. In the event of your Executive Committee knowing of anyone in this hunt doing so, please furnish names."

Scarteen Black and Tans.—"Any hunting person who buys foreign fodder is not playing the game, and is in duty bound to the Irish farmer to buy his oats, hay and straw. All fodder used in this hunt is bought from the home farmer."

Nenagh Harriers.—"I am quite in agreement with your letter, and will impress on all hunting with me the necessity of using home-grown forage. I would go further, if possible, and stop all dealings with firms importing or handling German or Russian oats."

Thurles and Kilshane Foxhounds.—"Resolution of Hunt Committee:—'That this meeting condemns the use of imported oats by hunting people, and confirms that none are used by members of Thurles and Kilshane Hunt.'"

Westmeath Harriers.—"I never used a grain of foreign oats. I buy from farmers around this district oats, also hay and straw, and find it better and cheaper feeding."

Island Foxhounds (Wexford).—"Be assured that our best efforts will be used to prevent the use of anything but home-grown."

Some other replies, not considered fully satisfactory, are the subject of negotiations.

ASSOCIATION FOOTBALL.

THE FREE STATE LEAGUE.

VALUABLE POINTS LOST BY LEADERS.

GROUNDS UNPLAYABLE.

Shamrock Rovers and Shelbourne each dropped a valuable point last Saturday in the Free State League, and thus the competition becomes more interesting than ever.

Brideville maintained the improvement that set in at Cork, and in their match with Rovers at Harold's Cross Park were certainly not lucky in making a draw of it at one all; indeed, it was a fortunate escape for the visitors. Dundalk, at Shelbourne Park, literally snatched a point from Shelbourne, many being of the opinion that short time was played, with Shelbourne pressing heavily; but there is only one timekeeper in a football match.

Usually "Soccer" teams can stand almost anything in the way of bad weather and ground conditions, but the elements were so trying yesterday, and the grounds in such a deplorable state, that the referees, in all three matches, brought them to an abrupt close.

BRIDEVILLE MAINTAIN THEIR IMPROVEMENT.

A LUCKY DRAW FOR ROVERS.

BRIDEVILLE ... 2 SHAMROCK ROVERS 2

At Harold's Cross last Saturday, Quinlan and Gibbons scored for Brideville, and Byrne and Kinsella for Shamrock Rovers.

Brideville should have won easily. They held a lead of two goals until seven minutes from the end, when Shamrock Rovers staged a surprising recovery through sheer determination. They did not, however, deserve the point, as throughout Brideville were much more methodical, and, had their forwards accepted a reasonable number of their chances, Shamrock Rovers would have had a bad day.

There were many dull periods, but the first half was interesting. Brideville dominated the play, their half-backs keeping a tight hold on the spasmodic movements of the opposing forwards; but the Brideville backs did not last well. They were erratic, too, and conceded two corner kicks, from which the late goals came.

On the whole, however, it was a fine performance by Brideville to make Shamrock Rovers look, as they were, inferior. The forwards were sprightly and combined well. The most useful were the wing men, Gibbons and Smith being always a force. Quinlan was a dashing leader, but his ball control and shooting were not good. Gaskins and [illegible] would have done better had they not lagged behind, leaving Quinlan alone when he most required help. Gaskins has a reputation as a good shot, but he did not get in one of note.

Fine play by their half-backs was a substantial factor in Brideville's effectiveness. O'Reilly was the cleverest. O'Callaghan was a sound goalkeeper. The great weakness of both teams was at full-back. All four made difficulties for themselves, while their tackling was faulty. Shamrock Rovers' forwards were disappointing. Their forwards were [illegible] without accomplishing much. Gallagher was [illegible] in a half-back line that played below form. Maddocks brought off one great save immediately before the change in his team's favour. That remarkable clearance at full length was the brightest incident in the game.

Shamrock Rovers—Maddocks; Hyland, Burke; Kinsella, Gallagher; Golding, Moore, Byrne, Sloan.

HONOURS EVEN AT SHELBOURNE PARK.

THE FINAL WHISTLE SAVES DUNDALK.

SHELBOURNE .... 1 DUNDALK 1

At Shelbourne Park last Saturday, M'Millan for Shelbourne and Berry for Dundalk were the scorers.

Shelbourne were unlucky, as they had been pressing hard, and seemed almost certain to score the deciding goal when the whistle went for full-time. As against that, however, Dundalk were by no means fortunate in having a goal awarded against them following a corner kick, as their goalkeeper, M'Mullan, seemed to be unfairly hampered by a Shelbourne forward when the former attempted a clearance, and the ball reached M'Millan, who breasted it into the net.

That score came twelve minutes after the interval, and Dundalk's equalising goal fifteen minutes from the finish.

It was an uneventful game, play for the most part being patchy and devoid of really bright football. Shelbourne's forward line was not a well balanced one, and except Salisbury, who sent in some perfect centres, and got through an amount of good work on the left wing, and M'Millan, who played a sound game all through, the line were not good, M'Grillen on the other flank losing at least two splendid opportunities by wild shooting. Paton, Byrne and Chatton were sound in defence.

Dundalk's forwards were speedy, but they, too, often misjudged passes from their halves, and lost chances. The feature of the visitors' game was the fine defensive work of their full-backs, M'Keown and M'Diarmid, who repeatedly broke up Shelbourne's attacks, and set their own forwards in motion. Howieson, in Shelbourne's attack, wrenched a muscle, and was little better than a passenger for a considerable part of the game.

Shelbourne—Diffen; Paton, Byrne; Thomas, Chatton, Glavey; M'Grillen, M'Millan, Hair, Howieson, Salisbury.

Dundalk—M'Mullan; M'Keown, M'Diarmid; [illegible]owey, Reed, Johnstone; Berry, M'Cahill, Stewart, M'Court, Donnelly.

MATCHES ABANDONED THROUGH STRESS OF WEATHER.

CORK .... 1 ST. JAMES'S GATE 0

At Iveagh grounds yesterday, Blair had scored for Cork, who were playing in the teeth of the gale, when the referee stopped play after thirty-seven minutes owing to the severity of the conditions.

DRUMCONDRA .... 0 DOLPHIN 0

There was no score in the match between Drumcondra and Dolphin at Tolka Park yesterday up to the interval, when the referee decided to abandon the game owing to the heavy rainfall.

BRAY UNKNOWNS ... 2 JACOBS 0

This match had to be abandoned at half-time owing to the inclement conditions. Bray Unknowns were leading by 2 goals to nil, the scorers being [illegible]re and Cullen.

THE IRISH LEAGUE.

Defeating Cliftonville by five goals to two at the [illegible] Belfast, last Saturday, Glentoran strengthened their position at the top of the Irish League table, with Distillery being beaten at Celtic Park, Glentoran have a lead of three points over Celtic and Distillery, with Linfield a point behind. The [illegible] won easily at Newry by 5-1, Bambrick scoring four goals, including the "hat trick." [illegible] won their first away match when they got [illegible] only goal against Derry City. Bangor moved [illegible] the bottom by reason of their victory over [illegible]ne, and the winners after the game transferred their Welsh full back, Ben Ellis, to Motherwell. Ballymena divided points with Glenavon.

LEINSTER LEAGUE GAMES.

DOLPHIN "B" ..... 2 UNIVERSITY COLL. 1

At Dolphin Park last Saturday, Hand (penalty) and [illegible]eves scored for Dolphin and O'Dea for the [illegible]ty.

It was a ding-dong struggle. University had the best of the exchanges in the first [illegible], during which splendid work by Doherty, [illegible] and McGahon kept play for the greater part of the time in the Dolphin half. The forwards, however, were patchy, and O'Connell, on the left wing, was often at fault with his passes, nullifying an amount of good work by [illegible]er Honohan. O'Dea was clever at centre, but Dempsey was selfish, and the line, as a whole, was seldom well together. This weakness, and the resolute defence by the Dolphin full-backs and Beatty, confined the College margin to [illegible] the interval. Dolphin were the better [illegible] the second half, and the 'Varsity goal [illegible] narrow escapes. The home halves were [illegible] than in the first period, and while the forwards had a fair share of the play, Dolphin's [illegible], particularly Hand and Kinnear, were the most enterprising at close quarters.

Dolphin—McCormack; Green, Beatty; J. [illegible] Hampson, G. Blakeley; Kinnear, Harris, [illegible]es, O'Brien.

University College—Crilly; Sullivan, Doherty; [illegible]rray, McGahon; O'Connell, Honohan, [illegible]psey, Donaghy.

DRUMCONDRA ...... 3 DUBLIN UNIV. 2

At Tolka Park last Saturday. Scorers for Drumcondra, E. Byrne (2) and Cameron; for Dublin University, Kennedy (2).

In a fast and even match Dublin University showed welcome improvement, and, by holding the Drumcondra side to a goal, did uncommonly well. Indeed, the visitors were distinctly unlucky not to get away with the points, as on the [illegible] play the students were worth a division. The presence of MacD. Stewart from centre-half to left full-back strengthened the University side considerably. If Trinity can retain [illegible] form for the remainder of the season [illegible] should follow.

The defences on both sides performed [illegible] the forwards missed likely chances [illegible] of finish, particularly the Dublin [illegible]. A little steadiness might have [illegible] a different complexion on the result. Hug[illegible] failed to trap a ball at the crucial [illegible] cost his side of a certain score. [illegible] was the most enterprising forward, [illegible] the outcome of clever work by [illegible] who moved up into the forward line. [illegible] goal-keeper, marred a good display [illegible] a long shot of Cameron's to slip [illegible] hands. Conway and Ward were an [illegible] full-backs for Drumcondra. The [illegible] careful game and assisted their [illegible] and from E. Byrne was the pick.

University—Coulter; McCormick MacD. [illegible]d, Greer, Dr. Thornton; Huggard, [illegible]y, Chambers, Harrison.

Drumcondra—[illegible]lynn; Conway, Ward; Cameron, [illegible] S. Byrne, Drumm, E. Byrne, [illegible].

TO-DAY'S INTERNATIONAL AT SHEFFIELD.

The match between England and Ireland will be played at Sheffield.

MOTOR CYCLING.

A REAL TEST OF ROUGH-RIDING.

WOODS' GREAT FEAT AT ATHY.

CHAMPIONSHIP HELD IN A GALE.

The Rough-Riders' Championship of the Motor Cycle Union of Ireland was decided yesterday under the auspices of the Athy Club, the title being the chief award in connection with the fifth annual Athy "scramble." It would be impossible to imagine worse conditions than those which prevailed during the time the race was in progress. A gale of hurricane force blew across the grounds of Kilkea Castle, at Mullacreenan, near Castledermot, where the event was held, by permission of Lady Eva Fitzgerald.

Rain fell in torrents, and at the time fixed for the start of the race it seemed quite impossible to bring the event to issue. A postponement of an hour was agreed to, but at the end of that time the weather was even worse than at the official hour of starting. It was decided to proceed with the race, and half a dozen riders were sent away under conditions which suggested that few, if any, of them would be able to cover the twenty-four miles. C. H. Manders had to stand down, as he found it impossible to make a circuit of the course owing to his machine being fitted with ordinary tyres.

The race gave Stanley Woods another opportunity of showing his remarkable ability in a contest of this kind. He dominated the proceedings from start to finish, and the ease with which he won may be indicated by stating that he had finished, changed into dry clothes and had a meal before the second man completed the course. M. Townsend, of Carlow, who was second, was over 35 minutes behind Woods. Woods did approximately 17 miles in the first hour. By that time the only riders still in the race were Townsend and W. Kehoe, of Carlow, and they were so far behind that only an accident to Woods would have enabled them to get near him. Woods then settled down to a fifteen miles an hour average, and ran out an easy winner.

R. B. Le Fanu did a couple of laps before retiring, and Yates, the Athy rider, did three. The other competitor, B. Connor, of Kilkenny, gave the best display of rough-riding after Woods, and held second position until he retired at half-distance.

The times of the three competitors who completed the course were as under:—

	H.	M.	S.
1—Stanley Woods, 490 c.c. Norton......	1	28	7
2—M. Townsend, 598 c.c. P. and M.....	2	3	16
3—W. Kehoe, 598 c.c. P. and M........	Not timed.

TALLAGHT CONFINED TRIAL.

The first of a series of three confined trials of the sporting type was held by the Tallaght and District Motor Cycle Club, on Saturday last, over a course of about 35 miles, in what has now come to be recognised as the trials country in the south-western section of the County Dublin. Included in the route were observed ascents of Red Gap near Rathcoole, Killinardin Hill and Moor, and the hairpins at the Farmyard and Bohernabreena. Overhead the conditions were favourable, but the heavy rain of the previous day rendered parts of the route very heavy, and many penalties were incurred on the observed sections. Nevertheless, of the 22 starters only four failed to complete the course.

Those who finished were:—R. E. Boothman, 249 c.c. Velocette; C. H. Manders, 198 c.c. Newmount; R. Craig, 249 c.c. Velocette; C. C. Ingram, 500 c.c. Douglas; B. Bouwie, 498 c.c. Scott; R. Nicholson, 490 c.c. Norton; J. Briggs, 248 c.c. Rex Acme; H. Armstrong, 499 c.c. Rudge; W. Woods, 348 c.c. Royal Enfield; R. Sharpe, 340 c.c. Rudge; D. Kendrick, 490 c.c. Norton; F. O'Kelly, 499 c.c. AUSTRALIANS AT COLOMBO.

The Australian cricket team arrived at Colombo on Saturday, all fit and well. W. A. Oldfield described the statement that W. M. Woodfull, H. H. Ponsford, V. Y. Richardson and himself were retiring from cricket as sheer nonsense. Mr. Kelly, the manager of the team said that there was nothing wrong with English cricket. "There is plenty of young players there," he said, "and they should assert themselves very soon."

DUBLIN SEAMEN'S INSTITUTE.

GIFT DAYS AND SALE IN AID OF ITS FUNDS.

The annual gift days and sale of work in aid of the Dublin Seamen's Institute (the Missions to Seamen) concluded on Saturday in the Metropolitan Hall.

Sir Thomas Myles, who presided, said that they should remember that it was to the sailor that they owed their very existence, that it was the sailor who kept their tables supplied during the Great War, and co-operate to make the sale as great a success as possible.

The Rev. W. Popham Hosford (Superintendent for Ireland) addressed the meeting, and referred to the good work which the Dublin Institute and the missions to seamen were doing.

Mrs. Walter Baird, who declared the sale open, paid a tribute to the stallholders.

During the afternoon Mr. Sullivan's orchestra discoursed pleasing selections.

SCHOOLS AND HALLS.

In regard to hostels, sleeping accommodation is being specially organised by local committees in schools and suitable halls. The schools will be occupied until the Congress period, and time will not permit the making of plans for cubicle accommodation. The beds will consist of bed boards with battress, or canvas camp beds. They will be arranged, as in a dormitory, by a competent architect, to ensure an airy position, without dangerous draughts. The accommodation, necessarily a makeshift arrangement, will consist of bed, wash basin, etc. Each visitor should bring his own towel and soap.

In some cases the Hostel Committees are arranging for the supply of breakfasts on a coupon arrangement at a restaurant in the vicinity of the hostel. Christian Brothers and other religious will be assigned for the most part to hostels organised by Christian Brothers, etc. Lady visitors who elect to stay in hostels will be assigned for the most part to those being organised by Communities of Nuns. No hostel will be opened prior to mid-day on the 18th of June, 1932; some may open later. Some will close on the morning of the 27th June, 1932; the remainder on the morning of the 29th June, 1932.

For men and youths only there will be erected a number of encampments in or near Dublin. They will be organised and supervised by the Irish National Army, by kind permission of the Minister of Defence. In addition to these camps there may be others established by large groups of men or youths who will provide their own equipment. Any organisation desiring facilities in this direction should apply to the Congress Committee, supplying, at the same time, a letter of reference from ecclesiastic authority in the organising centre.

ALLOTTING THE ACCOMMODATION.

Accommodation in Dublin and district (the area within the radius of the Dublin United Tramway and 'bus system) will be allotted first. When that is filled the Committee will allot pilgrims to accommodation in Maynooth, Bray, Greystones, Malahide, Skerries, Balbriggan, Naas, Celbridge, Drogheda, Navan, Trim, Kells, Kildare, Curragh Camp, Newbridge, Wicklow, Rathdrum. These towns are from 20 to 30 miles from Dublin. If necessary, after the accommodation in them is allotted, the Committee will proceed to allot available accommodation in the towns of Ardee, Dundalk, Dunleer, Mullingar, Carlow, etc.

U.S. MARKETS.

STOCKS CLOSE WEAK.

REUTER'S TELEGRAM.

NEW YORK, Saturday.

Stocks at the opening ruled weak, and large scale liquidation again poured into the market, but impressive resistance developed and losses were moderate. The market appeared to be still governed by conditions within itself; for week-end business news was scarcely of a character to influence the market either way. Some observers were encouraged by the fact that the decline had carried representative issues to a point where average yields exceeded five per cent., against an average yield of below four per cent. for high grade bonds. Normally such disparity would bring a substantial amount of investment buying into stocks, but nervousness over dividends tended to check buying. Talk of a possible reduction in General Motors' dividend was promptly discredited by President Sloan, who stated that he and his associates are confident that a regular payment will be made. The close was weak. Dupont and American Waterworks rose 1, an dAmerican Can, Union Pacific, North American, Vanadium, National Cash Register, and New York Central declined from 2 to 4 points. Government Bonds steady, Railroad Bonds easier. The day's sales totalled 2,156,000 shares.

SWORDS ACCIDENT.

CATTLE DROVER'S DEATH.

Dr. Louis A. Byrne, Dublin City Coroner, opened an inquest in the Mater Hospital on Saturday on the body of Thomas Caulfield (35), Dominick street, a cattle drover, who was knocked down by a Great Northern Railway motor 'bus in the main street, Swords, last Thursday evening.

It was stated that after being knocked down by the 'bus Caulfield was believed to have been run over by a motor car which was following the 'bus.

Evidence of identification having been given,

Dr. Coffey, House Surgeon, Mater Hospital, said that a post mortem examination which he had made revealed very serious injuries, including fractured ribs. Death was due to cardiac failure following the injuries received.

Replying to the Coroner, the witness said that he would not say that a wheel passed over the body.

As criminal proceedings are being taken against the driver of the 'bus and the driver of the motor car, the Coroner adjourned the inquest.

Mr. Sydney C. Matthews (Messrs. Hoey and Denning) appeared for the Great Northern Railway Company and the driver of the 'bus. Mr. Sean Ryan (Messrs. James O'Connor and Co.) represented the driver of the motor car. Mr. M'Cormack; and Superintendent O'Halloran conducted the inquiry on behalf of the Civic Guard

ASSOCIATION FOR PREVENTION OF INTEMPERANCE.

The usual monthly meeting of the Executive of the Irish Association for the Prevention of Intemperance was held in the Boardroom, 4 Eustace street, Dublin, Mr. Frederick T. Eason, Chairman, presiding. There were also present:—The Rev. T. W. O'Ryan, P.P.; Mrs. M. G. Lindsay, and Messrs. J. Doyle, T. Harrison and W. R. Wigham.

It was reported that since the last meeting of the Executive the Rev. L. H. Cullen, a representative on the committee of the Methodist Church, had passed away suddenly. It was proposed by the Rev. T. W. O'Ryan, P.P., seconded by Mrs. Lindsay, and passed in silence—"That the Executive wish to place on record their appreciation of the services of the Rev. L. H. Cullen to the cause of temperance." The Secretary was directed to convey the sympathy of the Executive to his wife and family. As there is now no direct representative from the Methodist Church on the Executive, the Secretary was instructed to write to that body and ask that they appoint one or more of their members to assist the work of the Association. Detailed information was received regarding the annual meetings of the United Kingdom Alliance to be held in Manchester next Wednesday. Three members of the Executive hope to attend them—i.e., the Rev. T. W. O'Ryan, P.P.; Mrs. A. E. Eager and Mr. W. R. Wigham.

FOREIGN OATS IN FREE STATE.

DIFFICULTIES OF A TARIFF.

GOVERNMENT T.D. AND THE PROBLEM.

The question of tariffs on agricultural produce entering the Irish Free State was dealt with by General Sean MacEoin, T.D., at a Cumann na nGaedheal meeting at Clonegal, County Carlow, yesterday afternoon.

General MacEoin referred to the importation of Russian oats, and said that there was no likelihood that any great quantity would be imported that would or could affect the price, except in the Dublin or Cork markets. Supposing £1,000,000 worth came in and that it was sold at 4s. per cwt., should they put a tariff on it? They imported a considerable quantity of palm nut cake and meal and equivalent foods which had exactly the same value for live stock feeding as oats. The imports of maize and maize meal amounted to £4,000,000 worth. It was the tillage farmer who bought palm nut cake and maize, and by giving it to his cows, hens and pigs, etc., he makes a bigger profit on eggs, butter, beef and bacon. Any action by the State to increase the price of these raw materials and thereby lessen the profits of the farmer would thus be nothing short of madness.

"A FALLACY."

For every one farmer that sold oats there were ten farmers who produced oats themselves for feeding purposes, and then bought more oats when necessary, or palm nut cake, maize or maize meal. Why, therefore, should they penalise the larger number of farmers who did most of the tillage of the country and produced most of the finished articles, and consequently employed more labour, in the interests of the smaller number who produced raw material and sold it?

It was a fallacy to say that large quantities of imported oats would reduce the amount of land tilled; for cheap raw material would induce the farmer who was producing butter, eggs, and bacon to produce more and increase his tillage area. He agreed that the effect on the farmer who produced oats for sale would be to compel him to cut down his acreage or feed his oats, or change his system. It was essential, however, to continue the production of grain in the same quantities as at present, if the same amount of roots were to be produced.

SURPLUS PRODUCE.

Having quoted figures to show the export surpluses in respect of eggs, poultry, butter, and milk products, bacon and bacon products, beef and live stock, he said that even with absolute prohibition of all imports of these commodities they would still have a surplus of £28,000,000 of these products. That meant that, having supplied the home market exclusively with home products, they would have this amount of goods left on their hands, and, therefore, failure to hold their export markets would mean a consequent decrease in production.

Dealing with the suggestion that a tariff on imported articles would increase the price to the farmer on the home market, he said that a tariff on bacon, for instance, would not increase the price of Irish bacon by one farthing, because the different exporters in the Free State, in the event of the slightest tendency for Irish bacon to rise in price, would keep some of their surplus at home and outbid each other for the higher price, thereby bring the price down immediately. The same applied equally to beef, poultry, or eggs.

"There is only one agricultural tariff which," he said, "could conceivably do any benefit to the Irish farmer, and that is a tariff on butter and milk products. We export £5,000,000 worth of those products, and we import £500,000 worth.

TARIFF AND PRICES.

"It is true that we have an export surplus of £4,500,000 worth, but that surplus is marketed between April and December, and from December to April home production is scarcely able to satisfy home consumption. In that case a tariff would increase the price during December, January and February. It would probably have the effect of steadying the price at the opening of the butter season, and this would be a distinct advantage to the dairy farmer but an advantage at the expense of the consumer. We are not, however, concerned for the moment with the fact that such a tariff, like every tariff, helps one section at the expense of another, but with the value of protection to the farmer."

Concluding, he said that no tariff would be imposed without consideration by the Tariff Commission, and the tariff he was speaking about was one he would like to see examined by the Tariff Commission. All other agricultural tariffs would only do harm.

Subsequently, a private conference of farmers from the district was held in the parochial hall, and was attended by the speakers.

The Rev. Fr. Mooney, P.P., Clonegal, presided.

GRAMAPHONE RECITAL.

There was a fairly large audience at the Olympia Theatre, Dublin, for the first of a series of gramaphone recitals conducted by the H.M.V. Gramaphone Company. Many in the gathering showed their pleasure at the return visit of Mr. Leslie Burgess, whose management of previous recitals had left pleasant memories. For Saturday's recital a very entertaining and varied programme had been arranged, representative of the extensive output of the company.

The value of the new electric recording was very definitely marked in the clarity of reproduction, and the extraordinary strides which the science of recording has made was shown by the success of a number of interesting demonstrations. For instance, Mr. Burgess supplied piano accompaniments to a couple of songs by Peter Dawson. There was also a fascinating demonstration of synchronised playing, five machines being turned on together in different items, and producing an accumulative effect which was surprisingly pleasing. Not the least entertaining of the many records played were those of the overture, "Ruy Blas," and "L'Arlesienne Suite."

Miss M. J. Robinson, Ranelly, OMAGH, was appointed matron of Omagh Workhouse by the Omagh Board of Guardians at its meeting last Saturday. There were six applicants for the position.

HIBERNIAN HALL DESTROYED.

DARING OUTRAGE IN COUNTY ARMAGH.

Exciting scenes were witnessed at Annaghugh, Loughgall, near Armagh, on Saturday morning, when the inhabitants of the district were awakened by the sound of rifle and revolver firing.

The erection of a hall in the district for the Ancient Order of Hibernians was apparently the scene of the disturbance, as this hall has been blown up on two previous occasions. Since the building operations were recommenced the hall has been guarded by police during the absence of the workmen.

RIFLE SHOTS AND MASKED MEN.

Early on Saturday morning one of the police on guard heard footsteps approach in the darkness, and shouted "Hands up!" firing his revolver as a warning. His challenge was the signal for an outburst of rifle fire, to which the two police on guard replied.

About a dozen masked men then appeared, and surrounded the two policemen, whom they overpowered and trussed up by tying their hands behind their backs to a fence. A ringleader warned the police under penalty of being shot not to move for half an hour. Notwithstanding the revolver and rifle-firing no person was injured.

WALLS PULLED DOWN.

The raiders, who numbered about a hundred altogether, with crowbars and other implements, then proceeded to demolish the new building, which they levelled to the ground

After a time the two policemen escaped and returned to Loughgall Police Barracks, and reported the outrage to the sergeant in charge. All the available men in the barracks were turned out and scoured the country, but under cover of darkness the raiders had made good their escape. The police, however, are hopeful of making arrests, but up to a late hour yesterday afternoon no arrests had taken place.

The Loughgall police are of the opinion that the twelve masked men who attacked them are strangers to the district. Only one of them spoke, and gave orders in an accent which was new to the locality.

After the hall had been last blown up, Mr. Joseph Devlin, M.P., referred to the matter in the Northern Ireland Parliament, and since then the building operations have been under a police guard.

TIMBER-WORK BURNED.

Our Armagh Correspondent states that, not satisfied with levelling the concrete building, the raiders, by means of hay saturated with petrol, burned all the timber which had been used in the hall.

The last outrage took place just a year ago, when the hall was blown to pieces with gelignite. For the damage on the first occasion £170 compensation was awarded by the County Court Judge. For the second outrage the damage was estimated at £250, and over £200 compensation was granted.

JACK DIAMOND

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

NEW YORK, Saturday.

The police to-day arranged for the transfer of Jack Diamond from the City Hospital in which he has lain to the hospital on Welfare Island, formerly Blackwell's Island, in the East River.

A crowd of five hundred gathered to see Diamond, whose face was hidden by a towel, carried to the ambulance which was to take him to the hospital on Welfare Island.

Three motor cars filled with detectives escorted the ambulance. The fear that enemies might be planning a second attack was not proving beneficial to the other patients in the hospital, and the directors requested his removal.
